Orange Jury Indicts Middletown Judge On Assault Charges

Grand Jury Cites Police Chief of Port Jervis in Gaming Aid

Goshen, N. Y., Sept. 18 (AP)—An Orange county grand jury today indicted a Middletown, N. Y., judge on assault charges. It also accused the acting police chief of Port Jervis, N. Y., of permitting open gambling, but made no criminal charges against him.

The findings, climaxing an investigation of several weeks directed by District Attorney Clare J. Hoyt, were handed up to State Supreme Court Judge Elbert T. Gallagher.

City Judge J. Allan Ballman of Middletown, was charged with first degree assault for allegedy threatening to shoot his former wife, Gladys, in her home last June 28.

Blamed for Gambling

The grand jury made no criminal charge against Port Jervis' acting Police Chief John J. Powrie, but it filed a presentment (official report) blaming him for gambling in that city.

"The presence of open and notorious gambling in the city of Port Jervis can be attributed only to the failure of the Port Jervis police department to carry out its duty," the presentment said.

"The responsibility for this situation may include others than the acting chief, but so long as he is chief of the department, the principal responsibility is his."

The presentment said that Powrie's retention as acting police chief or "in any other capacity in the police department of the city of Port Jervis would seem unwarranted."

Action Is Proposed

Although the grand jury said it did not have sufficient evidence for a criminal indictment against police or gamblers, it recommended that a transcript of testimony it heard concerning enforcement of gambling laws at Port Jervis be forwarded to the Port Jervis mayor and Common Council "for appropriate administrative action."

Judge Gallagher said he would study the matter before signing the necessary order to carry out the jury's recommendation.

Detailing one alleged instance of police-gambler connivance, the grand jury said the evidence indicated that "one, Charles Herting, moved to Port Jervis from Brooklyn where he had admittedly engaged in bookmaking and that he had several conversations" with Powrie about whether "he could

Red Cross Aided With $13,052 in Early Spring Flood

Bulk of Sum Was Spent for Building, Repair; Furnishings Cost $2,484.39

Walter T. Tremper, disaster chairman of the Ulster County Chapter, American Red Cross today reported a total of $13,052.29 was spent to give assistance in the area flood disaster of last April.

In letters to Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk and Sheriff Cluett Schantz, Tremper said: "As Red Cross is approaching the closing period of the flood disaster of April, 1951, we feel that your offices and the public are entitled to statistical information. In closing our books we find that we have assited 25 families in the following classifications of relief:"

Food, clothing and maintenance	$ 163.33
Building and repair	10,342.57
Household furnishings	2,484.39
Medical and nursing service	19.00
Family service	43.00
Total expenditure	$13,052.29

We are happy to state that letters of appreciation have been received from those whom we assisted.

Appeal Plan Is Announced By Attorney

Corporation Counsel James G. Connelly said at 1:30 p. m. today that he had received by special delivery the opinion of Supreme Court Justice Herbert Hamm denying the application of Attorney Frank Martocci to have the city clerk and corporation counsel accept the police-firemen pay boost referendum petition and certify it for the ballot in the November election.

Martocci said he would appeal the decision and fight the issue "through the courts."

Judge Hamm in his opinion explaining his denial of the Martocci application said that the proposed local law as outlined in the police-firemen petition "leaves solely and entirely to the Common Council the problem of finding the sources of revenue sufficient to pay the increased salaries."

'Mere Fatuity'

To hold "that the proposed local law contains a plan within the meaning of the amendment would reduce the amendment to a mere fatuity," the opinion said.

In answer to Martocci's contention that the Common Council's vote in rejecting the proposal constituted an acceptance of the original petition which was followed by an additional petition, the judge said it was "immaterial" because the Common Council was under no statutory or other duty to act on the petition."

Prior to 1951 it was up to the Common Council under the City Home Rule Law to accept or reject such salary proposals but under the new amendment the law requires that a definite plan for raising the required money be submitted with any plan or petition seeking salary increases.

County Receives $615,355 for Aid

Ulster county received $615,355 of the $65,815,997 distributed yesterday by the state comptroller's office in state aid for education to cities, villages and school districts.

Of the total $218,200 was allocated to Kingston, $42,300 to Saugerties and $354,855 to supervisory districts.

Yesterday's payment was the second for education purposes since the fiscal year started April 1, Comptroller J. Raymond McGovern said.

Johnston Warns 'Beef and Metals' Of U.S. Crackdown

Government Might Employ Tax Law to Prosecute for Violations, He Says

New York, Sept. 18 (AP)—Economic Stabilizer Eric Johnston says the attitude of "beef and metals" toward price controls is almost "deliberate defiance," and the government plans to crack down if the situation continues.

Johnston, former president of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce, made the statement in addressing 1,500 persons last night at a dinner meeting in connection with the 74th annual convention of the American Bar Association.

He said a recent amendment gives President Truman power to strike out income tax deductions

Many Burned In House Fire

Colesville, Md., Sept. 18 (AP)—Flames raced through a home for the aged today and burned three persons to death, the owner of the home reported.

Firemen earlier had reported three bodies recovered and others visible in the burning structure 15 miles north of Washington, D. C.

However, Mrs. Jessie Proctor Jolliffe told a reporter by telephone only three of her patients had died in the flames.

She was sobbing and after giving that report hung up, saying "I can't talk."

She was reached by telephone at "Mrs. Jolliffe's Home for the Aged"—a two and one-half story frame building.

A. Forton Thomas, director of the Montgomery county departments of inspection, said there were 59 patients in the home at the time of the fire.

At least ten persons were taken to the Washington Sanitarium and a nurse said "some of them are in bad condition."

Penny Card Nears Death In Congress

Bill in House Requires Boosts in First Three Classes, No Change in Letter Cost

Magazines Raised

Sixty Per Cent Increase Over Three Years for Periodicals

Washington, Sept. 18 (AP)—The House seemed likely to agree today with President Truman that three cents should remain the cost of mailing a letter.

But the penny post card appeared doomed to memory land.

A bill calling for an overall increase of $138,400,000 in postal rates was before the House, with passage expected tomorrow.

Product of the House postoffice committee, it calls for boosts in first, second and third class rates, but no change in the present cost of mailing an ordinary letter.

A bill passed by the Senate—designed to add $400,000,000 to postal revenues annually—would raise the postage on a letter to four cents. That would make the main defference between estimated yields of the two measures.

Both bills are intended to help whittle down the postoffice department's chronic operating deficit, estimated to exceed $500,000,000 this fisccal year.

Unless the House changes its measure to provide more revenue than is now contemplated, the postal department deficit might actually be increased at this session of Congress.

Senate Bill Ahead

For, following thhe rate bill, the House will consider a Senate-approved bill to give postal employes a pay raise estimated to add $200,000,000 to the annual cost of the department.

The House bill provides for an eventual 60 per cent increase in rates for mailing newspapers and magazines. The raise would be spread over three years, at 20 per cent of the present rate each year. The Senate bill would make the same hike for magazines, but would hold the increase for mailing newspapers to 30 per cent, over three years.

No change is provided in either bill in the present law permitting free mailing of publications in their own county. These are mainly weekly newspapers.

Airmail Unchanged

The House measure would leave unchanged the present six cents an ounce rate for airmail. The Senate voted to raise this to eight cents.

Both bills would double the present one-cent rate on postcards

Pilots Help Infantry in Swift Drive

15 Miles Are Won

Advance in Two Waves of Eastern Fighting Is Productive

U. S. Eighth Army Headquarters, Korea, Sept. 18 (AP)—An allied armored force with infantry support launched a surprise attack on the dormant western front at dawn today. It was stopped by firmly dug-in Reds.

The allied doughboys and tank crews fought all day in the mud and a steady drizzle in their unsuccessful effort to gain a hill mass west of Chorwon. Chorwon is the southwestern point of the Reds' old iron triangle troop assembly area. The town is 18 miles north of Parallel 38.

The Reds held grimly to bunkers and trenches on the hill mass. Communist mortar and artillery fire, anti-tank guns and mines helped check the allied thrust.

About 400 to 500 Red troops were dug in on the hills as the tank column surged up a road in a surprise attack on the Communists from the rear.

Infantry Hits Slope

Allied infantrymen hit the slopes from the south at the same time.

They reached a spot only a few yards from the crest of one hill but were forced back by enemy fire and the slippery condition of the hillside.

American and South African fighter pilots hurled fire bombs on the height in an effort to dislodge the Reds. Heavy allied artillery and mortar fire was poured on the Communist foxholes.

Then the doughboys tried again. They met with no better luck as the Chinese defenders rushed in replacements from nearby hilltop positions.

Elsewhere along the western front, allied patrols probed beyond the United Nations line with little enemy contact. One hill southwest of Chorwon was occupied against no opposition.

Sharp Clashes Flare

Sharp local clashes flared along the mountainous eastern Korea war-front Tuesday.

Allied troops captured one peak with a five-mile view into enemy territory.

They won the commanding height after a savage three-hour hand-to-hand fight against bitterly resisting Reds.

The hard-fighting United Nations forces swept nearly three miles Tuesday in the general area of the north-south Soyang river. Eighth Army sources did not pinpoint location of the peak.

The allies, using bayonets and flamethrowers, have advanced 12 to 15 miles northward in two waves of tough hill fighting in eastern Korea.

Began in August

The first limited offensive attack began in mid-August from an allied line that then was 20 to 25 miles deep in North Korea. That drive carried four to seven miles in two weeks. It cost the Reds their punchbowl assembly area.

The allies halted for regrouping, then shoved off on a second limited offensive Sept. 9.

A frontline officer in the Soyang river valley said "we are pretty sure we have knocked out about two North Korean divisions on this sector alone." His estimate covered only one section of the

Labor Federation Will Take Own Stand On U.S. Congressional Elections in 1952

San Francisco, Sept. 18 (AP)—The American Federation of Labor plans to take its stand on 1952 congressional elections without regard to the attitude of other labor organizations.

The AFL's Labor League for Political Education, meeting at the federation's annual convention, last night drew plans for a strictly independent campaign—as opposed to the AFL-CIO unity program which featured the 1950 elections.

Today the delegates took time off from the convention business for sight seeing.

The league's administrative committee, in rejecting the 1950 CIO-AFL publicity campaign, declared:

"One lesson that we should have learned ..... is that labor can often get too much public credit for supporting a particular candidate. ..... in some instances we only played into the hands of our enemies, who pointed to our own publicity and said, 'see, the labor bosses have teamed up on me.'"

However, if the Education League has its way, the AFL's political effort won't be weakened. The committee said it must redouble its efforts to get out the votes for candidates friendly to labor.

"There is no question," it reported, "that we have the votes to elect a friendly Congress in 1952. But those votes are purely potential. Registration drives must be commenced wherever they are not being carried on now."

Wherever possible, the committee said, our leagues should start exerting influences on both parties to put up good candidates.

The committee set as its goal for 1952, the election of a Congress which will repeal the Taft-Hartley Labor Law.

And it warned AFL members that they face a tough campaign "character assassination and outright misrepresentation"—backed by huge expenditures of money.

The AFL's campaign will be directed especially at the big city vote.

The committee said:

"Our task in both the southern Democratic primaries and in the general elections in the north will be to keep the city working man's attention on the bread-and-butter issues and not on the false issues and misrepresentations that our opposition will raise."

As an example, the committee cited Senator Knowland (R.-Calif.).

Senator Knowland, it said, "has convinced many that he is a leading authority on how to lick the Commies in Asia.

"But," the committee declared, "talk is cheap. What the league must do is to get the eyes of California voters on Knowland's record of action."

It listed the Senator's record as follows:

"Knowland voted wrong ten times out of 11 votes. * * * he voted against both economic and military aid to Korea. He voted against the Voice of America. He voted against point four. * * * he voted against price controls last year and against rollbacks this year. He voted against troops for Europe and against war contract renegotiation."

The committee said that Knowland deliberately seeks publicity on foreign issues to "smoke screen his anti-American domestic record."

Hurley Real Estate Sales Take Place; Kingstonians Buy

Van Tassel, Rich, Vidal, Bower, Lockwood Residences Are in Transfers

Back on October 17, 1777, many residents of the present city of Kingston area fled from town and sought refuge in Old Hurley.

That flight was caused by an now historic incident, the burning of Kingston by the British under General John Vaughan Royal Army.

Today there appears to be under way another exodus from Kingston in favor of suburban Old Hurley hamlet. During the past few weeks several residents of Kingston have purchased properties in Hurley and there has been a "boom" in real estate there with several changes also taking place among the residents of Hurley.

Van Tassell Home Sold

Monday the residence property of John H. Van Tassell, John street druggist, was sold to Augustus J. Weishaupt of 188 Pine street. Weishaupt, an engineer for the New York Central Railroad, will take possession immediately. Harold W. O'Connor, broker who negotiated the sale, reported. This property is located at 24 Orchard street, Hurley.

Edmund R. Bower, Ulster County 4-H Club agent, has sold his residence property on Orchard street to Harry H. Silsby, of Silsby Motors, who presently resides at 408 Albany avenue. In turn Bower has purchased from Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Lockwood of Palenville the Lockwood property on Route 209 beyond Hurley and soon will move there. This property was rented for some time and was occupied by the Rev. J. Dean Dykstra of the Fair Street Reformed Church as a parsonage. This sale was negotiated by Richard F. Riseley.

Freeman Reporter Buys

John Warren, Freeman reporter who now resides on North Manor avenue, Kingston, has purchased the residence property of Joseph A. Vidal in Hurley on route 209 and Rosa Lane. This was formerly the Sutton property and was bought by Vidal, manager of the

Ellenville Store Suffers From Fire

More than 200 mattresses were ruined early today when fire swept the interior of the I. Abel and Son mattress factory on Center street in Ellenville.

Fire Chief Ben Litchrod said the fire damaged the wooden flooring, machinery and mattresses in a new concrete block factory building located behind Abel's Furniture Store at 88 Center street. Several rolls of congoleum rugs were also scorched, he said.

Cause of the fire has not been determined, the fire chief reported.

All of Ellenville's fire apparatus was called out by an alarm which sounded at 6:20 a. m. today. The fire was confined to the factory building and did not spread to the furniture store.

No accurate estimate of loss has been made, but it will run at least to "a few thousand dollars," Chief Litchrod said. Between 200 and 300 mattresses were destroyed by fire and water, he said. Some of the mattresses were of the expensive foam rubber type, he added.

Contrasted His Tired Station Wagon to 'Super's' Cars, So He Gave Up

Howalnd Spencer, former Ulster county "squire" of Krum Elbow, and critic of his former neighbor across the Hudson, the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt, in an interview published yesterday, denied that he had signed over his estate north of Highland to Father Divine to spite Roosevelt.

This revelation appeared in the society columns of the New York World Telegram and Sun under the by-line of Charles Ventura.

Infuriated Roosevelt

The newsman described Spencer as a "pixyish patrician, who infuriated the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt by signing over his Krum Elbow estate to Father Divine."

A 13-year silence on the subject was broken in the interview yesterday, Ventura said, and he quoted Spencer as saying, "The

Two Soldiers Are Given Suspended Prison Terms

Leroy Turner, Jr., 23, of Walden, and Robert Williams, 18, of New Paltz, both in the armed forces, were sentenced to terms of from 1½ to 3 years in Clinton State Prison at Dannemora Monday in County court when they changed a former innocent plea to one of guilty as indicted. Execution of sentence was suspended during the good behavior of the youths and they will be turned over to army authorities and dealt with according to military law.

Both were represented by Howard C. St. John who had been assigned by Judge Cashin to represent them.

It was charged the two had come home, whether on leave or AWOL, one issue which the army will determine, when it is alleged they took a Chevrolet car and went for a ride. Although their attorney told the court the lads had intended to return the car and were in fact on their way back to return the car when they were apprehended, a charge of grand larceny, second degree, was made.

There were two counts in the grand larceny indictment and the lads pleaded guilty to both charges. Sentences of from 1½ to 3 years were handed out under each count but the sentences were imposed to run concurrently.

Military warrants are awaiting in the sheriff's office for the lads and Judge Cashin after suspending execution of the sentences, directed they be held for the military authorities. Turner has had prior service in the air force, Wil-

Appeal Plan Is Announced By Attorney

Corporation Counsel James G. Connelly said at 1:30 p. m. today that he had received by special delivery the opinion of Supreme Court Justice Herbert Hamm denying the application of Attorney Frank Martocci to have the city clerk and corporation counsel accept the police-firemen pay boost referendum petition and certify it for the ballot in the November election.

Martocci said he would appeal the decision and fight the issue "through the courts."

Judge Hamm in his opinion explaining his denial of the Martocci application said that the proposed local law as outlined in the police-firemen petition "leaves solely and entirely to the Common Council the problem of finding the sources of revenue sufficient to pay the increased salaries."

Prior to 1951 it was up to the Common Council under the City Home Rule Law to accept or reject such salary proposals but under the new amendment the law requires that a definite plan for raising the required money be submitted with any plan or petition seeking salary increases.

During the past few weeks several residents of Kingston have purchased properties in Hurley and there has been a "boom" in real estate there with several changes also taking place among the residents of Hurley.

Van Tassell Home Sold

Monday the residence property of John H. Van Tassell, John street druggist, was sold to Augustus J. Weishaupt of 188 Pine street. Weishaupt, an engineer for the New York Central Railroad, will take possession immediately, Harold W. O'Connor, broker who negotiated the sale, reported. This property is located at 24 Orchard street, Hurley.

Edmund R. Bower, Ulster County 4-H Club agent, has sold his residence property on Orchard street to Harry H. Silsby, of Silsby Motors, who presently resides at 408 Albany avenue. In turn Bower has purchased from Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Lockwood of Palenville the Lockwood property on Route 209 beyond Hurley and soon will move there. This property was rented for some time and was occupied by the Rev. J. Dean Dykstra of the Fair Street Reformed Church as a parsonage. This sale was negotiated by Richard F. Riseley.

Freeman Reporter Buys

John Warren, Freeman reporter who now resides on North Manor avenue, Kingston, has purchased the residence property of Joseph A. Vidal in Hurley on route 209 and Rosa Lane. This was formerly the Sutton property and was bought by Vidal, manager of the

Spencer Denies Sale to Cult, Says He Gave Estate Away

Contrasted His Tired Station Wagon to 'Super's' Cars, So He Gave Up

Howalnd Spencer, former Ulster county "squire" of Krum Elbow, and critic of his former neighbor across the Hudson, the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt, in an interview published yesterday, denied that he had signed over his estate north of Highland to Father Divine to spite Roosevelt.

This revelation appeared in the society columns of the New York World Telegram and Sun under the by-line of Charles Ventura.

Infuriated Roosevelt

The newsman described Spencer as a "pixyish patrician, who infuriated the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt by signing over his Krum Elbow estate to Father Divine."

A 13-year silence on the subject was broken in the interview yesterday, Ventura said, and he quoted Spencer as saying, "The

Ellenville Store Suffers From Fire

More than 200 mattresses were ruined early today when fire swept the interior of the I. Abel and Son mattress factory on Center street in Ellenville.

Fire Chief Ben Litchrod said the fire damaged the wooden flooring, machinery and mattresses in a new concrete block factory building located behind Abel's Furniture Store at 88 Center street. Several rolls of congoleum rugs were also scorched, he said.

Cause of the fire has not been determined, the fire chief reported.

All of Ellenville's fire apparatus was called out by an alarm which sounded at 6:20 a. m. today. The fire was confined to the factory building and did not spread to the furniture store.

No accurate estimate of loss has been made, but it will run at least to "a few thousand dollars," Chief Litchrod said. Between 200 and 300 mattresses were destroyed by fire and water, he said. Some of the mattresses were of the expensive foam rubber type, he added.

Two Soldiers Are Given Suspended Prison Terms

Leroy Turner, Jr., 23, of Walden, and Robert Williams, 18, of New Paltz, both in the armed forces, were sentenced to terms of from 1½ to 3 years in Clinton State Prison at Dannemora Monday in County court when they changed a former innocent plea to one of guilty as indicted. Execution of sentence was suspended during the good behavior of the youths and they will be turned over to army authorities and dealt with according to military law.

Both were represented by Howard C. St. John who had been assigned by Judge Cashin to represent them.

It was charged the two had come home, whether on leave or AWOL, one issue which the army will determine, when it is alleged they took a Chevrolet car and went for a ride. Although their attorney told the court the lads had intended to return the car and were in fact on their way back to return the car when they were apprehended, a charge of grand larceny, second degree, was made.

There were two counts in the grand larceny indictment and the lads pleaded guilty to both charges. Sentences of from 1½ to 3 years were handed out under each count but the sentences were imposed to run concurrently.

Military warrants are awaiting in the sheriff's office for the lads and Judge Cashin after suspending execution of the sentences, directed they be held for the military authorities. Turner has had prior service in the air force, Wil-

Labor Federation Will Take Own Stand On U.S. Congressional Elections in 1952

San Francisco, Sept. 18 (AP)—The American Federation of Labor plans to take its stand on 1952 congressional elections without regard to the attitude of other labor organizations.

The AFL's Labor League for Political Education, meeting at the federation's annual convention, last night drew plans for a strictly independent campaign—as opposed to the AFL-CIO unity program which featured the 1950 elections.

Today the delegates took time off from the convention business for sight seeing.

The league's administrative committee, in rejecting the 1950 CIO-AFL publicity campaign, declared:

"One lesson that we should have learned ..... is that labor can often get too much public credit for supporting a particular candidate. ..... in some instances we only played into the hands of our enemies, who pointed to our own publicity and said, 'see, the labor bosses have teamed up on me.'"

However, if the Education League has its way, the AFL's political effort won't be weakened. The committee said it must redouble its efforts to get out the votes for candidates friendly to labor.

"There is no question," it reported, "that we have the votes to elect a friendly Congress in 1952. But those votes are purely potential. Registration drives must be commenced wherever they are not being carried on now."

Wherever possible, the committee said, our leagues should start exerting influences on both parties to put up good candidates.

The committee set as its goal for 1952, the election of a Congress which will repeal the Taft-Hartley Labor Law.

And it warned AFL members that they face a tough campaign "character assassination and outright misrepresentation"—backed by huge expenditures of money.

The AFL's campaign will be directed especially at the big city vote.

The committee said:

"Our task in both the southern Democratic primaries and in the general elections in the north will be to keep the city working man's attention on the bread-and-butter issues and not on the false issues and misrepresentations that our opposition will raise."

As an example, the committee cited Senator Knowland (R.-Calif.).

Senator Knowland, it said, "has convinced many that he is a leading authority on how to lick the Commies in Asia.

"But," the committee declared, "talk is cheap. What the league must do is to get the eyes of California voters on Knowland's record of action."

It listed the Senator's record as follows:

"Knowland voted wrong ten times out of 11 votes. * * * he voted against both economic and military aid to Korea. He voted against the Voice of America. He voted against point four. * * * he voted against price controls last year and against rollbacks this year. He voted against troops for Europe and against war contract renegotiation."

The committee said that Knowland deliberately seeks publicity on foreign issues to "smoke screen his anti-American domestic record."

Orange Jury Indicts Middletown Judge On Assault Charges

Grand Jury Cites Police Chief of Port Jervis in Gaming Aid

Goshen, N. Y., Sept. 18 (AP)—An Orange county grand jury today indicted a Middletown, N. Y., judge on assault charges. It also accused the acting police chief of Port Jervis, N. Y., of permitting open gambling, but made no criminal charges against him.

The findings, climaxing an investigation of several weeks directed by District Attorney Clare J. Hoyt, were handed up to State Supreme Court Judge Elbert T. Gallagher.

City Judge J. Allan Ballman of Middletown, was charged with first degree assault for allegedy threatening to shoot his former wife, Gladys, in her home last June 28.

Blamed for Gambling

The grand jury made no criminal charge against Port Jervis' acting Police Chief John J. Powrie, but it filed a presentment (official report) blaming him for gambling in that city.

"The presence of open and notorious gambling in the city of Port Jervis can be attributed only to the failure of the Port Jervis police department to carry out its duty," the presentment said.

"The responsibility for this situation may include others than the acting chief, but so long as he is chief of the department, the principal responsibility is his."

The presentment said that Powrie's retention as acting police chief or "in any other capacity in the police department of the city of Port Jervis would seem unwarranted."

Action Is Proposed

Although the grand jury said it did not have sufficient evidence for a criminal indictment against police or gamblers, it recommended that a transcript of testimony it heard concerning enforcement of gambling laws at Port Jervis be forwarded to the Port Jervis mayor and Common Council "for appropriate administrative action."

Judge Gallagher said he would study the matter before signing the necessary order to carry out the jury's recommendation.

Detailing one alleged instance of police-gambler connivance, the grand jury said the evidence indicated that "one, Charles Herting, moved to Port Jervis from Brooklyn where he had admittedly engaged in bookmaking and that he had several conversations" with Powrie about whether "he could

Bulk of Sum Was Spent for Building, Repair; Furnishings Cost $2,484.39

Walter T. Tremper, disaster chairman of the Ulster County Chapter, American Red Cross today reported a total of $13,052.29 was spent to give assistance in the area flood disaster of last April.

In letters to Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk and Sheriff Cluett Schantz, Tremper said: "As Red Cross is approaching the closing period of the flood disaster of April, 1951, we feel that your offices and the public are entitled to statistical information. In closing our books we find that we have assited 25 families in the following classifications of relief:"

Food, clothing and maintenance	$ 163.33
Building and repair	10,342.57
Household furnishings	2,484.39
Medical and nursing service	19.00
Family service	43.00
Total expenditure	$13,052.29

We are happy to state that letters of appreciation have been received from those whom we assisted.

Appeal Plan Is Announced By Attorney

Corporation Counsel James G. Connelly said at 1:30 p. m. today that he had received by special delivery the opinion of Supreme Court Justice Herbert Hamm denying the application of Attorney Frank Martocci to have the city clerk and corporation counsel accept the police-firemen pay boost referendum petition and certify it for the ballot in the November election.

Martocci said he would appeal the decision and fight the issue "through the courts."

Judge Hamm in his opinion explaining his denial of the Martocci application said that the proposed local law as outlined in the police-firemen petition "leaves solely and entirely to the Common Council the problem of finding the sources of revenue sufficient to pay the increased salaries."

'Mere Fatuity'

To hold "that the proposed local law contains a plan within the meaning of the amendment would reduce the amendment to a mere fatuity," the opinion said.

In answer to Martocci's contention that the Common Council's vote in rejecting the proposal constituted an acceptance of the original petition which was followed by an additional petition, the judge said it was "immaterial" because the Common Council was under no statutory or other duty to act on the petition."

Prior to 1951 it was up to the Common Council under the City Home Rule Law to accept or reject such salary proposals but under the new amendment the law requires that a definite plan for raising the required money be submitted with any plan or petition seeking salary increases.

County Receives $615,355 for Aid

Ulster county received $615,355 of the $65,815,997 distributed yesterday by the state comptroller's office in state aid for education to cities, villages and school districts.

Of the total $218,200 was allocated to Kingston, $42,300 to Saugerties and $354,855 to supervisory districts.

Yesterday's payment was the second for education purposes since the fiscal year started April 1, Comptroller J. Raymond McGovern said.

Government Might Employ Tax Law to Prosecute for Violations, He Says

New York, Sept. 18 (AP)—Economic Stabilizer Eric Johnston says the attitude of "beef and metals" toward price controls is almost "deliberate defiance," and the government plans to crack down if the situation continues.

Johnston, former president of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce, made the statement in addressing 1,500 persons last night at a dinner meeting in connection with the 74th annual convention of the American Bar Association.

He said a recent amendment gives President Truman power to strike out income tax deductions

Many Burned In House Fire

Colesville, Md., Sept. 18 (AP)—Flames raced through a home for the aged today and burned three persons to death, the owner of the home reported.

Firemen earlier had reported three bodies recovered and others visible in the burning structure 15 miles north of Washington, D. C.

However, Mrs. Jessie Proctor Jolliffe told a reporter by telephone only three of her patients had died in the flames.

She was sobbing and after giving that report hung up, saying "I can't talk."

She was reached by telephone at "Mrs. Jolliffe's Home for the Aged"—a two and one-half story frame building.

A. Forton Thomas, director of the Montgomery county departments of inspection, said there were 59 patients in the home at the time of the fire.

At least ten persons were taken to the Washington Sanitarium and a nurse said "some of them are in bad condition."

Penny Card Nears Death In Congress

Bill in House Requires Boosts in First Three Classes, No Change in Letter Cost

Magazines Raised

Sixty Per Cent Increase Over Three Years for Periodicals

Washington, Sept. 18 (AP)—The House seemed likely to agree today with President Truman that three cents should remain the cost of mailing a letter.

But the penny post card appeared doomed to memory land.

A bill calling for an overall increase of $138,400,000 in postal rates was before the House, with passage expected tomorrow.

Product of the House postoffice committee, it calls for boosts in first, second and third class rates, but no change in the present cost of mailing an ordinary letter.

A bill passed by the Senate—designed to add $400,000,000 to postal revenues annually—would raise the postage on a letter to four cents. That would make the main defference between estimated yields of the two measures.

Both bills are intended to help whittle down the postoffice department's chronic operating deficit, estimated to exceed $500,000,000 this fiscal year.

Unless the House changes its measure to provide more revenue than is now contemplated, the postal department deficit might actually be increased at this session of Congress.

Senate Bill Ahead

For, following thhe rate bill, the House will consider a Senate-approved bill to give postal employes a pay raise estimated to add $200,000,000 to the annual cost of the department.

The House bill provides for an eventual 60 per cent increase in rates for mailing newspapers and magazines. The raise would be spread over three years, at 20 per cent of the present rate each year. The Senate bill would make the same hike for magazines, but would hold the increase for mailing newspapers to 30 per cent, over three years.

No change is provided in either bill in the present law permitting free mailing of publications in their own county. These are mainly weekly newspapers.

Airmail Unchanged

The House measure would leave unchanged the present six cents an ounce rate for airmail. The Senate voted to raise this to eight cents.

Both bills would double the present one-cent rate on postcards

Advance in Two Waves of Eastern Fighting Is Productive

U. S. Eighth Army Headquarters, Korea, Sept. 18 (AP)—An allied armored force with infantry support launched a surprise attack on the dormant western front at dawn today. It was stopped by firmly dug-in Reds.

The allied doughboys and tank crews fought all day in the mud and a steady drizzle in their unsuccessful effort to gain a hill mass west of Chorwon. Chorwon is the southwestern point of the Reds' old iron triangle troop assembly area. The town is 18 miles north of Parallel 38.

The Reds held grimly to bunkers and trenches on the hill mass. Communist mortar and artillery fire, anti-tank guns and mines helped check the allied thrust.

About 400 to 500 Red troops were dug in on the hills as the tank column surged up a road in a surprise attack on the Communists from the rear.

Infantry Hits Slope

Allied infantrymen hit the slopes from the south at the same time.

They reached a spot only a few yards from the crest of one hill but were forced back by enemy fire and the slippery condition of the hillside.

American and South African fighter pilots hurled fire bombs on the height in an effort to dislodge the Reds. Heavy allied artillery and mortar fire was poured on the Communist foxholes.

Then the doughboys tried again. They met with no better luck as the Chinese defenders rushed in replacements from nearby hilltop positions.

Elsewhere along the western front, allied patrols probed beyond the United Nations line with little enemy contact. One hill southwest of Chorwon was occupied against no opposition.

Sharp Clashes Flare

Sharp local clashes flared along the mountainous eastern Korea war-front Tuesday.

Allied troops captured one peak with a five-mile view into enemy territory.

They won the commanding height after a savage three-hour hand-to-hand fight against bitterly resisting Reds.

The hard-fighting United Nations forces swept nearly three miles Tuesday in the general area of the north-south Soyang river. Eighth Army sources did not pinpoint location of the peak.

The allies, using bayonets and flamethrowers, have advanced 12 to 15 miles northward in two waves of tough hill fighting in eastern Korea.

Began in August

The first limited offensive attack began in mid-August from an allied line that then was 20 to 25 miles deep in North Korea. That drive carried four to seven miles in two weeks. It cost the Reds their punchbowl assembly area.

The allies halted for regrouping, then shoved off on a second limited offensive Sept. 9.

A frontline officer in the Soyang river valley said "we are pretty sure we have knocked out about two North Korean divisions on this sector alone." His estimate covered only one section of the

Hurley Real Estate Sales Take Place; Kingstonians Buy

Van Tassel, Rich, Vidal, Bower, Lockwood Residences Are in Transfers

Back on October 17, 1777, many residents of the present city of Kingston area fled from town and sought refuge in Old Hurley.

That flight was caused by an now historic incident, the burning of Kingston by the British under General John Vaughan Royal Army.

Today there appears to be under way another exodus from Kingston in favor of suburban Old Hurley hamlet. During the past few weeks several residents of Kingston have purchased properties in Hurley and there has been a "boom" in real estate there with several changes also taking place among the residents of Hurley.

Mirons Register Close Win Over Island Dock

Despite the absence of Charlie "Juice" Manfro, ace hurler of the staff, Miron Lumber scored a 9 to 8 squeaker win over the Island Dock softball team Sunday afternoon at Hasbrouck Park.

Abie Schermerhorn was pressed into service at the last minue for mound duty by the Lumbermen and was the winning pitcher. Schupp was charged with the defeat.

Defensive fielding gems were turned in by Lou and Hymie Greenspan of Mirons.

Cases Settled At County Court

Four cases were announced settled in County court this morning when County Judge John M. Cashin convened the court for civil business. One case was also announced ready for trial and a jury was taken in No. 50, an action for labor and materials used in drilling a well. The action is brought by M. W. Ives & Son against David Rosenzweig and Ceil Rosenzweig. Kooperman and Kooperman appeared for plaintiffs and Thomas J. Plunket for defendants. After the jury was selected a recess of the court was taken for discussion of the issue.

A negligence action brought by Louise Carpino against J. C. Penney Company, was settled. Napoletano, Kelly & Saccoman for plaintiffs and Cook & Cook for defendants.

2-Light Combination Eases Night Sewing

French Lick, Ind.—Two kinds of light combined make for best seeing conditions for night sewing, according to a report to the National Technical Conference of the Illuminating Engineering Society here.

After a study of this perennial problem, how to see what you're sewing after dark, Miss Myrtle Fahsbender, director of home lighting of the Westinghouse Electric Corp., and Miss Priscilla Presbrey of her department recommended as the best all-round sewing light this setup: a 300-watt incandescent bulb in a diffusing bowl and a 32-watt circular fluorescent bulb, both in the same floor lamp.

This combination, they found, provides plenty of light but very little glare. They tested all sort of lighting arrangements for sewing a variety of materials, they told the society. Hardest of all night sewing, they reported, is fine sewing on dark fabrics with matching thread.

Basting stitches, with contrasting thread, are easy to see at night, but the special combination of incandescent and fluorescent lamps was recommended for fine sewing, darning, fine mending, embroidery and other tasks that require close watching.

Reds Charge Allied Soldiers in Zone

Tokyo, Sept. 18 (AP) — The Communists tonight charged four allied soldiers had invaded the Kaesong neutral zone. The Reds demanded a meeting of liaison officers Wednesday "to settle this matter."

The United Nations command replied that its representatives would go to the meeting at 9 a. m. Wednesday, (7 p. m. Tuesday, Eastern Standard Time.)

The meeting place will be Panmunjon, six miles east of Kaesong, site of the suspended truce talks.

The Communist note asserted that "four of your military personnel" entered both Kaesong's neutral zone and Panmunjom at 2:30 Tuesday afternoon, a dispatch from Munsan said.

"We request your liaison officer to come to Panmunjom at 0900 hours tomorrow to settle this matter," the Red note said.

A release earlier from headquarters of the supreme allied commander, Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, said the Reds made the charge in a radio contact with the United Nations command advance headquarters in Korea. It gave the number of soldiers as three, instead of four. There were no details of the alleged incident.

1,000 Holy Name Men Attend Beacon Rally

More than 1,000 members of the Holy Name societies of Dutchess and Putnam counties, led by Surrogate W. Vincent Grady, were in line of march at Sunday's parade preceding the annual Holy Name rally which took place at Memorial Field, Beacon, at 3 p. m. Also in the line of march were Beacon City officials, members of the Dutchess county sheriff's office, Beacon police and fire departments.

Presiding at the rally exercises was the Most Rev. Joseph P. Donahue, D.D., auxiliary bishop of New York, who expressed greetings to the Holy Name members present, their families and friends, in the name of the archbishop of New York, Francis Cardinal Spellman, whom he was representing. Bishop Donahue congratulated the members for the fine turnout of men taking part in the parade and in the rally exercises.

The sermon for the occasion was preached by the Very Rev. Harry C. Graham, O.P., national director of the Holy Name Society. In his address, Father Graham urged the Holy Name members to make Christ the center of their lives. This, he pointed out, "is one of the aims of the society and if everyone would strive to live his life around Christ, the peace that all the world is seeking would be achieved."

Financial and Commercial

New York, Sept. 18 (AP)—A sharp decline in prices on the stock market exchange today marked the second straight fall from the peak of the year.

Losses ran to nearly $3 a share at the outside among leaders, and declines into the $1-$2 range were rather frequent.

There was selling pressure at any point in the decline. In the midst of the fall there were a number of individual issues showing strong resistance and even substantial gains.

Freeport Sulphur was one of these, up at one time more than $3 a share after stockholders yesterday at a special meeting approved a three-for-one split.

Railroads were perhaps the hardest hit of the major groups, but the fall was orderly. Some of the larger minus signs were seen in gold mining shares, chemicals, and oils.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks reached a 21-year peak Friday at $100.40. Monday there was a moderate reaction. Today at the opening the market was narrowly mixed. Within a short time, however, the slide started and widened steadily until it spread throughout the entire market.

Both yesterday and in the early stages of the market today, the retreat was moderated by the absence of heavy volume. A lot of traders pulled to the sidelines to watch rather than participate in the market at the lower levels.

On the downside were Santa Fe, Southern Railway, Northern Pacific, Texas Co., United Air Lines, American Telephone, American Smelting, Mc Intyre-Porcupine, Benguet Consolidated, American Cyanamid, Dow Chemical, American Tobacco, U. S. Steel, Republic Steel, Chrysler, United Aircraft, National Distilleries, Motorola, and Zenith Radio.

The curb market was narrowly lower. Selling off were Arkansas Natural Gas "A," Atlas Corp. Warrants, Carr Consolidated Biscuit, Claude Neon, Ford Motor of France, Solar Aircraft, Standard Thomson Corp., and Waltham Watch.

Corporate bonds were slightly lower with trading light. U. S. Governments were lower by a narrow margin in the over the counter market.

Times Century Old

New York, Sept. 18 (AP)—The New York Times, 100 years old today, received congratulations from President Truman.

LITTLEST AIRMAN—Little but ready is Pvt. Richard Mackey of Miami, Fla., a new recruit at Lackland Air Force Base, Tex. The four-foot, seven-inch airman is 20 years old and weighs 103 pounds. A special waiver from Washington enabled him to enter service. Finding no uniforms small enough for their smallest recruit, the Air Force ordered a special outfit costing about $300.

Lackawack Man Taken to Hospital

William Moran, 54, of Lackawack, who was injured in an automobile accident on September 13, is in "serious" condition at Kingston Hospital, authorities there reported today.

State police at Wurtsboro reported Moran received a compound fracture of the right arm in the accident last Thursday. The injury apparently was not considered serious at the time, troopers reported. Complications developed and resulted in Moran's admission to the hospital on Monday.

Troopers said Moran was a passenger in an automobile driven by Dorothy Lea, 43, of Lackawack, which sideswiped another automobile while passing it on the road between Napanoch and Lackawack. Moran, riding with his arm out of the window, received a compound fracture, according to the report. The other vehicle involved was driven by Floyd Bevier, 51, of Grahamsville, troopers said.

Kansans Abroad

Frankfurt, Germany (AP)—You'd think half of the GIs in the European command are from Kansas when General Eisenhower makes a troop inspection. When trooping the line, Kansas-born Ike stops here and there to chat with the soldiers. Invariably, or so it seems, every time he asks a soldier where he's from, the reply is: "Kansas, sir." And the general smiles broadly and says "I'm from Kansas, too."

"GOOD NEIGHBORS" DO LIFETIME OF WORK IN ONE BIG DAY—Marine veteran Frank Flees and his wife, owners of a farm near Franzen, Wis., saw their whole world transformed in one tremendous day by thousands of "good neighbors." This is an air view of the project which saw a modern five-room house (upper right), new barn (left), milk house, machine shed and livestock watering pond built in a day. In addition, the entire farm, including 20 acres of woods, was cleared and plowed, ready for planting. About 6000 "neighbors," including school children dismissed for the day, turned out for the huge project, organized by Dr. B. J. Przedpelski, university extension agent, who learned that Flees had lost an eye in a farm accident and was far behind in his work.

2-Light Combination Eases Night Sewing

French Lick, Ind.—Two kinds of light combined make for best seeing conditions for night sewing, according to a report to the National Technical Conference of the Illuminating Engineering Society here.

After a study of this perennial problem, how to see what you're sewing after dark, Miss Myrtle Fahsbender, director of home lighting of the Westinghouse Electric Corp., and Miss Priscilla Presbrey of her department recommended as the best all-round sewing light this setup: a 300-watt incandescent bulb in a diffusing bowl and a 32-watt circular fluorescent bulb, both in the same floor lamp.

This combination, they found, provides plenty of light but very little glare. They tested all sort of lighting arrangements for sewing a variety of materials, they told the society. Hardest of all night sewing, they reported, is fine sewing on dark fabrics with matching thread.

Basting stitches, with contrasting thread, are easy to see at night, but the special combination of incandescent and fluorescent lamps was recommended for fine sewing, darning, fine mending, embroidery and other tasks that require close watching.

Reds Charge Allied Soldiers in Zone

Tokyo, Sept. 18 (AP) — The Communists tonight charged four allied soldiers had invaded the Kaesong neutral zone. The Reds demanded a meeting of liaison officers Wednesday "to settle this matter."

The United Nations command replied that its representatives would go to the meeting at 9 a. m. Wednesday, (7 p. m. Tuesday, Eastern Standard Time.)

The meeting place will be Panmunjon, six miles east of Kaesong, site of the suspended truce talks.

The Communist note asserted that "four of your military personnel" entered both Kaesong's neutral zone and Panmunjom at 2:30 Tuesday afternoon, a dispatch from Munsan said.

"We request your liaison officer to come to Panmunjom at 0900 hours tomorrow to settle this matter," the Red note said.

A release earlier from headquarters of the supreme allied commander, Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, said the Reds made the charge in a radio contact with the United Nations command advance headquarters in Korea. It gave the number of soldiers as three, instead of four. There were no details of the alleged incident.

1,000 Holy Name Men Attend Beacon Rally

More than 1,000 members of the Holy Name societies of Dutchess and Putnam counties, led by Surrogate W. Vincent Grady, were in line of march at Sunday's parade preceding the annual Holy Name rally which took place at Memorial Field, Beacon, at 3 p. m. Also in the line of march were Beacon City officials, members of the Dutchess county sheriff's office, Beacon police and fire departments.

Presiding at the rally exercises was the Most Rev. Joseph P. Donahue, D.D., auxiliary bishop of New York, who expressed greetings to the Holy Name members present, their families and friends, in the name of the archbishop of New York, Francis Cardinal Spellman, whom he was representing. Bishop Donahue congratulated the members for the fine turnout of men taking part in the parade and in the rally exercises.

The sermon for the occasion was preached by the Very Rev. Harry C. Graham, O.P., national director of the Holy Name Society. In his address, Father Graham urged the Holy Name members to make Christ the center of their lives. This, he pointed out, "is one of the aims of the society and if everyone would strive to live his life around Christ, the peace that all the world is seeking would be achieved."

Financial and Commercial

New York, Sept. 18 (AP)—A sharp decline in prices on the stock market exchange today marked the second straight fall from the peak of the year.

Losses ran to nearly $3 a share at the outside among leaders, and declines into the $1-$2 range were rather frequent.

There was selling pressure at any point in the decline. In the midst of the fall there were a number of individual issues showing strong resistance and even substantial gains.

Freeport Sulphur was one of these, up at one time more than $3 a share after stockholders yesterday at a special meeting approved a three-for-one split.

Railroads were perhaps the hardest hit of the major groups, but the fall was orderly. Some of the larger minus signs were seen in gold mining shares, chemicals, and oils.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks reached a 21-year peak Friday at $100.40. Monday there was a moderate reaction. Today at the opening the market was narrowly mixed. Within a short time, however, the slide started and widened steadily until it spread throughout the entire market.

Both yesterday and in the early stages of the market today, the retreat was moderated by the absence of heavy volume. A lot of traders pulled to the sidelines to watch rather than participate in the market at the lower levels.

On the downside were Santa Fe, Southern Railway, Northern Pacific, Texas Co., United Air Lines, American Telephone, American Smelting, Mc Intyre-Porcupine, Benguet Consolidated, American Cyanamid, Dow Chemical, American Tobacco, U. S. Steel, Republic Steel, Chrysler, United Aircraft, National Distilleries, Motorola, and Zenith Radio.

The curb market was narrowly lower. Selling off were Arkansas Natural Gas "A," Atlas Corp. Warrants, Carr Consolidated Biscuit, Claude Neon, Ford Motor of France, Solar Aircraft, Standard Thomson Corp., and Waltham Watch.

Corporate bonds were slightly lower with trading light. U. S. Governments were lower by a narrow margin in the over the counter market.

Times Century Old

New York, Sept. 18 (AP)—The New York Times, 100 years old today, received congratulations from President Truman.

LITTLEST AIRMAN—Little but ready is Pvt. Richard Mackey of Miami, Fla., a new recruit at Lackland Air Force Base, Tex. The four-foot, seven-inch airman is 20 years old and weighs 103 pounds. A special waiver from Washington enabled him to enter service. Finding no uniforms small enough for their smallest recruit, the Air Force ordered a special outfit costing about $300.

Lackawack Man Taken to Hospital

William Moran, 54, of Lackawack, who was injured in an automobile accident on September 13, is in "serious" condition at Kingston Hospital, authorities there reported today.

State police at Wurtsboro reported Moran received a compound fracture of the right arm in the accident last Thursday. The injury apparently was not considered serious at the time, troopers reported. Complications developed and resulted in Moran's admission to the hospital on Monday.

Troopers said Moran was a passenger in an automobile driven by Dorothy Lea, 43, of Lackawack, which sideswiped another automobile while passing it on the road between Napanoch and Lackawack. Moran, riding with his arm out of the window, received a compound fracture, according to the report. The other vehicle involved was driven by Floyd Bevier, 51, of Grahamsville, troopers said.

Kansans Abroad

Frankfurt, Germany (AP)—You'd think half of the GIs in the European command are from Kansas when General Eisenhower makes a troop inspection. When trooping the line, Kansas-born Ike stops here and there to chat with the soldiers. Invariably, or so it seems, every time he asks a soldier where he's from, the reply is: "Kansas, sir." And the general smiles broadly and says "I'm from Kansas, too."

"GOOD NEIGHBORS" DO LIFETIME OF WORK IN ONE BIG DAY—Marine veteran Frank Flees and his wife, owners of a farm near Franzen, Wis., saw their whole world transformed in one tremendous day by thousands of "good neighbors." This is an air view of the project which saw a modern five-room house (upper right), new barn (left), milk house, machine shed and livestock watering pond built in a day. In addition, the entire farm, including 20 acres of woods, was cleared and plowed, ready for planting. About 6000 "neighbors," including school children dismissed for the day, turned out for the huge project, organized by Dr. B. J. Przedpelski, university extension agent, who learned that Flees had lost an eye in a farm accident and was far behind in his work.

Cases Settled At County Court

Four cases were announced settled in County court this morning when County Judge John M. Cashin convened the court for civil business. One case was also announced ready for trial and a jury was taken in No. 50, an action for labor and materials used in drilling a well. The action is brought by M. W. Ives & Son against David Rosenzweig and Ceil Rosenzweig. Kooperman and Kooperman appeared for plaintiffs and Thomas J. Plunket for defendants. After the jury was selected a recess of the court was taken for discussion of the issue.

A negligence action brought by Louise Carpino against J. C. Penney Company, was settled. Napoletano, Kelly & Saccoman for plaintiffs and Cook & Cook for defendants.

A contract action brought by Frank and Vita Corrado against Anthony Licardi, was settled. David W. Corwin for plaintiff and Harold A. Lent for defendant.

A property damage action brought by Edwin Aspinall against Alan and Francis Stauble, was settled. H. Edgar Timmerman for plaintiff and Roy L. Featherstone for defendant.

The contract action brought by Spencer Stoutenburgh against Louis M. Siller, was settled. Robert Ortale for plaintiff and Charles H. Gaffney for defendant.

2-Light Combination Eases Night Sewing

French Lick, Ind.—Two kinds of light combined make for best seeing conditions for night sewing, according to a report to the National Technical Conference of the Illuminating Engineering Society here.

After a study of this perennial problem, how to see what you're sewing after dark, Miss Myrtle Fahsbender, director of home lighting of the Westinghouse Electric Corp., and Miss Priscilla Presbrey of her department recommended as the best all-round sewing light this setup: a 300-watt incandescent bulb in a diffusing bowl and a 32-watt circular fluorescent bulb, both in the same floor lamp.

This combination, they found, provides plenty of light but very little glare. They tested all sort of lighting arrangements for sewing a variety of materials, they told the society. Hardest of all night sewing, they reported, is fine sewing on dark fabrics with matching thread.

Basting stitches, with contrasting thread, are easy to see at night, but the special combination of incandescent and fluorescent lamps was recommended for fine sewing, darning, fine mending, embroidery and other tasks that require close watching.

The meeting place will be Panmunjon, six miles east of Kaesong, site of the suspended truce talks.

The Communist note asserted that "four of your military personnel" entered both Kaesong's neutral zone and Panmunjom at 2:30 Tuesday afternoon, a dispatch from Munsan said.

"We request your liaison officer to come to Panmunjom at 0900 hours tomorrow to settle this matter," the Red note said.

A release earlier from headquarters of the supreme allied commander, Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, said the Reds made the charge in a radio contact with the United Nations command advance headquarters in Korea. It gave the number of soldiers as three, instead of four. There were no details of the alleged incident.

1,000 Holy Name Men Attend Beacon Rally

More than 1,000 members of the Holy Name societies of Dutchess and Putnam counties, led by Surrogate W. Vincent Grady, were in line of march at Sunday's parade preceding the annual Holy Name rally which took place at Memorial Field, Beacon, at 3 p. m. Also in the line of march were Beacon City officials, members of the Dutchess county sheriff's office, Beacon police and fire departments.

Presiding at the rally exercises was the Most Rev. Joseph P. Donahue, D.D., auxiliary bishop of New York, who expressed greetings to the Holy Name members present, their families and friends, in the name of the archbishop of New York, Francis Cardinal Spellman, whom he was representing. Bishop Donahue congratulated the members for the fine turnout of men taking part in the parade and in the rally exercises.

The sermon for the occasion was preached by the Very Rev. Harry C. Graham, O.P., national director of the Holy Name Society. In his address, Father Graham urged the Holy Name members to make Christ the center of their lives. This, he pointed out, "is one of the aims of the society and if everyone would strive to live his life around Christ, the peace that all the world is seeking would be achieved."

Financial and Commercial

New York, Sept. 18 (AP)—A sharp decline in prices on the stock market exchange today marked the second straight fall from the peak of the year.

Losses ran to nearly $3 a share at the outside among leaders, and declines into the $1-$2 range were rather frequent.

There was selling pressure at any point in the decline. In the midst of the fall there were a number of individual issues showing strong resistance and even substantial gains.

Freeport Sulphur was one of these, up at one time more than $3 a share after stockholders yesterday at a special meeting approved a three-for-one split.

Railroads were perhaps the hardest hit of the major groups, but the fall was orderly. Some of the larger minus signs were seen in gold mining shares, chemicals, and oils.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks reached a 21-year peak Friday at $100.40. Monday there was a moderate reaction. Today at the opening the market was narrowly mixed. Within a short time, however, the slide started and widened steadily until it spread throughout the entire market.

Both yesterday and in the early stages of the market today, the retreat was moderated by the absence of heavy volume. A lot of traders pulled to the sidelines to watch rather than participate in the market at the lower levels.

On the downside were Santa Fe, Southern Railway, Northern Pacific, Texas Co., United Air Lines, American Telephone, American Smelting, Mc Intyre-Porcupine, Benguet Consolidated, American Cyanamid, Dow Chemical, American Tobacco, U. S. Steel, Republic Steel, Chrysler, United Aircraft, National Distilleries, Motorola, and Zenith Radio.

The curb market was narrowly lower. Selling off were Arkansas Natural Gas "A," Atlas Corp. Warrants, Carr Consolidated Biscuit, Claude Neon, Ford Motor of France, Solar Aircraft, Standard Thomson Corp., and Waltham Watch.

Corporate bonds were slightly lower with trading light. U. S. Governments were lower by a narrow margin in the over the counter market.

Lackawack Man Taken to Hospital

William Moran, 54, of Lackawack, who was injured in an automobile accident on September 13, is in "serious" condition at Kingston Hospital, authorities there reported today.

State police at Wurtsboro reported Moran received a compound fracture of the right arm in the accident last Thursday. The injury apparently was not considered serious at the time, troopers reported. Complications developed and resulted in Moran's admission to the hospital on Monday.

Troopers said Moran was a passenger in an automobile driven by Dorothy Lea, 43, of Lackawack, which sideswiped another automobile while passing it on the road between Napanoch and Lackawack. Moran, riding with his arm out of the window, received a compound fracture, according to the report. The other vehicle involved was driven by Floyd Bevier, 51, of Grahamsville, troopers said.

H. C. Locke of Camp Shady Rest is on a vacation in Miami, Fla.

Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Gray of Wallkill visited Sunday afternoon their nephew and niece, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest B. Markle.

Betty Lou Brown daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Brown is attending school in Ellenville.

Mrs. Homer Hornbeck has resumed her work at the Channel Masters, Inc.

Congratulations are being sent to Pvt. and Mrs. Richard Gray whose marriage took place at the Samsonville church on September 15.

Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Markle called Wednesday evening on friends in Mettacahonts.

Mr. and Mrs. Luther Chrisey of Rochester Center visited Sunday his brother Floyd Chrisey and family of Mettacahonts.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Newman of Cherrytown were recent callers on Mr. and Mrs. Herman Quick. Other callers included Mr. and Mrs. Herman Quick, Jr., and daughter Susan of Pataukunk, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry S. Quick and son Jerry, Jr., of Napanoch.

Kansans Abroad

Frankfurt, Germany (AP)—You'd think half of the GIs in the European command are from Kansas when General Eisenhower makes a troop inspection. When trooping the line, Kansas-born Ike stops here and there to chat with the soldiers. Invariably, or so it seems, every time he asks a soldier where he's from, the reply is: "Kansas, sir." And the general smiles broadly and says "I'm from Kansas, too."

"GOOD NEIGHBORS" DO LIFETIME OF WORK IN ONE BIG DAY—Marine veteran Frank Flees and his wife, owners of a farm near Franzen, Wis., saw their whole world transformed in one tremendous day by thousands of "good neighbors." This is an air view of the project which saw a modern five-room house (upper right), new barn (left), milk house, machine shed and livestock watering pond built in a day. In addition, the entire farm, including 20 acres of woods, was cleared and plowed, ready for planting. About 6000 "neighbors," including school children dismissed for the day, turned out for the huge project, organized by Dr. B. J. Przedpelski, university extension agent, who learned that Flees had lost an eye in a farm accident and was far behind in his work.

Explosion Kills Dozen Workmen

Wood River, Ill., Sept. 18 (AP)—A terrific explosion rocked the big Shell Oil Co., refinery here last night killing 12 workmen.

About 20 persons were injured seriously.

The explosion occurred at one of the refinery's large oil cracking units where a special night crew was working.

Panic broke out as flames lashed out from the explosion and enveloped workers.

Four bodies were recovered soon after the blast. Eight other men died at hospitals a few hours later.

"I saw men knocked to the ground," Willie Burchnell, 47, of East Alton, Ill., a boilermaker's helper, said.

Slid Down Pipe

Burchnell was atop a pumphouse, 20 feet above the ground. There were four or five explosions beneath him. Blocked by flames, he reached safety by sliding down an eight-inch pipe to the ground where flames licked at his legs as he leaped.

Cause of the explosion—second major mishap at the refinery in less than a month—was not definitely determined. A company spokesman said a number of things may have caused it, including a pocket of gas or static electricity. A company official estimated damage might exceed $100,000.

Only last August 21 a fire created by lightning striking a gasoline storage tank caused $175,000 damage.

William H. Yates, principal of the high school at Dannemora, has been engaged as principal of the central school.

Ellis to Auction Breeding Stock

Langhorne, Pa., Sept. 18 (AP)—Gage B. Ellis, harness horse breeder, disclosed today he will auction all his breeding stock and yearlings—a total of 126 head—on Oct. 31 and Nov. 1.

Ellis, operator of The Village Farm near here since 1927, said he's going out of the breeding business because of a shortage of experienced help. He will dispose of 55 broodmares, 24 yearlings, 37 weanlings, three two-year-olds and seven highly-prized stallions. It is estimated they will bring several hundred thousand dollars.

A director of the United States Trotting Association, Ellis said he will continue to conduct the Abbedale and the Village Farm stakes for two-and-three-year-old pacers annually raced at Roosevelt Raceway, Long Island, N. Y.

Ellis will keep only one animal, the retired stallion Berry the Great, now about 33 years old. It was one of the first horses Ellis ever owned.

Ellis' 600-acre farm is located in the Morrisville-Langhorne-Bristol area, now being industrialized. He said his men leave the farm for the higher wages and overtime pay in the plants and that he can no longer continue to replace his help with experienced men.

The seven stallions to be sold are Follow Up 2:00½; Blackhawk 2, 2:03½, winner of the 1940 Fox stakes and sire of the 1951 Maryland circuit champion pacer Freeddy Hawk; His Majesty 1:59¾; Cardinal Prince 1:58¾; His Honor, Cannon Ball 2:02 and Long Key 2:00, all Grand Circuit winners.

A single battery will furnish current for 15 miles of barbed wire fence.

Brady Will Speak

William W. Brady, general sales manager and member of the executive staff of the Grand Union Company, New York, will head a special panel to discuss and exchange new sales ideas at the 18th annual meeting of the National Association of Food Chains convening in Washington, D. C., Sept. 23-27. The announcement was made by A. D. Davis, chairman of the NAFC board of directors. Brady's panel is scheduled for 10 o'clock Monday morning, September 24 during the general session in the Presidential Room of the Hotel Statler.

Singer Reelected

One of downtown's popular business men, Henry Singer who conducts a department store at 60 Broadway, was honored at the annual meeting of the New York State Council of Retail Merchants, Inc., held at the Sagamore Hotel, Bolton Landing, September 9 through 11, by being reelected as a member of the board of directors.

A director of the United States Trotting Association, Ellis said he will continue to conduct the Abbedale and the Village Farm stakes for two-and-three-year-old pacers annually raced at Roosevelt Raceway, Long Island, N. Y.

Ellis will keep only one animal, the retired stallion Berry the Great, now about 33 years old. It was one of the first horses Ellis ever owned.

Ellis' 600-acre farm is located in the Morrisville-Langhorne-Bristol area, now being industrialized. He said his men leave the farm for the higher wages and overtime pay in the plants and that he can no longer continue to replace his help with experienced men.

The seven stallions to be sold are Follow Up 2:00½; Blackhawk 2, 2:03½, winner of the 1940 Fox stakes and sire of the 1951 Maryland circuit champion pacer Freeddy Hawk; His Majesty 1:59¾; Cardinal Prince 1:58¾; His Honor, Cannon Ball 2:02 and Long Key 2:00, all Grand Circuit winners.

A single battery will furnish current for 15 miles of barbed wire fence.

Brady Will Speak

William W. Brady, general sales manager and member of the executive staff of the Grand Union Company, New York, will head a special panel to discuss and exchange new sales ideas at the 18th annual meeting of the National Association of Food Chains convening in Washington, D. C., Sept. 23-27. The announcement was made by A. D. Davis, chairman of the NAFC board of directors. Brady's panel is scheduled for 10 o'clock Monday morning, September 24 during the general session in the Presidential Room of the Hotel Statler.

Explosion Kills Dozen Workmen

Wood River, Ill., Sept. 18 (AP)—A terrific explosion rocked the big Shell Oil Co., refinery here last night killing 12 workmen.

About 20 persons were injured seriously.

The explosion occurred at one of the refinery's large oil cracking units where a special night crew was working.

Panic broke out as flames lashed out from the explosion and enveloped workers.

Four bodies were recovered soon after the blast. Eight other men died at hospitals a few hours later.

"I saw men knocked to the ground," Willie Burchnell, 47, of East Alton, Ill., a boilermaker's helper, said.

Slid Down Pipe

Burchnell was atop a pumphouse, 20 feet above the ground. There were four or five explosions beneath him. Blocked by flames, he reached safety by sliding down an eight-inch pipe to the ground where flames licked at his legs as he leaped.

Cause of the explosion—second major mishap at the refinery in less than a month—was not definitely determined. A company spokesman said a number of things may have caused it, including a pocket of gas or static electricity. A company official estimated damage might exceed $100,000.

Only last August 21 a fire created by lightning striking a gasoline storage tank caused $175,000 damage.

HIGHLAND NEWS

Highland, Sept. 18—Gordon E. Wilcox drove to Elmira Thursday taking his daughter, Miss Ann Wilcox to Elmira College where she is in her junior year. Mr. Wilcox was accompanied by Mrs. Lorin Schantz who stopped in Binghamton to visit her granddaughter, Mrs. Theodore Nowicki.

Miss Amelia Dowd will be the speaker at the meeting of Highland Grange Tuesday night. Miss Dowd is a public health nurse, and will speak on Civilian Defense.

Mrs. Ruth Smalley and Mrs. Alfred Lane entertained Poughkeepsie friends Saturday at their home in Lloyd.

Miss Anita Resnick, who was graduated from Highland High School in June, received a faculty association scholarship, and upon registration at NYU was informed that she would receive a New York Freshman scholarship of $250 in the Washington Square College of Arts and Sciences for the academic year of 1951-52. This grant is renewable from year to year providing a satisfactory scholastic average is maintained. Miss Resnick is majoring in biology. She hopes to participate in competitive sports, swimming, student publications, departmental clubs and various other clubs offered for extra curricular activities.

Mrs. Perry Hitchcock made known at the meeting of the WSCS Friday afternoon that the study program for the year is based on stewardship, taking the opening words of the 24th Psalm, which are: "The earth is the Lord's and the fullness thereof." At the close of the meeting refreshments were served by the Mmes. Gordon Wilcox, Howard Wilcox, Fred Wilsey, Lorin Schantz, A. Herbert Campbell.

Pfc. William Maynard, Jr., who has been home on a ten-day leave left Friday by plane for Seattle, Wash.

The ladies of the Presbyterian Church will meet in an all-day sewing group Wednesday at the manse. They are asked to bring needles, thread and scissors, and any wool pieces to go into 18 inch blocks for blankets which is the project of the Council of Church Women for Korea. The meeting is called for 10 a. m. with a covered dish lunch.

The opening meeting of the Ganse Church School Society was held Thursday evening with Mrs. Edison Dimsey, North road. The president, Mrs. Harry B. Cotant, Jr., appointed for the care of the nursery school: September 16, Mrs. Nicholas Marrone; September 23, Mrs. Robert Lapolla; September 30, Mrs. Everett Lyons; October 7, Mrs. Howard Thompson. It was decided to take study topics from various religious magazines featuring religion and children. Refreshments were served and attending were: Mrs. Cotant, Mrs. Lyons, Mrs. Thompson, Mrs. Henry Swift, Mrs. Luther Filkins, Mrs. Peter Burdash, Mrs. Troy Cook, Mrs. Morris Kirk, Mrs. Meredith Turner, Mrs. James Phillips, Mrs. Marrone, Mrs. Parker Decker, Mrs. Stanley Jones, Mrs. Lapolla, Miss Ethel Haines and the hostess. The meeting October 11 will be with Miss Haines, and Mrs. Burdash will be leader.

Miss Eleanor Flint, public health nurse, attended the Ulster County Safety Council meeting recently.

Mrs. Edison Dimsey has been substitute teacher in one of the Poughkeepsie schools this week.

Charles F. Ott, New Paltz, has been engaged as science instructor in the Central school to succeed Henry Howard who went to another position in Port Jervis. Mr. Ott is a graduate of Albany State Teachers College and has 32-hours credit toward his Master's degree. He has taught in Worcester, Cooperstown, Caledonia, and New Paltz.

The opening meeting of the P.-TA will be held at 8 p. m. Tuesday in the auditorium of the central school. The Brownies and Girl Scouts will give the Allegiance to the Flag followed by the Star Spangled Banner. Fred Sneider will represent the Boy Scouts and Cubs, Mrs. Leslie Williams the Brownies and Mrs. John F. Wadlin the Girl Scouts. Acting Principal Kenneth Watson will give the welcome and introduce the faculty, teachers also Harold Berean, president of the board. The newly elected president, Mrs. Harry Needham, will preside.

William H. Yates, principal of the high school at Dannemora, has been engaged as principal of the central school.

Ellis to Auction Breeding Stock

Langhorne, Pa., Sept. 18 (AP)—Gage B. Ellis, harness horse breeder, disclosed today he will auction all his breeding stock and yearlings—a total of 126 head—on Oct. 31 and Nov. 1.

Ellis, operator of The Village Farm near here since 1927, said he's going out of the breeding business because of a shortage of experienced help. He will dispose of 55 broodmares, 24 yearlings, 37 weanlings, three two-year-olds and seven highly-prized stallions. It is estimated they will bring several hundred thousand dollars.

A director of the United States Trotting Association, Ellis said he will continue to conduct the Abbedale and the Village Farm stakes for two-and-three-year-old pacers annually raced at Roosevelt Raceway, Long Island, N. Y.

Ellis will keep only one animal, the retired stallion Berry the Great, now about 33 years old. It was one of the first horses Ellis ever owned.

OUR FIGHTING MEN NEED BLOOD

Many things have been said about the war in Korea. A useless war, a waste of lives and money, some called it. To men who see it as the product of Administration blunder, it has been "Truman's war."

On the other side, statesmen around the world have hailed it as the first real banding together of free nations to quell aggression at its onset. Many find it an effective warning to Russia not to venture forth on larger missions of conquest.

But however you look at it, one thing is plain: Men die in this war just as in any other. Most of these deaths are unavoidable; they are the price of violent conflict. All of us have the responsibility of seeing that none is needless.

What have we to do with death on the battlefield? Ninety-eight out of every 100 men wounded in Korea are saved. Most of them are kept alive because they get blood plasma at the front lines and then whole blood at rear hospitals. Never before in the history of American wars have so many wounded been saved.

But to perform this miracle of mercy has required a most extravagant use of blood supplies. And at this moment reserves available to the armed forces are virtually exhausted.

Worse still, donations are lagging far behind minimum needs. In June they were only 50,000 pints, in July 36,000. If we do not swiftly make up the tragic lack, the time soon will come when men will die on the battlefield for want of blood that could save them.

Former Defense Secretary Marshall appeals to us to begin building up the nation's blood bank without a second's delay. To meet the needs of the armed forces between now and next June, a quota of 300,000 pints a month will be required. That works out to three pints of blood from every citizen before next summer.

And even if that pace is attained, donations will have to continue on a similar scale for a long time thereafter.

In his appeal to the nation, Marshall said we must never again "be in the position of having our available supplies of whole blood and plasma completely exhausted."

We certainly must not be. Find your nearest blood donor station promptly and make the first installment on your three pints' donation. And remember, nobody says you have to stop at the average quota. If you can give more, do it.

A STATION IN SPACE

The topmost secret in the United States may not be the further development of the atomic bomb. It could be the preliminaries for the construction of a station for space ships, revolving around the earth like the moon. The possibility of such a scheme was discussed at a recent London international conference sponsored by the British Interplanetary Society.

The idea is to send a rocket out into space far enough to be caught in the rotatory motion of the earth. A distance of 470 miles from the earth would do it, it is thought, provided that a speed of five miles per second were attained. A platform of a few square feet in area would serve as a start; it would be equipped with instruments for recording weather conditions and observation of the spectrum and the spots of the sun. Later a larger satellite could be built, to operate as a permanent space station with a regularly assigned staff.

It all sounds fantistic, but scientists believe it possible, even if not in the immediate future. What would be the cost? It is guessed that a billion dollars might do it, and what would be a billion dollars compared with the achievement of creating a new satellite for the earth?

GREATEST COLLECTOR

The National Small Business Men's Association of Evanston, Illinois states that federal tax collections from 1789 to June 30, 1945, a period of 156 years, amounted to $248,348,394,590.

From May 1, 1945 to June 20, 1951, a period of six and one-sixth years, federal tax collections reached $260,417,309,430.

In a little over six years President Truman collected $12,068,914,840 more than all his predecessors, including Franklin D. Roosevelt, collected in 156 years.

Maybe Harry Hopkins had the right idea after all when he said, "The people are too dumb to understand anyway."

Giving the devil his due would bankrupt some people.

'These Days'

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

THE POST OFFICE

The only solution that the post office seems to have for its deficits and inefficient operations is to get Congress to raise rates. That used to be true of some monopolistic enterprises, such as public utilities, until the federal and state governments established regulatory agencies to protect the public. Mere rate-raising or price-raising does not end deficits as any department store manager can tell you.

The post office is entitled to increased rates, not on the basis of the deficit it produces, but only if, after providing advancingly efficient services, it establishes evidence that higher wages, greater benefits to its employes and costs of supplies and operations require them. Up to now the post office has rejected the most constructive suggestions of the Hoover Commission; it has reduced its services; it has not done much for its best employes, the ordinary mailman.

Post office bookkeeping is difficult to read because of the high cost of hidden subsidies. If the government desires to subsidize the various carriers for their services, Congress should pass subsidy acts with due discussion as to their relative merits.

The post office got the Senate to boost second class mail on magazines 60 per cent, over a three-year period; 30 per cent on newspapers. It is doubtful whether this increase will reduce the total deficit, which is estimated at $550,000,000. The increase on magazines and newspapers could reach a fair figure, unless, with good management, the newspapers and magazines develop other means of distribution that might be less costly.

Perhaps the Senate dislikes magazines, having made this distinction. This is not important one way or the other, because what is urgently needed is the application of modern management methods to the operations of the post office. Dodging that necessity and putting an additional load on magazines and newspapers (mostly weeklies, for the latter category) does not really deal with the post office deficit.

If the argument is that the post office is a social and not a business institution, then it is not necessary to increase rates at all. The post office deficit is less than we are spending to improve the standards of living through our various generosities over the face of the earth. As a social institution, the post office could be operated at a deficit out of the goodness of our hearts.

If, however, this agency of government is to be managed as a business that pays its way, then a reorganization is essential in methods of operation, bookkeeping, mechanization and so on. It is only after the engineering and accountancy problems have been worked out that the postal scale can be determined on a scientific basis. This the Hoover Commission tried to impress on the Congress, with little success. Both Congress and the administration have resisted the Hoover Commission's recommendations, probably because efficient operation would eliminate the relations between politics and the post office which neither Congress nor the administration is anxious to bring about.

The law of diminishing returns still operates and the raising of rates on many special services (which the Hoover Commission recommended) may abolish those services. For instance, the service called "special delivery." Often a letter marked "special delivery" arrives after the regular mail. It has to be delivered by hand and the manpower is sometimes not available for such purposes. It is not impossible that if the "special delivery" service costs too much, users will abandon it altogether.

As for third class mail, which includes advertising circulars, the users of this service will probably discover that for the money spent, they can get a better return if they advertise in newspapers. Every morning, I receive a heap of such circulars, most of which I throw away without reading them at all, and the sender is out that much money. Maybe the post office could save itself lots of trouble by abolishing this category altogether.

It would seem that Congress is going about this business rear-end forward. In a word, desiring to reduce the post office deficit, Congress should deal with this problem as any business would, call in the engineers and accountants to see whether costs could not be cut, efficiencies increased, loopholes plugged, waste eliminated. Instead, all that is suggested is that rates be raised. That is an easy but not a good enough solution.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D.

PREVENTING INJURIES FROM ATOM BOMB

From investigations made by the staffs of Duke University and the University of Chicago, we learn that "medical science has moved from pessimism to optimism in the treatment of irradiation injuries following an atom blast." That statement was made by Dr. Franklin C. McLean, University of Chicago, at the last meeting of the American Medical Association. Dr. McLean said that better understanding of the effect of irradiation and better methods for the control of the effects are responsible for this progress.

Certain compounds have been shown to ward off irradiation injury. The chemicals cysteine and glutahtione possess chemical groupings that compete with normal body cells for available oxygen. This fight for oxygen between the normal body cells and the chemicals, interferes with the normal use of oxygen by the body and thus offsets irradiation injury, as oxygen is required when any burning takes place. Female sex hormones, estrogens, for some reason yet unknown, are also effective in warding off irradiation injury.

Experiments with the use of ACTH showed this drug effective to some extent, more so than cortisone but "the most useful treatment includes treatment with antibiotic drugs such as streptomycin and terrymycin to ward off infections that follow irradiation injuries, with toluidine blue and protamine sulfate to control hemorrhages and finally whole blood transfusions."

While the above information may make us less afraid of the atom bomb and its terrific effects, at present the best defence against bomb radiations is protection behind some sort of shelter of steel, concrete, brick or earth.

Dr. McLean points out that the laboratory chemical methods mentioned above to ward off irradiation injuries could not practically be used on the population of an entire city.

"The first week after exposure should be devoted to observation and good nursing care. Then the antibiotics, the transfusions, and the drugs that combat hemorrhage should be used in treatment during the second week and thereafter."

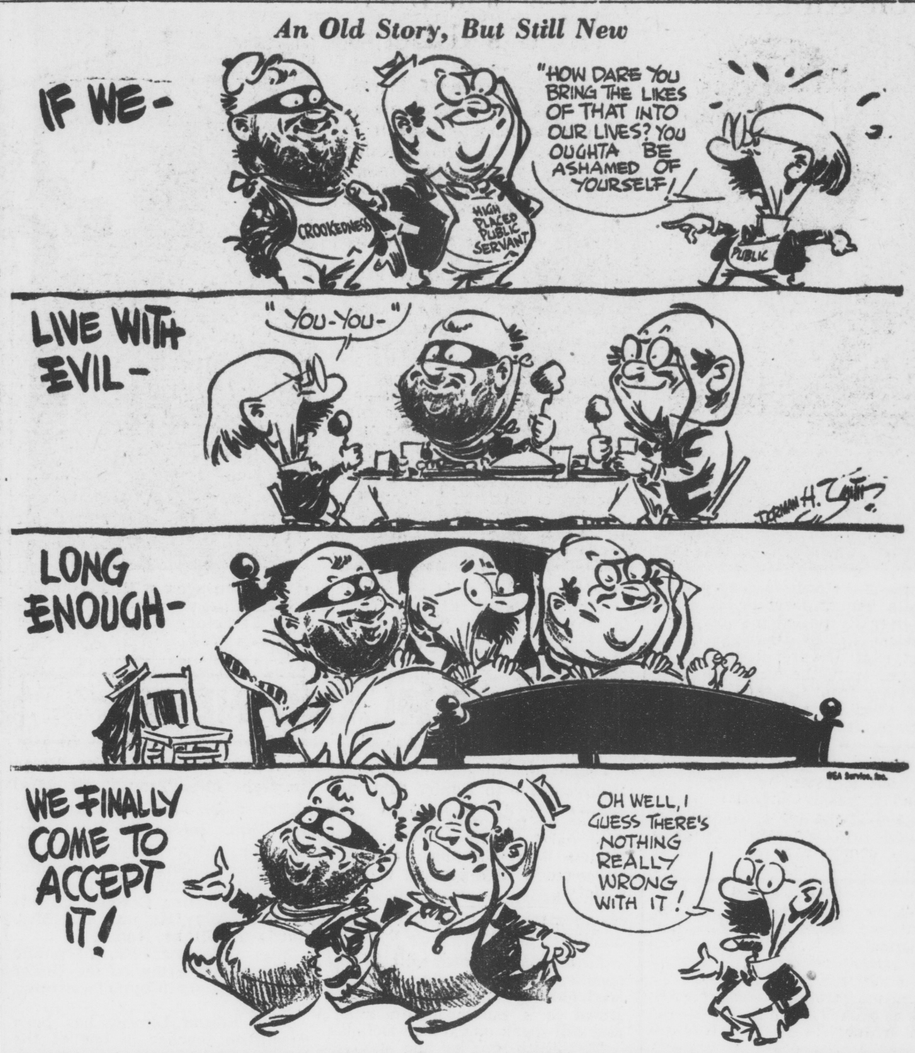
An Old Story, But Still New



The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington—The U. S. government last week was on the verge of loaning $46,000,000 of the taxpayers' money to the Harvey Machine Company to set it up in business as a bigtime aluminum producer.

Suddenly alert Secretary of the Interior Oscar Chapman raised a red flag. He sent hasty letters to Stuart Symington of the RFC and Manly Fleischmann, head of Defense Production, withdrawing his okay of the $46,000,000 until he could examine certain new facts.

Inside reason for the red flag was a mass of evidence which this column placed on Chapman's desk. The Harvey Machine Co. had been suspected of sabotage on war contracts in 1943 and recommended by the navy to the Justice Department for prosecution.

The Justice Department never prosecuted, on the grounds of "inability to prove to a jury that the Navy Department was seriously injured." However, these and other facts in the long and secret record of the Harvey Machine Co., more than justified Secretary Chapman's hasty stop order against one of the biggest government loans of the present era.

What will amaze the taxpayers is that government investigators, who presumably can read the newspapers and knew of the proposed $46,000,000 to Harvey, did not turn over their files to other branches of the government. It's also amazing that some system hasn't been set up inside the government whereby different bureaus can compare notes regarding prospective recipients of loans and war contracts.

If such a system existed, here are the facts they would have found without having a private newspaperman dig them out:

Strange Testing-Gauge.

In early 1943, M. M. Suddock, a thread-grinder operator working for the Harvey Company which was then making navy shells, reported to navy inspectors that he had been instructed to make an off-size testing gauge for 20 MM. shells. He consulted other thread-grinders and they agreed that the size of the thread was unusual.

In a sworn deposition to the Navy Department, Suddock said: "My only idea why such a gauge should be cut is that the plant might have some oversized projectiles that they wanted to slip past inspection."

Suddock made this report through Ensign V. G. Crabtree, a resident navy investigator, and on the strength of this, the navy launched a thorough probe both through its own agents and through FBI agent K. A. Vosburgh. This disclosed a number of irregularities. Finally in May 1943 the records were turned over to James E. Harrington, chief of the Justice Department's war frauds section, with the recommendation that the Harvey Company be prosecuted for violation of the sabotage laws.

About 300 pages are in government files regarding this investigation, which would easily have been turned over to the Interior Department and RFC.

The probe centered about Herbert Harvey, brother of Lea Harvey, president of the firm. The navy report, signed by Ensign V. G. Crabtree and Commander J. C. Arnold, states: "He lied in every defense he put up. He was evasive, and denied any knowledge of the order" to make off-sized testing gauges.

Finally navy inspectors showed Harvey the original instructions for the manufacture of the faulty gauge. In the lower left-hand corner and in Herbert Harvey's own handwriting was penciled the notation: "make five more like this one."

Confronted with this, Harvey's memory improved somewhat.

Herbert Harvey is still an important executive in the Harvey Machine Co., and this is the outfit to which the Defense Production Administration officially okayed a $46,000,000 loan on August 28.

Note—more on this amazing transaction will follow tomorrow.

True Good Neighbor

The backstage support received by the United States at San Francisco was even greater than appeared on the surface. Not only did Guatemala, a semi-Communist country, and Argentina, a semi-Fascist country, make speeches backing the U. S., but two behind-the-scenes conversations indicated 1,000 per cent Pan American solidarity.

Just before the conference started, astute Carlos Martins, longtime Brazilian ambassador and friend of the United States, came to Secretary Acheson privately and said:

"I have instructions from my government to propose certain changes in the text of the Japanese treaty. What do you want me to do about it?"

He showed Acheson the changes. They were chiefly matters of phraseology, which though not changing the meaning of the pact might open it up to changes from every nation present.

"For God's sake, don't propose them," Acheson replied.

'All right," grunted Ambassador Martins who is not given to many words.

Whereupon he did an unusual things. An ambassador is supposed to carry out instructions from his government, not argue. But Martins cabled Rio de Janeiro that he did not believe it wise to introduce the changes. He pointed out that if Brazil, a longtime friend of the United States, introduced changes, the Philippines, Indonesia and Asiatic nations more directly affected by Japan, would attempt to revamp the treaty. So Martins told the Brazilian government that unless he heard to the contrary he would not carry out his instructions.

How Many Votes

Another interesting conversation took place between cautious, careful John Foster Dulles and Ambassador Luis Machado of Cuba. It happened that Dulles and Machado were the only diplomats present who, as young men, both had attended the Versailles conference in 1918; and Dulles started explaining the virtues of the Japanese peace treaty to his old friend.

Using all the eloquence of his Wall Street law career, Dulles waxed eloquent on the benefits of the treaty. But Ambassador Machado interrupted.

"I know all about the treaty," he said, "but how many votes have we got?"

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Sept. 18—President Truman came dangerously near offering a bribe to the publishers of large magazines—they were told by inference that they could expect better treatment on mailing rates if they stopped their criticism of other subsidies granted by his administration.

Maybe Mr. Truman didn't intend any such inference to be drawn from his remarks before the National Association of Postmasters, but his speech is open to that interpretation. For it is probably the first time in history that a president of the United States has ever sought to influence the nature of editorial criticism directed against him by threatening to impose on the publishing businesses of his critics what amounts to a higher tax than other publishers would pay.

In principle, there isn't much difference between the formula the President advocated in his speech, and the formula condemned by the Supreme Court of the United States in a famous case wherein a law of the state of Louisiana was declared unconstitutional because it was aimed solely at large newspapers by putting a higher and higher tax on larger circulations. The Supreme Court said this was a discrimination designed to intimidate and control the press which under the constitution, was protected against such capricious acts by any governmental body.

Mr. Truman said in his speech it was all right for weekly newspapers under the proposed laws to pay lower rates for mail—and he thought it all right for newspapers, whether large or small, to pay lower rates for postage than magazines. But his speech plainly shows that he favors discrimination between two kinds of publications—those he likes and those he doesn't like. He says frankly he doesn't like the editorials criticizing his policies especially from publishers making large profits. This is a rather naive confession that it isn't the economics of distribution which worries Mr. Truman so much as the size of the profits made by the publishers. Presumably the publishers of smaller magazines making less money would get a lower postage rate. Under new laws the tax collector is about to take 70 cents out of every profit dollar from the businesses of the country, but Mr. Truman thinks he can punish with an extra tax the larger magazines that have been criticizing him. To carry out Mr. Truman's philosophy the special tax in the form of higher postage rates would presumably apply only to the larger publishers—the group against whom Mr. Truman has a grudge. It will make interesting reading in Moscow.

There's just one thing left for the magazine publishers to do. It is to offer Mr. Truman a sporting proposition: If he will give up his tax-free expense-account subsidy—it amounts to $50,000 apart from salary—or at least agree to give an accounting of what he does with the money each year, and if he will also agree to stop campaigning for the votes of the various groups—labor union and farm—which his partisan associates boast about in every campaign, the magazine publishers should agree to accept the proposals made in Congress for an increase in postal rates and say no more about it.

Mr. Truman's election in 1948 was built on a compaign asking payment at the polls for what he did for various groups. His speech of acceptance at the Democratic national convention of 1948 called on all groups which had received governmental funds and favors to vote for him. It would be worth the several million dollars in extra expense to the magazines of the country or their subscribers if they could only persuade the President to lead the movement to eliminate the increases in nondefense spending imposed by his administration since 1946.

If the nondefense agencies of the government could survive five years ago on the money then appropriated for them, they can survive today and maybe as much as $6,000,000,000 might be cut from the federal budget. Alongside this sum the subsidy to magazines is peanuts and the publishers should promptly agree to forego it provided Mr. Truman is really sincere about cutting out of the budget all the items that don't belong there. It should, of course, be understood by Mr. Truman that the magazine publishers would not be penalized thereafter for continuing editorial criticisms.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York, Sept. 17 — While Margaret Bourke-White, a news-picture photographer, with a long record of flagrant association with Communist fronts, has been receiving extravagant courtesy and cooperation from the air force and the navy, Miss Angela Calomiris an active patriot with a record as enviable as Bourke-White's is not, has been having a difficult time.

Miss Calomiris is a photographer, too, who, for five years, served as a spy for the FBI in the Communist Party in New York. She came forth and testified as a government witness in the long trial of the eleven archconpiraitors against this government. She never was a Communist but posed as one so plausibly that she was made executive-secretary of the Photo-League, the key position that Communists always try to control in cultural organizations. The Photo-League, was an important Communist front which was listed by the attorney general of the United States as a subversive organization. Margaret Bourke-White is listed in the records of the House Committee as a "sponsor" of a ball given by this front and as a member of the "advisory board" of the Photo-League school.

Recently, Miss Bourke-White has been favored with extraordinary facilities and courtesy from the air force and navy. The air force let her take many intimate pictures of the highly secret, fast American bomber called B-47, the B-36 and other ships of the strategic air command under the responsibility of Lt.-General Curtis Le May. Then, even after her record had been exposed and formally reported to General George Marshall, then secretary of defense, she was allowed to fly in a navy helicopter over Chesapeake Bay, off Little Creek, Va. The helicopter fell during a simulated rescue while carrying as an official passenger this woman, who, in 1936, made campaign pictures, free, of Earl Browder and James W. Ford, the Communist candidates for president and vice president because "the poor things did not have any money and they asked her to."

Senator William E. Jenner, of Indiana, wrote a strong letter to Marshall demanding an explanation of Bourke-White's exploits in the strategic air force and was still awaiting his answer when she turned up in another assignment on the national defenses, this time at Little Creek. Marshall then resigned and Senator Jenner expects no answer to his original inquiry, but will repeat it at once to Marshall's successor, Robert A. Lovett.

Senator Harry P. Cain, of Washington, personally called on Dan Kimball, the secretary of the navy, and learned that Kimball already had written a letter to Life Magazine, owned by Henry (Chinaboy) Luce. When Life asked the navy for permission to photograph the helicopter stunt the navy asked no questions as to whether the photographer to be assigned would be a "security risk."

Kimball told Cain he was now stipulating that if Miss Bourke-White were given the assignment again Life must assure him that she had been cleared as a "security risk."

Meanwhile, it has been arranged that Vice-Admiral John J. Ballentine, commander of the Atlantic Fleet Air Force, will receive written orders for his own records clearing any photographer who is assigned by Life to complete this job. A news photo taken on Sept. 7, just after Miss Bourke-White fell in the water, shows her with her arm around the waist of the admiral. His arm is not around her waist, however. The Norfolk Virginia-Pilot, in a story accompanying this and other pictures, said the admiral was the one who "made arrangements" for the pictures.

The New York Herald Tribune, long under the editorial influence of Joseph Barnes, the old protege of the notorious Frederick Vanderbilt Field, was one of the instruments which plugged Miss Bourke-White. Only two months ago, on July 13, a canned house-feature often devoted to covert propaganda but ostensibly without guile, gave her almost two columns of enthusiastic advertising without mention of her political character and associations. This feature was gratuitous publicity glamorizing a propagandist whose work had earned her cordial treatment from the Kremlin when she was in Moscow.

Meanwhile, Miss Calomiris has suffered outright personal indignity and, but for the strong support of the American Legion magazine, would have been practically banished from the profitable practise of her profession because she spied on the Communists in photography. As matters turned out, James O'Neill, the editor of the Legion Magazine and Frank Liseicki, his assistant, working through the National Association of Magazine Publishers, got an interview with Bruce Gould, editor of the Ladies' Home Journal, and demanded an apology for the conduct of John Morris, picture editor of this magazine, toward Miss Calomiris. I will discuss these incidents tomorrow.

OUR FIGHTING MEN NEED BLOOD

Many things have been said about the war in Korea. A useless war, a waste of lives and money, some called it. To men who see it as the product of Administration blunder, it has been "Truman's war."

On the other side, statesmen around the world have hailed it as the first real banding together of free nations to quell aggression at its onset. Many find it an effective warning to Russia not to venture forth on larger missions of conquest.

But however you look at it, one thing is plain: Men die in this war just as in any other. Most of these deaths are unavoidable; they are the price of violent conflict. All of us have the responsibility of seeing that none is needless.

What have we to do with death on the battlefield? Ninety-eight out of every 100 men wounded in Korea are saved. Most of them are kept alive because they get blood plasma at the front lines and then whole blood at rear hospitals. Never before in the history of American wars have so many wounded been saved.

But to perform this miracle of mercy has required a most extravagant use of blood supplies. And at this moment reserves available to the armed forces are virtually exhausted.

Worse still, donations are lagging far behind minimum needs. In June they were only 50,000 pints, in July 36,000. If we do not swiftly make up the tragic lack, the time soon will come when men will die on the battlefield for want of blood that could save them.

Former Defense Secretary Marshall appeals to us to begin building up the nation's blood bank without a second's delay. To meet the needs of the armed forces between now and next June, a quota of 300,000 pints a month will be required. That works out to three pints of blood from every citizen before next summer.

And even if that pace is attained, donations will have to continue on a similar scale for a long time thereafter.

In his appeal to the nation, Marshall said we must never again "be in the position of having our available supplies of whole blood and plasma completely exhausted."

We certainly must not be. Find your nearest blood donor station promptly and make the first installment on your three pints' donation. And remember, nobody says you have to stop at the average quota. If you can give more, do it.

A STATION IN SPACE

The topmost secret in the United States may not be the further development of the atomic bomb. It could be the preliminaries for the construction of a station for space ships, revolving around the earth like the moon. The possibility of such a scheme was discussed at a recent London international conference sponsored by the British Interplanetary Society.

The idea is to send a rocket out into space far enough to be caught in the rotatory motion of the earth. A distance of 470 miles from the earth would do it, it is thought, provided that a speed of five miles per second were attained. A platform of a few square feet in area would serve as a start; it would be equipped with instruments for recording weather conditions and observation of the spectrum and the spots of the sun. Later a larger satellite could be built, to operate as a permanent space station with a regularly assigned staff.

It all sounds fantistic, but scientists believe it possible, even if not in the immediate future. What would be the cost? It is guessed that a billion dollars might do it, and what would be a billion dollars compared with the achievement of creating a new satellite for the earth?

GREATEST COLLECTOR

The National Small Business Men's Association of Evanston, Illinois states that federal tax collections from 1789 to June 30, 1945, a period of 156 years, amounted to $248,348,394,590.

From May 1, 1945 to June 20, 1951, a period of six and one-sixth years, federal tax collections reached $260,417,309,430.

In a little over six years President Truman collected $12,068,914,840 more than all his predecessors, including Franklin D. Roosevelt, collected in 156 years.

Maybe Harry Hopkins had the right idea after all when he said, "The people are too dumb to understand anyway."

Giving the devil his due would bankrupt some people.

THE POST OFFICE

The only solution that the post office seems to have for its deficits and inefficient operations is to get Congress to raise rates. That used to be true of some monopolistic enterprises, such as public utilities, until the federal and state governments established regulatory agencies to protect the public. Mere rate-raising or price-raising does not end deficits as any department store manager can tell you.

The post office is entitled to increased rates, not on the basis of the deficit it produces, but only if, after providing advancingly efficient services, it establishes evidence that higher wages, greater benefits to its employes and costs of supplies and operations require them. Up to now the post office has rejected the most constructive suggestions of the Hoover Commission; it has reduced its services; it has not done much for its best employes, the ordinary mailman.

Post office bookkeeping is difficult to read because of the high cost of hidden subsidies. If the government desires to subsidize the various carriers for their services, Congress should pass subsidy acts with due discussion as to their relative merits.

The post office got the Senate to boost second class mail on magazines 60 per cent, over a three-year period; 30 per cent on newspapers. It is doubtful whether this increase will reduce the total deficit, which is estimated at $550,000,000. The increase on magazines and newspapers could reach a fair figure, unless, with good management, the newspapers and magazines develop other means of distribution that might be less costly.

Perhaps the Senate dislikes magazines, having made this distinction. This is not important one way or the other, because what is urgently needed is the application of modern management methods to the operations of the post office. Dodging that necessity and putting an additional load on magazines and newspapers (mostly weeklies, for the latter category) does not really deal with the post office deficit.

If the argument is that the post office is a social and not a business institution, then it is not necessary to increase rates at all. The post office deficit is less than we are spending to improve the standards of living through our various generosities over the face of the earth. As a social institution, the post office could be operated at a deficit out of the goodness of our hearts.

If, however, this agency of government is to be managed as a business that pays its way, then a reorganization is essential in methods of operation, bookkeeping, mechanization and so on. It is only after the engineering and accountancy problems have been worked out that the postal scale can be determined on a scientific basis. This the Hoover Commission tried to impress on the Congress, with little success. Both Congress and the administration have resisted the Hoover Commission's recommendations, probably because efficient operation would eliminate the relations between politics and the post office which neither Congress nor the administration is anxious to bring about.

The law of diminishing returns still operates and the raising of rates on many special services (which the Hoover Commission recommended) may abolish those services. For instance, the service called "special delivery." Often a letter marked "special delivery" arrives after the regular mail. It has to be delivered by hand and the manpower is sometimes not available for such purposes. It is not impossible that if the "special delivery" service costs too much, users will abandon it altogether.

As for third class mail, which includes advertising circulars, the users of this service will probably discover that for the money spent, they can get a better return if they advertise in newspapers. Every morning, I receive a heap of such circulars, most of which I throw away without reading them at all, and the sender is out that much money. Maybe the post office could save itself lots of trouble by abolishing this category altogether.

It would seem that Congress is going about this business rear-end forward. In a word, desiring to reduce the post office deficit, Congress should deal with this problem as any business would, call in the engineers and accountants to see whether costs could not be cut, efficiencies increased, loopholes plugged, waste eliminated. Instead, all that is suggested is that rates be raised. That is an easy but not a good enough solution.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D.

PREVENTING INJURIES FROM ATOM BOMB

From investigations made by the staffs of Duke University and the University of Chicago, we learn that "medical science has moved from pessimism to optimism in the treatment of irradiation injuries following an atom blast." That statement was made by Dr. Franklin C. McLean, University of Chicago, at the last meeting of the American Medical Association. Dr. McLean said that better understanding of the effect of irradiation and better methods for the control of the effects are responsible for this progress.

Certain compounds have been shown to ward off irradiation injury. The chemicals cysteine and gluthahtione possess chemical groupings that compete with normal body cells for available oxygen. This fight for oxygen between the normal body cells and the chemicals, interferes with the normal use of oxygen by the body and thus offsets irradiation injury, as oxygen is required when any burning takes place. Female sex hormones, estrogens, for some reason yet unknown, are also effective in warding off irradiation injury.

Experiments with the use of ACTH showed this drug effective to some extent, more so than cortisone but "the most useful treatment includes treatment with antibiotic drugs such as streptomycin and terrymycin to ward off infections that follow irradiation injuries, with toluidine blue and protamine sulfate to control hemorrhages and finally whole blood transfusions."

While the above information may make us less afraid of the atom bomb and its terrific effects, at present the best defence against bomb radiations is protection behind some sort of shelter of steel, concrete, brick or earth.

Dr. McLean points out that the laboratory chemical methods mentioned above to ward off irradiation injuries could not practically be used on the population of an entire city.

"The first week after exposure should be devoted to observation and good nursing care. Then the antibiotics, the transfusions, and the drugs that combat hemorrhage should be used in treatment during the second week and thereafter."

An Old Story, But Still New

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington—The U. S. government last week was on the verge of loaning $46,000,000 of the taxpayers' money to the Harvey Machine Company to set it up in business as a bigtime aluminum producer.

Suddenly alert Secretary of the Interior Oscar Chapman raised a red flag. He sent hasty letters to Stuart Symington of the RFC and Manly Fleischmann, head of Defense Production, withdrawing his okay of the $46,000,000 until he could examine certain new facts.

Inside reason for the red flag was a mass of evidence which this column placed on Chapman's desk. The Harvey Machine Co. had been suspected of sabotage on war contracts in 1943 and recommended by the navy to the Justice Department for prosecution.

The Justice Department never prosecuted, on the grounds of "inability to prove to a jury that the Navy Department was seriously injured." However, these and other facts in the long and secret record of the Harvey Machine Co., more than justified Secretary Chapman's hasty stop order against one of the biggest government loans of the present era.

What will amaze the taxpayers is that government investigators, who presumably can read the newspapers and knew of the proposed $46,000,000 to Harvey, did not turn over their files to other branches of the government. It's also amazing that some system hasn't been set up inside the government whereby different bureaus can compare notes regarding prospective recipients of loans and war contracts.

If such a system existed, here are the facts they would have found without having a private newspaperman dig them out:

Strange Testing-Gauge.

In early 1943, M. M. Suddock, a thread-grinder operator working for the Harvey Company which was then making navy shells, reported to navy inspectors that he had been instructed to make an off-size testing gauge for 20 MM. shells. He consulted other thread-grinders and they agreed that the size of the thread was unusual.

In a sworn deposition to the Navy Department, Suddock said: "My only idea why such a gauge should be cut is that the plant might have some oversized projectiles that they wanted to slip past inspection."

Suddock made this report through Ensign V. G. Crabtree, a resident navy investigator, and on the strength of this, the navy launched a thorough probe both through its own agents and through FBI agent K. A. Vosburgh. This disclosed a number of irregularities. Finally in May 1943 the records were turned over to James E. Harrington, chief of the Justice Department's war frauds section, with the recommendation that the Harvey Company be prosecuted for violation of the sabotage laws.

About 300 pages are in government files regarding this investigation, which would easily have been turned over to the Interior Department and RFC.

The probe centered about Herbert Harvey, brother of Lea Harvey, president of the firm. The navy report, signed by Ensign V. G. Crabtree and Commander J. C. Arnold, states: "He lied in every defense he put up. He was evasive, and denied any knowledge of the order" to make off-sized testing gauges.

Finally navy inspectors showed Harvey the original instructions for the manufacture of the faulty gauge. In the lower left-hand corner and in Herbert Harvey's own handwriting was penciled the notation: "make five more like this one."

Confronted with this, Harvey's memory improved somewhat.

Herbert Harvey is still an important executive in the Harvey Machine Co., and this is the outfit to which the Defense Production Administration officially okayed a $46,000,000 loan on August 28.

Note—more on this amazing transaction will follow tomorrow.

True Good Neighbor

The backstage support received by the United States at San Francisco was even greater than appeared on the surface. Not only did Guatemala, a semi-Communist country, and Argentina, a semi-Fascist country, make speeches backing the U. S., but two behind-the-scenes conversations indicated 1,000 per cent Pan American solidarity.

Just before the conference started, astute Carlos Martins, longtime Brazilian ambassador and friend of the United States, came to Secretary Acheson privately and said:

"I have instructions from my government to propose certain changes in the text of the Japanese treaty. What do you want me to do about it?"

He showed Acheson the changes. They were chiefly matters of phraseology, which though not changing the meaning of the pact might open it up to changes from every nation present.

"For God's sake, don't propose them," Acheson replied.

'All right," grunted Ambassador Martins who is not given to many words.

Whereupon he did an unusual things. An ambassador is supposed to carry out instructions from his government, not argue. But Martins cabled Rio de Janeiro that he did not believe it wise to introduce the changes. He pointed out that if Brazil, a longtime friend of the United States, introduced changes, the Philippines, Indonesia and Asiatic nations more directly affected by Japan, would attempt to revamp the treaty. So Martins told the Brazilian government that unless he heard to the contrary he would not carry out his instructions.

How Many Votes

Another interesting conversation took place between cautious, careful John Foster Dulles and Ambassador Luis Machado of Cuba. It happened that Dulles and Machado were the only diplomats present who, as young men, both had attended the Versailles conference in 1918; and Dulles started explaining the virtues of the Japanese peace treaty to his old friend.

Using all the eloquence of his Wall Street law career, Dulles waxed eloquent on the benefits of the treaty. But Ambassador Machado interrupted.

"I know all about the treaty," he said, "but how many votes have we got?"

A news photo taken on Sept. 7, just after Miss Bourke-White fell in the water, shows her with her arm around the waist of the admiral. His arm is not around her waist, however. The Norfolk Virginia-Pilot, in a story accompanying this and other pictures, said the admiral was the one who "made arrangements" for the pictures.

The New York Herald Tribune, long under the editorial influence of Joseph Barnes, the old protege of the notorious Frederick Vanderbilt Field, was one of the instruments which plugged Miss Bourke-White. Only two months ago, on July 13, a canned house-feature often devoted to covert propaganda but ostensibly without guile, gave her almost two columns of enthusiastic advertising without mention of her political character and associations. This feature was gratuitous publicity glamorizing a propagandist whose work had earned her cordial treatment from the Kremlin when she was in Moscow.

Meanwhile, Miss Calomiris has suffered outright personal indignity and, but for the strong support of the American Legion magazine, would have been practically banished from the profitable practise of her profession because she spied on the Communists in photography! As matters turned out, James O'Neill, the editor of the Legion Magazine and Frank Liselcki, his assistant, working through the National Association of Magazine Publishers, got an interview with Bruce Gould, editor of the Ladies' Home Journal, and demanded an apology for the conduct of John Morris, picture editor of this magazine, toward Miss Calomiris. I will discuss these incidents tomorrow.

OUR FIGHTING MEN NEED BLOOD

Many things have been said about the war in Korea. A useless war, a waste of lives and money, some called it. To men who see it as the product of Administration blunder, it has been "Truman's war."

On the other side, statesmen around the world have hailed it as the first real banding together of free nations to quell aggression at its onset. Many find it an effective warning to Russia not to venture forth on larger missions of conquest.

But however you look at it, one thing is plain: Men die in this war just as in any other. Most of these deaths are unavoidable; they are the price of violent conflict. All of us have the responsibility of seeing that none is needless.

What have we to do with death on the battlefield? Ninety-eight out of every 100 men wounded in Korea are saved. Most of them are kept alive because they get blood plasma at the front lines and then whole blood at rear hospitals. Never before in the history of American wars have so many wounded been saved.

But to perform this miracle of mercy has required a most extravagant use of blood supplies. And at this moment reserves available to the armed forces are virtually exhausted.

Worse still, donations are lagging far behind minimum needs. In June they were only 50,000 pints, in July 36,000. If we do not swiftly make up the tragic lack, the time soon will come when men will die on the battlefield for want of blood that could save them.

Former Defense Secretary Marshall appeals to us to begin building up the nation's blood bank without a second's delay. To meet the needs of the armed forces between now and next June, a quota of 300,000 pints a month will be required. That works out to three pints of blood from every citizen before next summer.

And even if that pace is attained, donations will have to continue on a similar scale for a long time thereafter.

In his appeal to the nation, Marshall said we must never again "be in the position of having our available supplies of whole blood and plasma completely exhausted."

We certainly must not be. Find your nearest blood donor station promptly and make the first installment on your three pints' donation. And remember, nobody says you have to stop at the average quota. If you can give more, do it.

A STATION IN SPACE

The topmost secret in the United States may not be the further development of the atomic bomb. It could be the preliminaries for the construction of a station for space ships, revolving around the earth like the moon. The possibility of such a scheme was discussed at a recent London international conference sponsored by the British Interplanetary Society.

The idea is to send a rocket out into space far enough to be caught in the rotatory motion of the earth. A distance of 470 miles from the earth would do it, it is thought, provided that a speed of five miles per second were attained. A platform of a few square feet in area would serve as a start; it would be equipped with instruments for recording weather conditions and observation of the spectrum and the spots of the sun. Later a larger satellite could be built, to operate as a permanent space station with a regularly assigned staff.

It all sounds fantistic, but scientists believe it possible, even if not in the immediate future. What would be the cost? It is guessed that a billion dollars might do it, and what would be a billion dollars compared with the achievement of creating a new satellite for the earth?

GREATEST COLLECTOR

The National Small Business Men's Association of Evanston, Illinois states that federal tax collections from 1789 to June 30, 1945, a period of 156 years, amounted to $248,348,394,590.

From May 1, 1945 to June 20, 1951, a period of six and one-sixth years, federal tax collections reached $260,417,309,430.

In a little over six years President Truman collected $12,068,914,840 more than all his predecessors, including Franklin D. Roosevelt, collected in 156 years.

Maybe Harry Hopkins had the right idea after all when he said, "The people are too dumb to understand anyway."

Giving the devil his due would bankrupt some people.

THE POST OFFICE

The only solution that the post office seems to have for its deficits and inefficient operations is to get Congress to raise rates. That used to be true of some monopolistic enterprises, such as public utilities, until the federal and state governments established regulatory agencies to protect the public. Mere rate-raising or price-raising does not end deficits as any department store manager can tell you.

The post office is entitled to increased rates, not on the basis of the deficit it produces, but only if, after providing advancingly efficient services, it establishes evidence that higher wages, greater benefits to its employes and costs of supplies and operations require them. Up to now the post office has rejected the most constructive suggestions of the Hoover Commission; it has reduced its services; it has not done much for its best employes, the ordinary mailman.

Post office bookkeeping is difficult to read because of the high cost of hidden subsidies. If the government desires to subsidize the various carriers for their services, Congress should pass subsidy acts with due discussion as to their relative merits.

The post office got the Senate to boost second class mail on magazines 60 per cent, over a three-year period; 30 per cent on newspapers. It is doubtful whether this increase will reduce the total deficit, which is estimated at $550,000,000. The increase on magazines and newspapers could reach a fair figure, unless, with good management, the newspapers and magazines develop other means of distribution that might be less costly.

Perhaps the Senate dislikes magazines, having made this distinction. This is not important one way or the other, because what is urgently needed is the application of modern management methods to the operations of the post office. Dodging that necessity and putting an additional load on magazines and newspapers (mostly weeklies, for the latter category) does not really deal with the post office deficit.

If the argument is that the post office is a social and not a business institution, then it is not necessary to increase rates at all. The post office deficit is less than we are spending to improve the standards of living through our various generosities over the face of the earth. As a social institution, the post office could be operated at a deficit out of the goodness of our hearts.

If, however, this agency of government is to be managed as a business that pays its way, then a reorganization is essential in methods of operation, bookkeeping, mechanization and so on. It is only after the engineering and accountancy problems have been worked out that the postal scale can be determined on a scientific basis. This the Hoover Commission tried to impress on the Congress, with little success. Both Congress and the administration have resisted the Hoover Commission's recommendations, probably because efficient operation would eliminate the relations between politics and the post office which neither Congress nor the administration is anxious to bring about.

The law of diminishing returns still operates and the raising of rates on many special services (which the Hoover Commission recommended) may abolish those services. For instance, the service called "special delivery." Often a letter marked "special delivery" arrives after the regular mail. It has to be delivered by hand and the manpower is sometimes not available for such purposes. It is not impossible that if the "special delivery" service costs too much, users will abandon it altogether.

As for third class mail, which includes advertising circulars, the users of this service will probably discover that for the money spent, they can get a better return if they advertise in newspapers. Every morning, I receive a heap of such circulars, most of which I throw away without reading them at all, and the sender is out that much money. Maybe the post office could save itself lots of trouble by abolishing this category altogether.

It would seem that Congress is going about this business rear-end forward. In a word, desiring to reduce the post office deficit, Congress should deal with this problem as any business would, call in the engineers and accountants to see whether costs could not be cut, efficiencies increased, loopholes plugged, waste eliminated. Instead, all that is suggested is that rates be raised. That is an easy but not a good enough solution.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D.

PREVENTING INJURIES FROM ATOM BOMB

From investigations made by the staffs of Duke University and the University of Chicago, we learn that "medical science has moved from pessimism to optimism in the treatment of irradiation injuries following an atom blast." That statement was made by Dr. Franklin C. McLean, University of Chicago, at the last meeting of the American Medical Association. Dr. McLean said that better understanding of the effect of irradiation and better methods for the control of the effects are responsible for this progress.

Certain compounds have been shown to ward off irradiation injury. The chemicals cysteine and gluthahtione possess chemical groupings that compete with normal body cells for available oxygen. This fight for oxygen between the normal body cells and the chemicals, interferes with the normal use of oxygen by the body and thus offsets irradiation injury, as oxygen is required when any burning takes place. Female sex hormones, estrogens, for some reason yet unknown, are also effective in warding off irradiation injury.

Experiments with the use of ACTH showed this drug effective to some extent, more so than cortisone but "the most useful treatment includes treatment with antibiotic drugs such as streptomycin and terrymycin to ward off infections that follow irradiation injuries, with toluidine blue and protamine sulfate to control hemorrhages and finally whole blood transfusions."

While the above information may make us less afraid of the atom bomb and its terrific effects, at present the best defence against bomb radiations is protection behind some sort of shelter of steel, concrete, brick or earth.

Dr. McLean points out that the laboratory chemical methods mentioned above to ward off irradiation injuries could not practically be used on the population of an entire city.

"The first week after exposure should be devoted to observation and good nursing care. Then the antibiotics, the transfusions, and the drugs that combat hemorrhage should be used in treatment during the second week and thereafter."

An Old Story, But Still New

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington—The U. S. government last week was on the verge of loaning $46,000,000 of the taxpayers' money to the Harvey Machine Company to set it up in business as a bigtime aluminum producer.

Suddenly alert Secretary of the Interior Oscar Chapman raised a red flag. He sent hasty letters to Stuart Symington of the RFC and Manly Fleischmann, head of Defense Production, withdrawing his okay of the $46,000,000 until he could examine certain new facts.

Inside reason for the red flag was a mass of evidence which this column placed on Chapman's desk. The Harvey Machine Co. had been suspected of sabotage on war contracts in 1943 and recommended by the navy to the Justice Department for prosecution.

The Justice Department never prosecuted, on the grounds of "inability to prove to a jury that the Navy Department was seriously injured." However, these and other facts in the long and secret record of the Harvey Machine Co., more than justified Secretary Chapman's hasty stop order against one of the biggest government loans of the present era.

What will amaze the taxpayers is that government investigators, who presumably can read the newspapers and knew of the proposed $46,000,000 to Harvey, did not turn over their files to other branches of the government. It's also amazing that some system hasn't been set up inside the government whereby different bureaus can compare notes regarding prospective recipients of loans and war contracts.

If such a system existed, here are the facts they would have found without having a private newspaperman dig them out:

Strange Testing-Gauge.

In early 1943, M. M. Suddock, a thread-grinder operator working for the Harvey Company which was then making navy shells, reported to navy inspectors that he had been instructed to make an off-size testing gauge for 20 MM. shells. He consulted other thread-grinders and they agreed that the size of the thread was unusual.

In a sworn deposition to the Navy Department, Suddock said: "My only idea why such a gauge should be cut is that the plant might have some oversized projectiles that they wanted to slip past inspection."

Suddock made this report through Ensign V. G. Crabtree, a resident navy investigator, and on the strength of this, the navy launched a thorough probe both through its own agents and through FBI agent K. A. Vosburgh. This disclosed a number of irregularities. Finally in May 1943 the records were turned over to James E. Harrington, chief of the Justice Department's war frauds section, with the recommendation that the Harvey Company be prosecuted for violation of the sabotage laws.

About 300 pages are in government files regarding this investigation, which would easily have been turned over to the Interior Department and RFC.

The probe centered about Herbert Harvey, brother of Lea Harvey, president of the firm. The navy report, signed by Ensign V. G. Crabtree and Commander J. C. Arnold, states: "He lied in every defense he put up. He was evasive, and denied any knowledge of the order" to make off-sized testing gauges.

Finally navy inspectors showed Harvey the original instructions for the manufacture of the faulty gauge. In the lower left-hand corner and in Herbert Harvey's own handwriting was penciled the notation: "make five more like this one."

Confronted with this, Harvey's memory improved somewhat.

Herbert Harvey is still an important executive in the Harvey Machine Co., and this is the outfit to which the Defense Production Administration officially okayed a $46,000,000 loan on August 28.

Note—more on this amazing transaction will follow tomorrow.

True Good Neighbor

The backstage support received by the United States at San Francisco was even greater than appeared on the surface. Not only did Guatemala, a semi-Communist country, and Argentina, a semi-Fascist country, make speeches backing the U. S., but two behind-the-scenes conversations indicated 1,000 per cent Pan American solidarity.

Just before the conference started, astute Carlos Martins, longtime Brazilian ambassador and friend of the United States, came to Secretary Acheson privately and said:

"I have instructions from my government to propose certain changes in the text of the Japanese treaty. What do you want me to do about it?"

He showed Acheson the changes. They were chiefly matters of phraseology, which though not changing the meaning of the pact might open it up to changes from every nation present.

"For God's sake, don't propose them," Acheson replied.

'All right," grunted Ambassador Martins who is not given to many words.

Whereupon he did an unusual things. An ambassador is supposed to carry out instructions from his government, not argue. But Martins cabled Rio de Janeiro that he did not believe it wise to introduce the changes. He pointed out that if Brazil, a longtime friend of the United States, introduced changes, the Philippines, Indonesia and Asiatic nations more directly affected by Japan, would attempt to revamp the treaty. So Martins told the Brazilian government that unless he heard to the contrary he would not carry out his instructions.

How Many Votes

Another interesting conversation took place between cautious, careful John Foster Dulles and Ambassador Luis Machado of Cuba. It happened that Dulles and Machado were the only diplomats present who, as young men, both had attended the Versailles conference in 1918; and Dulles started explaining the virtues of the Japanese peace treaty to his old friend.

Using all the eloquence of his Wall Street law career, Dulles waxed eloquent on the benefits of the treaty. But Ambassador Machado interrupted.

"I know all about the treaty," he said, "but how many votes have we got?"

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Sept. 18—President Truman came dangerously near offering a bribe to the publishers of large magazines—they were told by inference that they could expect better treatment on mailing rates if they stopped their criticism of other subsidies granted by his administration.

Maybe Mr. Truman didn't intend any such inference to be drawn from his remarks before the National Association of Postmasters, but his speech is open to that interpretation. For it is probably the first time in history that a president of the United States has ever sought to influence the nature of editorial criticism directed against him by threatening to impose on the publishing businesses of his critics what amounts to a higher tax than other publishers would pay.

In principle, there isn't much difference between the formula the President advocated in his speech, and the formula condemned by the Supreme Court of the United States in a famous case wherein a law of the state of Louisiana was declared unconstitutional because it was aimed solely at large newspapers by putting a higher and higher tax on larger circulations. The Supreme Court said this was a discrimination designed to intimidate and control the press which under the constitution, was protected against such capricious acts by any governmental body.

Mr. Truman said in his speech it was all right for weekly newspapers under the proposed laws to pay lower rates for mail—and he thought it all right for newspapers, whether large or small, to pay lower rates for postage than magazines. But his speech plainly shows that he favors discrimination between two kinds of publications—those he likes and those he doesn't like. He says frankly he doesn't like the editorials criticizing his policies especially from publishers making large profits. This is a rather naive confession that it isn't the economics of distribution which worries Mr. Truman so much as the size of the profits made by the publishers. Presumably the publishers of smaller magazines making less money would get a lower postage rate. Under new laws the tax collector is about to take 70 cents out of every profit dollar from the businesses of the country, but Mr. Truman thinks he can punish with an extra tax the larger magazines that have been criticizing him. To carry out Mr. Truman's philosophy the special tax in the form of higher postage rates would presumably apply only to the larger publishers—the group against whom Mr. Truman has a grudge. It will make interesting reading in Moscow.

There's just one thing left for the magazine publishers to do. It is to offer Mr. Truman a sporting proposition: If he will give up his tax-free expense-account subsidy—it amounts to $50,000 apart from salary—or at least agree to give an accounting of what he does with the money each year, and if he will also agree to stop campaigning for the votes of the various groups—labor union and farm—which his partisan associates boast about in every campaign, the magazine publishers should agree to accept the proposals made in Congress for an increase in postal rates and say no more about it.

Mr. Truman's election in 1948 was built on a compaign asking payment at the polls for what he did for various groups. His speech of acceptance at the Democratic national convention of 1948 called on all groups which had received governmental funds and favors to vote for him. It would be worth the several million dollars in extra expense to the magazines of the country or their subscribers if they could only persuade the President to lead the movement to eliminate the increases in nondefense spending imposed by his administration since 1946.

If the nondefense agencies of the government could survive five years ago on the money then appropriated for them, they can survive today and maybe as much as $6,000,000,000 might be cut from the federal budget. Alongside this sum the subsidy to magazines is peanuts and the publishers should promptly agree to forego it provided Mr. Truman is really sincere about cutting out of the budget all the items that don't belong there. It should, of course, be understood by Mr. Truman that the magazine publishers would not be penalized thereafter for continuing editorial criticisms.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York, Sept. 17 — While Margaret Bourke-White, a newspicture photographer, with a long record of flagrant association with Communist fronts, has been receiving extravagant courtesy and cooperation from the air force and the navy, Miss Angela Calomiris an active patriot with a record as enviable as Bourke-White's is not, has been having a difficult time.

Miss Calomiris is a photographer, too, who, for five years, served as a spy for the FBI in the Communist Party in New York. She came forth and testified as a government witness in the long trial of the eleven archconpiraitors against this government. She never was a Communist but posed as one so plausibly that she was made executive-secretary of the Photo-League, the key position that Communists always try to control in cultural organizations. The Photo-League, was an important Communist front which was listed by the attorney general of the United States as a subversive organization. Margaret Bourke-White is listed in the records of the House Committee as a "sponsor" of a ball given by this front and as a member of the "advisory board" of the Photo-League school.

Recently, Miss Bourke-White has been favored with extraordinary facilities and courtesy from the air force and navy. The air force let her take many intimate pictures of the highly secret, fast American bomber called B-47, the B-36 and other ships of the strategic air command under the responsibility of Lt.-General Curtis Le May. Then, even after her record had been exposed and formally reported to General George Marshall, then secretary of defense, she was allowed to fly in a navy helicopter over Chesapeake Bay, off Little Creek, Va. The helicopter fell during a simulated rescue while carrying as an official passenger this woman, who, in 1936, made campaign pictures, free, of Earl Browder and James W. Ford, the Communist candidates for president and vice president because "the poor things did not have any money and they asked her to."

Senator William E. Jenner, of Indiana, wrote a strong letter to Marshall demanding an explanation of Bourke-White's exploits in the strategic air force and was still awaiting his answer when she turned up in another assignment on the national defenses, this time at Little Creek. Marshall then resigned and Senator Jenner expects no answer to his original inquiry, but will repeat it at once to Marshall's successor, Robert A. Lovett.

Senator Harry P. Cain, of Washington, personally called on Dan Kimball, the secretary of the navy, and learned that Kimball already had written a letter to Life Magazine, owned by Henry (Chinaboy) Luce. When Life asked the navy for permission to photograph the helicopter stunt the navy asked no questions as to whether the photographer to be assigned would be a "security risk."

Kimball told Cain he was now stipulating that if Miss Bourke-White were given the assignment again Life must assure him that she had been cleared as a "security risk."

Meanwhile, it has been arranged that Vice-Admiral John J. Ballentine, commander of the Atlantic Fleet Air Force, will receive written orders for his own records clearing any photographer who is assigned by Life to complete this job. A news photo taken on Sept. 7, just after Miss Bourke-White fell in the water, shows her with her arm around the waist of the admiral. His arm is not around her waist, however. The Norfolk Virginia-Pilot, in a story accompanying this and other pictures, said the admiral was the one who "made arrangements" for the pictures.

The New York Herald Tribune, long under the editorial influence of Joseph Barnes, the old protege of the notorious Frederick Vanderbilt Field, was one of the instruments which plugged Miss Bourke-White. Only two months ago, on July 13, a canned house-feature often devoted to covert propaganda but ostensibly without guile, gave her almost two columns of enthusiastic advertising without mention of her political character and associations. This feature was gratuitous publicity glamorizing a propagandist whose work had earned her cordial treatment from the Kremlin when she was in Moscow.

Meanwhile, Miss Calomiris has suffered outright personal indignity and, but for the strong support of the American Legion magazine, would have been practically banished from the profitable practise of her profession because she spied on the Communists in photography. As matters turned out, James O'Neill, the editor of the Legion Magazine and Frank Liseicki, his assistant, working through the National Association of Magazine Publishers, got an interview with Bruce Gould, editor of the Ladies' Home Journal, and demanded an apology for the conduct of John Morris, picture editor of this magazine, toward Miss Calomiris. I will discuss these incidents tomorrow.

Johnston Warns

which have a basis in price or wage control violations.

Johnston declared:

"This is a weapon we are prepared to use whenever we have no other choice—whenever the stabilization program is threatened by deliberate defiance.

"We may be approaching that situation right now with respect to some of the most important items in short supply—such as metals, such as beef."

Would Serve Notice

"I want to serve notice right now that we are going to give no quarter to black marketeers, and will use all of our powers against them."

Johnston did not enlarge on the tax amendment, either. But he apparently referred to a provision written into the new controls law which provides:

The President could direct that agencies disregard any income tax deductions claimed for materials purchased in the black market or at above-ceiling prices. He could act in like manner on deductions claimed for labor costs in cases where wage rates exceeded those allowed under existing regulations.

Digresses From Text

Speaking extemporaneously, Johnston digressed from his prepared text, but he authorized its use.

He claimed that the consumer price index has risen only one per cent since he has been in office.

Ruling out "snoopers and secret police," Johnston said the economic Stabilization Administration hopes to operate through the understanding and voluntary help of businessmen, workers and farmers.

He declared:

"When the day comes that we can safely scrap our economic controls—and that day should come within two years—it will mean that the cracks in our defense armor have been welded tight and strong."

West Front Erupts

eastern front. Equally heavy fighting raged on several other sectors.

Elsewhere on the eastern front, allies Monday seized two fog-shrouded heights, lost a third and stood fast against repeated Red counter-attacks on others.

Mountain Is Captured

American, Turkish, Ethiopian and South Korean troops captured a mountain north of Yanggu and a lower height northeast of the punchbowl in Monday's grim fighting.

The allies stormed in vain against at least a half dozen other heights. In some cases it marked the sixth straight day of attack against dug-in Reds.

Rain and fog cut off the allies' air support Monday. But heavy artillery firepower still backed up the United Nations soldiers.

The supreme allied commander, Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, flew back from Tokyo to Korea Monday for a brief conference with his Eighth Army commander, Gen. James A. Van Fleet. The army said only that the visit was routine but presumably they discussed the heavy fighting in the east and the ominous Red buildup of forces in the west. Ridgway had no comment on his return to Tokyo Monday night.

Planes Keep Up Pounding

Despite Monday's rain and fog, allied warplanes kept up their pounding of North Korean rail and highway routes.

The Fifth Air Force said its "operation strangler"—destined to choke off Communist rail and road traffic in North Korea—reached a new peak of intensity in the past month.

"Strangler" started last March as the air force counterpart of Ridgway's "operation killer," intended to bleed the enemy of manpower, rather than capture real estate.

The air force said "strangler" destroyed or damaged 3,500 Communist trucks from Aug. 18 to Sept. 1 and forced the Reds to turn to their battered rail system for hauling supplies south to their front.

But the shift to rail traffic which began in heavy volume last week only gave the allied fliers a bigger opportunity to destroy whole trains.

In this phase of "strangler," the Fifth Air Force reported 16 locomotives destroyed, 16 damaged, 280 rail cars destroyed and more than 600 damaged from Sept. 11 until Monday morning.

Gardiner Man Hurt

Michael Sheehan, 49, of Gardiner, was struck and injured by an automobile as he was walking across Route 9W at Milton about 2 p. m. Monday, state police reported. Suffering from shock, minor lacerations and other possible injuries, he was taken to Vassar Brothers Hospital in Poughkeeepsie, where his condition this morning was reported as "fairly good." Troopers said the automobile was driven by Emanuel Siegel, 58, of New York. No arrest was made.

Inquest Scheduled In Meisell Death

A medical examiner's inquest will be held in Poughkeepsie on Friday afternoon in the death of Henry Meisell, 10, who was shot in a Hyde Park summer home during an unauthorized absence from the Wiltwyck School for Boys in Esopus.

Meisell was severely wounded in the head by a shot fired by one of three companions after they had broken into a home on the east bank of the river about noon on Sunday, the Dutchess county sheriff's office reported. The boy died at St. Francis Hospital early Monday morning.

Meisell's three companions—all of whom had fled from the corrective school Sunday morning—are being held for Children's Court action, District Attorney Ely L. Gellert said today. They allegedly crossed the Hudson river in boats they had stolen from the Marist Preparatory School at West Park.

District Attorney Gellert said today his office believes the shooting was accidental. He revealed that the inquest will seek to learn why it is possible for groups of youngsters to leave the school so easily. Gellert said the superintendent of the Wiltwyck school has been asked to report for questioning during the inquest.

The Wiltwyck school is a nonsectarian, interracial, non-punitive treatment institution for neglected and delinquent boys sent by New York city's juvenile courts and the welfare department. The school cares for about 100 boys.

Young Meisell's home address was listed as 328 Manger street, Brooklyn.

Load Shifts and Dumps Trailer at Highland

A tractor trailer overturned at 7:45 a. m. today when its lead of copper ingots shifted while the vehicle was rounding the traffic circle on Route 9W at Highland.

State police said the driver, Armon J. Terzi, 32, of Amsterdam, suffered minor contusions. The vehicle, owned by the C. & R. Trucking Company of Frankfurt, turned over on its right side and was considerably damaged, troopers reported.

Traffic was not blocked because the heavy vehicle turned over on the shoulder of the road.

Flee From Fire

Banning, Calif., Sept. 18 (AP)—Seven southern California farm families, their belongings heaped on trucks, today fled their homes as a six-day-old brush fire raced unchecked toward their ranches. An eighth rancher, Charles. Gandy, said he had been preparing 30 years for such a fire and intended to stay and fight it. Elsewhere, in the parched and fire-weary state the situation was improving. Only one other fire was reported uncontrolled and the several score spot fires touched off by lightning over the weekend were being subdued rapidly.

Assistant Secretary

Washington, Sept. 18 (AP)—President Truman today nominated Herbert R. Askins of Phoenix, Ariz., to be assistant secretary of the navy.

liams is serving his first term. Turner told the court he was "on furlough" when he was arrested. Williams indicated he was away without authority and was wanted at Fort Dix for several charges imposed by the army.

Leroy Reynolds, charged with violation of Section 1897, Subdivisions 4 and 5-a, unlawful possession of a pistol, through his counsel, Harry Gold, changed a former innocent plea to one of guilty to the first count of the indictment, possession of a pistol without a permit which is a misdemeanor. Bail was continued until September 19 at 2 o'clock at which time sentence will be pronounced. Reynolds said he was employed and would "make a days pay" is permitted to come to court in the afternoon.

Mae Avery, Ulster Park, was arraigned on a charge of violation of Section 1897, Sub. 4, on June 30, last. Frederick Stang appeared for Mrs. Avery and a plea of innocent to the charge was entered. Twenty days was granted to make further motions and bail was continued. Mrs. Avery on the date of the charge fired a revolver which struck her husband. The shooting was investigated by the sheriff's office and it was stated after the investigation that the early morning shooting had been "accidental."

An abandonment charge against Frederick Schaffer, Malden, was set down for trial on September 24, at 2 o'clock on motion of Howard C. St. John, attorney. Schaffer is alleged to have abandoned his family in 1947 but later made payments toward their support. He was employed as a boatman in New York.

Also set down for trial on September 24 at 2 o'clock was the robbery, first degree; assault, second degree; and grand larceny, first degree, charges against William Mills Copeland and Bernard V. Keyes who allegedly "rolled" a companion at a town of Marlborough "jungle" for a considerable sum of money. It is charged the victim had been a steady worker and had accumulated a considerable sum of money which he "banked" on his person.

Prior to taking up the criminal matters County Judge Cashin made up a day calendar. Few cases were ready and Judge Cashin announced that he did not intend to continue to bring the jurors back at considerable expense to the taxpayers, only to have attorneys who put cases on the day calendar come in and ask for further postponement because they were not ready.

Judge Cashin indicated he would try again today to get civil cases moving and if he was not successful he would let the juror's go home and adjourn court until criminal matters were ready and then devote the balance of the term to criminal work.

"It costs a lot of money to continue to bring this jury back, only to have no work for them," said Judge Cashin.

An action on note brought by Food Machinery & Chemical Corporation, Niagara Chemical Division, against Joseph and Nancy Dirago, was announced settled. Napoletano, Kelly and Saccoman for plaintiffs and Michael Nardone for defendants.

Several cases were set down for today and court adjourned until 10 a. m.

Hurley Real Estate

Kingston Western Union office, as a residence some time ago. Vidal has bought from Charles M. North a home on Terrace Lane on route 209 and will take possession about October 15.

Rich House Sold

Abraham Streifer, Kingston attorney, who now resides at 70 Roosevelt avenue, has contracted for the purchase of the "Griffin" property on route 209 from Mrs. Ruth L. Rich who purchased the premises from Mrs. Griffin in 1945. This includes the large nine room gray stucco home and seven acres of land. Located on the hill overlooking the Catskills at the easterly entrance to Hurley, this place contains 2½ baths, two fireplaces and commands a magnificant view of the country. There are also large stables on the premises. Built by Mrs. Griffin, the house was designed after the Griffin estate in Weschester county and is one of the show places of Hurley. It was occcupied by Major Tate for some time prior to being purchased by Mrs. Rich. Streifer expects to take possession in November. Harold W. O'Connor, Albany avenue real estate broker, also negotiated this sale.

Several other changes in real estate in the Hurley area are pending.

Sheriff Is Probing East Kingston Fire

The sheriff's office is continuing an investigation of the fire which destroyed a frame house in East Kingston early Saturday morning.

The house, owned by the East Kingston Brick Company, had been vacant since August 4. Although the cause of the fire has not been determined, it appeared of suspicious nature, especially since the house had no electrical or heating facilities at the time it burned, according to Identification Officer Arthur H. Brown of the sheriff's office.

Rates for third-class mail, such as catalogs and seeds—now 1½ cents for two ounces—would be raised by both the House and Senate bills to two cents for the first two ounces. The rate would remain at 1½ cents for each additional two ounces.

Both bills provide for increases in special service charges. Special delivery rates would go up from 15 cents on small mailings to 23 cents in the House bill and to 20 cents in the Senate bill. Registry charges, now 25 cents, would go to 30 cents in both bills. So would C.O.D. charges, now 20 cents. Rates for insuring parcels for $50 or more would be increased five cents in each bill.

No change is proposed in fourth class rates, mainly parcel post. The Interstate Commerce Commission has already approved increases for this type of mail.

Injuries Are Reported

Ellen Halstead, 46, of 789 South street, Newburgh, reported to the local police last night that at about 9:15 p. m., she tripped over a protruding stone on the temporary walk between Thomas street and the railroad crossing. She reported injuries of the right hand and neck and a damaged stocking. Officers William Hanley and Kenneth Gaffney investigated and reported they were unable to remove the rock. Lipsett Inc., contractor on the crossing project was notified.

Theft Is Reported

Marie Flynn, 112 West Chestnut street, reported to the police at 10:27 p. m., yesterday that her wallet containing $40 was stolen from her sedan while it was parked in front of her home sometime Sunday night. It had been left on the front seat, the report said, and when she entered the car yesterday morning she found the left rear door had been left open and pillows had been moved on the front seat.

which have a basis in price or wage control violations.

Johnston declared:

"This is a weapon we are prepared to use whenever we have no other choice—whenever the stabilization program is threatened by deliberate defiance.

"We may be approaching that situation right now with respect to some of the most important items in short supply—such as metals, such as beef."

Would Serve Notice

"I want to serve notice right now that we are going to give no quarter to black marketeers, and will use all of our powers against them."

Johnston did not enlarge on the tax amendment, either. But he apparently referred to a provision written into the new controls law which provides:

The President could direct that agencies disregard any income tax deductions claimed for materials purchased in the black market or at above-ceiling prices. He could act in like manner on deductions claimed for labor costs in cases where wage rates exceeded those allowed under existing regulations.

Digresses From Text

Speaking extemporaneously, Johnston digressed from his prepared text, but he authorized its use.

He claimed that the consumer price index has risen only one per cent since he has been in office.

Ruling out "snoopers and secret police," Johnston said the economic Stabilization Administration hopes to operate through the understanding and voluntary help of businessmen, workers and farmers.

He declared:

"When the day comes that we can safely scrap our economic controls—and that day should come within two years—it will mean that the cracks in our defense armor have been welded tight and strong."

The six-foot reptile lunged from the water to grasp Jerry's arm. Parker freed her and pulled her from the water. Debate Suspended

Ottawa, Sept. 18 (AP)—The Atlantic Council reportedly decided today to suspend debate, presumably for 24 hours, on the American proposal to admit Greece and Turkey to full membership in the North Atlantic Treaty organization.

Youth Saves Girl From Alligator

Nine-year-old Jerry Gustafson (left) is helped to a drink of water by Parker Strait, 10, as he visits her at Doctors' Hospital in Coral Gables, Fla., Sept. 17. Parker literally pulled the girl from the jaws of death when an alligator seized her by the arm as the two youngsters were playing at the edge of a water-filled rockpit the day before. The six-foot reptile lunged from the water to grasp Jerry's arm. Parker freed her and pulled her from the water. Jerry's arm was gashed from the wrist to the shoulder and several bones were broken. (AP Wirephoto)

West Front Erupts

eastern front. Equally heavy fighting raged on several other sectors.

Elsewhere on the eastern front, allies Monday seized two fog-shrouded heights, lost a third and stood fast against repeated Red counter-attacks on others.

Mountain Is Captured

American, Turkish, Ethiopian and South Korean troops captured a mountain north of Yanggu and a lower height northeast of the punchbowl in Monday's grim fighting.

The allies stormed in vain against at least a half dozen other heights. In some cases it marked the sixth straight day of attack against dug-in Reds.

Rain and fog cut off the allies' air support Monday. But heavy artillery firepower still backed up the United Nations soldiers.

The supreme allied commander, Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, flew back from Tokyo to Korea Monday for a brief conference with his Eighth Army commander, Gen. James A. Van Fleet. The army said only that the visit was routine but presumably they discussed the heavy fighting in the east and the ominous Red buildup of forces in the west. Ridgway had no comment on his return to Tokyo Monday night.

Planes Keep Up Pounding

Despite Monday's rain and fog, allied warplanes kept up their pounding of North Korean rail and highway routes.

The Fifth Air Force said its "operation strangler"—destined to choke off Communist rail and road traffic in North Korea—reached a new peak of intensity in the past month.

"Strangler" started last March as the air force counterpart of Ridgway's "operation killer," intended to bleed the enemy of manpower, rather than capture real estate.

The air force said "strangler" destroyed or damaged 3,500 Communist trucks from Aug. 18 to Sept. 1 and forced the Reds to turn to their battered rail system for hauling supplies south to their front.

But the shift to rail traffic which began in heavy volume last week only gave the allied fliers a bigger opportunity to destroy whole trains.

In this phase of "strangler," the Fifth Air Force reported 16 locomotives destroyed, 16 damaged, 280 rail cars destroyed and more than 600 damaged from Sept. 11 until Monday morning.

Gardiner Man Hurt

Michael Sheehan, 49, of Gardiner, was struck and injured by an automobile as he was walking across Route 9W at Milton about 2 p. m. Monday, state police reported. Suffering from shock, minor lacerations and other possible injuries, he was taken to Vassar Brothers Hospital in Poughkeeepsie, where his condition this morning was reported as "fairly good." Troopers said the automobile was driven by Emanuel Siegel, 58, of New York. No arrest was made.

Inquest Scheduled In Meisell Death

A medical examiner's inquest will be held in Poughkeepsie on Friday afternoon in the death of Henry Meisell, 10, who was shot in a Hyde Park summer home during an unauthorized absence from the Wiltwyck School for Boys in Esopus.

Meisell was severely wounded in the head by a shot fired by one of three companions after they had broken into a home on the east bank of the river about noon on Sunday, the Dutchess county sheriff's office reported. The boy died at St. Francis Hospital early Monday morning.

Meisell's three companions—all of whom had fled from the corrective school Sunday morning—are being held for Children's Court action, District Attorney Ely L. Gellert said today. They allegedly crossed the Hudson river in boats they had stolen from the Marist Preparatory School at West Park.

District Attorney Gellert said today his office believes the shooting was accidental. He revealed that the inquest will seek to learn why it is possible for groups of youngsters to leave the school so easily. Gellert said the superintendent of the Wiltwyck school has been asked to report for questioning during the inquest.

The Wiltwyck school is a nonsectarian, interracial, non-punitive treatment institution for neglected and delinquent boys sent by New York city's juvenile courts and the welfare department. The school cares for about 100 boys.

Young Meisell's home address was listed as 328 Manger street, Brooklyn.

Load Shifts and Dumps Trailer at Highland

A tractor trailer overturned at 7:45 a. m. today when its lead of copper ingots shifted while the vehicle was rounding the traffic circle on Route 9W at Highland.

State police said the driver, Armon J. Terzi, 32, of Amsterdam, suffered minor contusions. The vehicle, owned by the C. & R. Trucking Company of Frankfurt, turned over on its right side and was considerably damaged, troopers reported.

Traffic was not blocked because the heavy vehicle turned over on the shoulder of the road.

Flee From Fire

Banning, Calif., Sept. 18 (AP)—Seven southern California farm families, their belongings heaped on trucks, today fled their homes as a six-day-old brush fire raced unchecked toward their ranches. An eighth rancher, Charles. Gandy, said he had been preparing 30 years for such a fire and intended to stay and fight it. Elsewhere, in the parched and fire-weary state the situation was improving. Only one other fire was reported uncontrolled and the several score spot fires touched off by lightning over the weekend were being subdued rapidly.

liams is serving his first term. Turner told the court he was "on furlough" when he was arrested. Williams indicated he was away without authority and was wanted at Fort Dix for several charges imposed by the army.

Leroy Reynolds, charged with violation of Section 1897, Subdivisions 4 and 5-a, unlawful possession of a pistol, through his counsel, Harry Gold, changed a former innocent plea to one of guilty to the first count of the indictment, possession of a pistol without a permit which is a misdemeanor. Bail was continued until September 19 at 2 o'clock at which time sentence will be pronounced. Reynolds said he was employed and would "make a days pay" is permitted to come to court in the afternoon.

Mae Avery, Ulster Park, was arraigned on a charge of violation of Section 1897, Sub. 4, on June 30, last. Frederick Stang appeared for Mrs. Avery and a plea of innocent to the charge was entered. Twenty days was granted to make further motions and bail was continued. Mrs. Avery on the date of the charge fired a revolver which struck her husband. The shooting was investigated by the sheriff's office and it was stated after the investigation that the early morning shooting had been "accidental."

An abandonment charge against Frederick Schaffer, Malden, was set down for trial on September 24, at 2 o'clock on motion of Howard C. St. John, attorney. Schaffer is alleged to have abandoned his family in 1947 but later made payments toward their support. He was employed as a boatman in New York.

Also set down for trial on September 24 at 2 o'clock was the robbery, first degree; assault, second degree; and grand larceny, first degree, charges against William Mills Copeland and Bernard V. Keyes who allegedly "rolled" a companion at a town of Marlborough "jungle" for a considerable sum of money. It is charged the victim had been a steady worker and had accumulated a considerable sum of money which he "banked" on his person.

Prior to taking up the criminal matters County Judge Cashin made up a day calendar. Few cases were ready and Judge Cashin announced that he did not intend to continue to bring the jurors back at considerable expense to the taxpayers, only to have attorneys who put cases on the day calendar come in and ask for further postponement because they were not ready.

Judge Cashin indicated he would try again today to get civil cases moving and if he was not successful he would let the jurors go home and adjourn court until criminal matters were ready and then devote the balance of the term to criminal work.

"It costs a lot of money to continue to bring this jury back, only to have no work for them," said Judge Cashin.

An action on note brought by Food Machinery & Chemical Corporation, Niagara Chemical Division, against Joseph and Nancy Dirago, was announced settled. Napoletano, Kelly and Saccoman for plaintiffs and Michael Nardone for defendants.

Several cases were set down for today and court adjourned until 10 a. m.

Rich House Sold

Abraham Streifer, Kingston attorney, who now resides at 70 Roosevelt avenue, has contracted for the purchase of the "Griffin" property on route 209 from Mrs. Ruth L. Rich who purchased the premises from Mrs. Griffin in 1945. This includes the large nine room gray stucco home and seven acres of land. Located on the hill overlooking the Catskills at the easterly entrance to Hurley, this place contains 2½ baths, two fireplaces and commands a magnificant view of the country. There are also large stables on the premises. Built by Mrs. Griffin, the house was designed after the Griffin estate in Weschester county and is one of the show places of Hurley. It was occcupied by Major Tate for some time prior to being purchased by Mrs. Rich. Streifer expects to take possession in November. Harold W. O'Connor, Albany avenue real estate broker, also negotiated this sale.

Several other changes in real estate in the Hurley area are pending.

Sheriff Is Probing East Kingston Fire

The sheriff's office is continuing an investigation of the fire which destroyed a frame house in East Kingston early Saturday morning.

The house, owned by the East Kingston Brick Company, had been vacant since August 4. Although the cause of the fire has not been determined, it appeared of suspicious nature, especially since the house had no electrical or heating facilities at the time it burned, according to Identification Officer Arthur H. Brown of the sheriff's office.

Rates for third-class mail, such as catalogs and seeds—now 1½ cents for two ounces—would be raised by both the House and Senate bills to two cents for the first two ounces. The rate would remain at 1½ cents for each additional two ounces.

Both bills provide for increases in special service charges. Special delivery rates would go up from 15 cents on small mailings to 23 cents in the House bill and to 20 cents in the Senate bill. Registry charges, now 25 cents, would go to 30 cents in both bills. So would C.O.D. charges, now 20 cents. Rates for insuring parcels for $50 or more would be increased five cents in each bill.

No change is proposed in fourth class rates, mainly parcel post. The Interstate Commerce Commission has already approved increases for this type of mail.

Injuries Are Reported

Ellen Halstead, 46, of 789 South street, Newburgh, reported to the local police last night that at about 9:15 p. m., she tripped over a protruding stone on the temporary walk between Thomas street and the railroad crossing. She reported injuries of the right hand and neck and a damaged stocking. Officers William Hanley and Kenneth Gaffney investigated and reported they were unable to remove the rock. Lipsett Inc., contractor on the crossing project was notified.

Theft Is Reported

Marie Flynn, 112 West Chestnut street, reported to the police at 10:27 p. m., yesterday that her wallet containing $40 was stolen from her sedan while it was parked in front of her home sometime Sunday night. It had been left on the front seat, the report said, and when she entered the car yesterday morning she found the left rear door had been left open and pillows had been moved on the front seat.

Expert Advice on a Bidding Problem

BY OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

"What is wrong with the way we bid this hand?" asks a San Antonio reader. "Should North bid only two diamonds? Should South pass at four spades instead of bidding the slam? Where did we go wrong?

"South had a fairly good play for the hand, in any case. He won the first trick with the ace of hearts, drew three rounds of trumps, and then began on the diamonds. All would have been well if trumps had broken 3-2 or if diamonds had broken 3-3, or even if West had held long diamonds as well as the trumps. Unfortunately, West ruffed the third diamond and took the setting trick with a heart."

I don't see anything wrong with the bidding. In fact, I compliment my San Antonio friend on the way they handled a difficult bidding problem. North's jump to three diamonds is quite correct despite the fact that he has poor support for spades and lacks a solid suit of his own. If he fails to bid three diamonds at his first turn he must overbid later on to make up for his original underbid. The immediate jump usually works out better.

The trouble came with the way South played the hand. At the second trick he should simply ruff a heart in dummy. Then he continues by drawing three rounds of trumps. When the trumps fail to drop, declarer begins on the diamonds. He discarded his second low heart on the king of diamonds and his last low heart on the queen of diamonds. West ruffs that trick, but there are no further tricks for the defenders.

Curiously enough, the slam can be made also by leading a low trump at the second trick. West can win, but cannot take a heart trick because dummy still has a trump to stop the suit. At best, West can return a club. Dummy wins, and South then draws all of the trumps. Declarer follows with three top diamonds, a diamond ruff, and then a club to dummy in order to cash a low diamond.

My opinion is that the actual declarer would have seen the right line of play if he had just taken a little time for thought. Even if you hate to play bridge slowly, nobody can blame you for giving a slam hand a second look.

September 10, 1951
16 Brook street
Kingston, N. Y.

Editor, The Freeman:

This letter, while signed by a citizen of Wilbur and addressed to the local board of education, is also a letter to the citizens of Kingston to join with the people of Wilbur in forming a committee to investigate the school system of Kingston and the financial situation of same. A study of said finances might show where considerable savings could be made by certified accountants.

We also write you to consider the following:

School No. 1, last elementary school in the city to be built. Reason being given that it was not needed and it would be cheaper to discontinue the same. This has not been proven.

Also consider the fact that Schools 2, 4 and 7 are over 60 years of age and are potential fire traps. The floors being soaked with oil being applied over these 60 years. The parents and the city of Kingston have been particularly fortunate that fires which gutted School 7 and School 5 did not occur during the day time. There might have been a considerable loss of lives.

These and many other things might be of interest to the parents of Kingston if brought to life by a citizen committee.

Sincerely
MRS. EDWARD TRINKLE.

Pullorum Disease Discussed by Vets

A pullorum disease control school for veterinarians was conducted at the Kingston Branch Laboratory of the New York State Veterinary College last week.

Dr. E. V. Moore, assistant commissioner of agriculture from Albany, spoke briefly to the group on the importance of the poultry industry as a source of income to New York state farmers and the need and value of the control of pullorum and other poultry diseases. He especially commended the excellent spirit of cooperation that exists between federal and state agencies as well as that of the authorities at Cornell University with the local veterinary practitioners in attacking this problem.

Dr. Heemstra, from the Bureau of Animal Industry, Washington, D. C., spoke on the pullorum phase of the National Poultry and Turkey Improvement Plan as well as some special problems that are encountered in this work.

Dr. A. L. Brown from the BAI at Albany and supervisor of the pullorum phase of the New York State Poultry Improvement Plan and State supervising veterinarians on his staff talked on different aspects of this work.

Dr. P. P. Levine, professor of poultry diseases at Cornell and in charge of the poultry disease control work at Cornell and the branch laboratories, talked on disease control programs allied to the pullorum disease work. Dr. K. F. Hilbert, Farmingdale, L. I., and Dr. Saul Narotsky of East Aurora, each in charge of the Regional Poultry Disease Laboratory in this area, also talked on different phases of disease control work.

Dr. C. I. Angstrom of the Kingston Regional Laboratory was host to the group and chairman of the one day school. Approximately 40 veterinarians attended the school.

Sermon Goes On

Centralia, Ill. (AP)—A Mississippi river flood couldn't stop the Rev. Larry Dauer at Chester, Ill. When he and his congregation found their Chester church pews floating in the flood water, the minister saved his faithful flutter. He immediately resumed preaching on a street at Bremen, Ill., where it was dry.

NATURAL GAS!

FOR HOUSE HEATING:

IT'S THE FINEST FUEL!
For quality no other fuel can compare.

IT'S DEPENDABLE!
You never have to order Natural Gas. It's always right at your home in plentiful supply, ready for instant use. Should pipelines fail, local gas manufacturing plants are instantly ready to go into service.

IT'S CLEAN!
Housekeeping is easier. There's no dirt or dust, odor or smudge. Ask the woman who heats with gas!

IT'S SPACE SAVING!
Because Natural Gas requires no bins or tanks for storage there's extra space for laundry, playroom or workshop.

IT'S CONVENIENT!
From fall to spring the only furnace tending you do is to reach out a hand to a thermostat. Even that can be done automatically, by time clock.

IT'S ECONOMICAL!
Natural Gas costs less than you think. Take everything into consideration—lower first cost for equipment, longer life of equipment, easier maintenance, the many extras you get such as the above—and Natural Gas is easily the buy.

IT'S THE WAY YOU PAY FOR IT!
Eleven equal monthly payments with final adjustment the twelfth month for all gas and electric services used in your home, makes for easy household budgeting.

Expert Advice on a Bidding Problem

BY OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

"What is wrong with the way e bid this hand?" asks a an Antonio reader. "Should orth bid only two diamonds? hould South pass at four spades nstead of bidding the slam? Where did we go wrong?

"South had a fairly good play or the hand, in any case. He won he first trick with the ace of earts, drew three rounds of rumps, and then began on the liamonds. All would have been vell if trumps had broken 3-2 or f diamonds had broken 3-3, or even if West had held long diamonds as well as the trumps. Unfortunately, West ruffed the third diamond and took the setting trick with a heart."

I don't see anything wrong with the bidding. In fact, I compliment my San Antonio friend on the way they handled a difficult bidding problem. North's jump to three diamonds is quite correct despite the fact that he has poor support for spades and lacks a solid suit of his own. If he fails to bid three diamonds at his first turn he must overbid later on to make up for his original underbid. The immediate jump usually works out better.

The trouble came with the way South played the hand. At the second trick he should simply ruff a heart in dummy. Then he continues by drawing three rounds of trumps. When the trumps fail to drop, declarer begins on the diamonds. He discarded his second low heart on the king of diamonds and his last low heart on the queen of diamonds. West ruffs that trick, but there are no further tricks for the defenders.

	NORTH 18 ♠ 6 5 ♥ 6 ♦ A K Q 8 7 2 ♣ A K 5 4
WEST ♠ J 10 7 2 ♥ Q J 10 3 ♦ 10 4 ♣ J 7 6		EAST ♠ 9 ♥ K 9 8 4 ♦ J 9 6 3 ♣ Q 10 9 2
	SOUTH (D) ♠ A K Q 8 4 3 ♥ A 7 5 2 ♦ 5 ♣ 8 3

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	Pass	3 ♦	Pass
3 ♠	Pass	4 ♦	Pass
4 ♥	Pass	4 ♠	Pass
6 ♠	Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead—♥ Q

Curiously enough, the slam can be made also by leading a low trump at the second trick. West can win, but cannot take a heart trick because dummy still has a trump to stop the suit. At best, West can return a club. Dummy wins, and South then draws all of the trumps. Declarer follows with three top diamonds, a diamond ruff, and then a club to dummy in order to cash a low diamond.

My opinion is that the actual declarer would have seen the right line of play if he had just taken a little time for thought. Even if you hate to play bridge slowly, nobody can blame you for giving a slam hand a second look.

Million Dollar Business

Des Moines (AP)—Iowa markets enough eggs to supply an egg a day throughout the year for every person in New York city, according to Census Bureau records. Census records for 1950 show that Iowa's egg sales in 1949 yielded $84,101,839, and that during the same year Iowa farmers sold 22,220,744 chickens for $21,813,354. The combined revenue in this industry was approximately $106,000,000.

Batory Switches Routes

Bombay (AP)—Poland will be the first iron curtain country to operate a regular passenger service by sea between India and Europe with the departure soon of the 14,300-ton "Batory." Abandoning the Gdynia-United States service, the queen of the Polish ocean lines is opening service from Poland to India via Southampton, Gibraltar, Port Said, Suez, and Aden.

Would Probe School System

September 10, 1951
16 Brook street
Kingston, N. Y.

Editor, The Freeman:

This letter, while signed by a citizen of Wilbur and addressed to the local board of education, is also a letter to the citizens of Kingston to join with the people of Wilbur in forming a committee to investigate the school system of Kingston and the financial situation of same. A study of said finances might show where considerable savings could be made by certified accountants.

We also write you to consider the following:

School No. 1, last elementary school in the city to be built. Reason being given that it was not needed and it would be cheaper to discontinue the same. This has not been proven.

Also consider the fact that Schools 2, 4 and 7 are over 60 years of age and are potential fire traps. The floors being soaked with oil being applied over these 60 years. The parents and the city of Kingston have been particularly fortunate that fires which gutted School 7 and School 5 did not occur during the day time. There might have been a considerable loss of lives.

These and many other things might be of interest to the parents of Kingston if brought to life by a citizen committee.

Sincerely
MRS. EDWARD TRINKLE.

Pullorum Disease Discussed by Vets

A pullorum disease control school for veterinarians was conducted at the Kingston Branch Laboratory of the New York State Veterinary College last week.

Dr. E. V. Moore, assistant commissioner of agriculture from Albany, spoke briefly to the group on the importance of the poultry industry as a source of income to New York state farmers and the need and value of the control of pullorum and other poultry diseases. He especially commended the excellent spirit of cooperation that exists between federal and state agencies as well as that of the authorities at Cornell University with the local veterinary practitioners in attacking this problem.

Dr. Heemstra, from the Bureau of Animal Industry, Washington, D. C., spoke on the pullorum phase of the National Poultry and Turkey Improvement Plan as well as some special problems that are encountered in this work.

Dr. A. L. Brown from the BAI at Albany and supervisor of the pullorum phase of the New York State Poultry Improvement Plan and State supervising veterinarians on his staff talked on different aspects of this work.

Dr. P. P. Levine, professor of poultry diseases at Cornell and in charge of the poultry disease control work at Cornell and the branch laboratories, talked on disease control programs allied to the pullorum disease work. Dr. K. F. Hilbert, Farmingdale, L. Junior—Daddy, how do wars start, anyhow?

Dad—Well, son, let's say that America quarreled with England—

Mother—America is not quarreling with England.

Dad—Who said she was? I was just giving Junior an example.

Mother—Ridiculous. You'll put all sorts of silly ideas into Junior's head.

Dad—Ridiculous, nothing! If he listens to you, he'll never have any ideas to put in his head.

Just as Mom picked up a dish and Dad dodged behind a chair, Junior spoke up.

Junior—Thanks, Mom. Thanks, Dad. Boy, now I know exactly how wars start.

Mrs. Jones—The nerve of that grocer, (angrily as she picked up the telephone and prepared to call him).

When the grocer answered the phone she identified herself and demanded to know why he short-weighed little boys.

Mrs. Jones—I sent Howard down to your store to get two pounds of grapes. He has just arrived him and the grapes weigh only a pound and a half.

Grocer—My scales are inspected regularly. There is absolutely nothing wrong with them or me. Have you weighed Howard yet?

Two collegiates were about to sit down to an exam in English literature.

First—Great Scott! I've forgotten who wrote Ivanhoe!

Second—I can tell you that if you'll tell me who the dickens wrote The Tale of Two Cities!

Harry Truman says he hopes "the sun never sets on baseball." But would that matter, now that the parks are all lit up for night ball.

We have a great memory. I can recite all the names on three pages of the New York telephone directory. Wanna hear me? All right, then, Cohen, Cohen, Cohen, Cohen, Cohen.

"The Thing" is no longer a mystery to us. It's that hand-pointed necktie Aunt Lucy sent us for Christmas, bless her heart—all covered with fancy pictures of curling paraphernalia, and the ice done in black. We opened "the box" for a quick look, and there it was!

Druggist—Did that mudpack I suggested improve your wife's appearance?

Man—It did for a few days, but then it wore off.

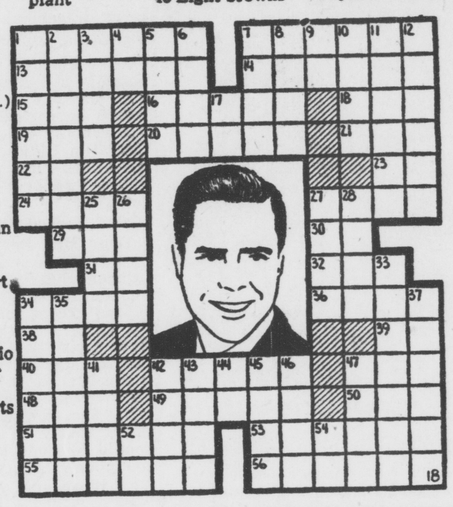
Answer to Previous Puzzle



Lane Takes Position

New York, Sept. 18 (AP)—Myles J. Lane, the nation's leading football scorer when he played for Dartmouth in 1928, has taken over Irving H. Saypol's former job as U. S. attorney for the Southern District of New York. The 44-year-old bachelor was given an interim appointment by President Truman to succeed the prosecutor who resigned last week after being nominated for State Supreme Court justice. Lane was sworn in yesterday, and the President is expected to send his nomination for permanent tenure to the Senate early next year.

China's Peach Tree Thoughts

In China the peach tree is thought of variously as the tree of life and the tree of death. It is also associated with love and with longevity.

Moseley Will Speak

Lloyd W. Moseley, secretary of The Grand Union Company, New York, has been appointed to serve as a member of a committee to discuss topics of sales interest at the 18th annual gathering of the National Association of Food Chains which is being held in Washington, D. C., Sept. 23-27.

Do You Remember

BY SOPHIE MILLER

Ray Senter, a former Kingstonian, stopped at the Kirkland for a week. His job covers various railroads in this section. His mother worked for many years in the office of The Freeman. Those were the days that the Rondout Creek bridge was just a dream, as the Hudson River bridge here is today. At the time, Mr. Welch, a feature writer, known locally as "Mysterious Mr. Fox" did stories for The Freeman. I remember when Mr. Welch took my father and myself and the Senters through the woods on the Sleightsburgh side to show us the markers on the mountain which was to be cut down for the bridge to make the present 9W roadway to Port Ewen.

Those were the days when dancing was more an art than fun. Ray Senter was on the order of Fred Astair on the ballroom floor; dancing with him to good music was really something. We had many dances in all the church social halls and many folks danced well. Among them of course were stars like Ray, also Vince Van Bramer, Lou Weber and others. I think the fastest one on his feet was Joe Lurie. Dancers really kept moving then, no slow shuffel like today. Most of the dancers circled around the band, when it was in the center of the floor.

Another Kingstonian visiting in Kingston was Percy and Ruth Deyo. Ruth is a southerner and they both now live in her home city of Morehead City, North Carolina. Her brother has a roller skating rink there, and from time to time folks going or coming from Florida tell me they see it.

Mrs. Van Dyke Basten, 'phoned me that she found a badge of the 250th Anniversary of the founding of the Manor House of Thomas Chambers, Kingston, N. Y. We also spoke about Dr. Basten, and his sister, Minnie, when they lived in Ponckhockie. My father used to take me to visit Dr. Basten, a handsome man, who looked like Mark Twain. At the time Dr. Basten had lost a leg. He had very many patients who adored him. His sister, Minnie, died recently at the age of 90. I remember when Minnie and her twin sister used to shop in my father's drug store and always carried nice little straw shopping baskets. I liked them very much.

An item was brought to me about which I would like to learn more as the name is linked with Kingston, I think. "James Bogardus, an American inventor, born at Catskill, N. Y. in 1800. Among his inventions was the eight-day clock, a dry gas meter and an engraving machine for engine turning. His machine for making postage stamps received the prize offered by the British Government in 1839, when he was still a young man. He died in 1874.

Mrs. Murlin Wolven of 31 St. James street stopped by to leave me a write up on Caleb M. Merritt, who conducted a grocery store, where the Wonderly store is today. He died March 5, 1889 at age of 85. He was Mrs. Wolven's grandfather. Will tell more about the Merritt family in a future column. It seems that his residence was on part of the land now used by the Senate House Museum. The land was sold to them, but the house was moved off of the property and is still being used today.

Iowa Will Take Her Second Run

San Francisco, Sept. 18 (AP)—The mighty USS Iowa, her mothballs swapped for salt spray, gives her green crew a taste of open water today.

It's the second day of a shakedown for the 58,000-ton dreadnaught—the biggest and fastest battleship in the world.

The Iowa, just out of a 2½ year hibernation at Hunter's Point Naval Shipyard here, had her first trial run yesterday.

It was all in San Francisco Bay. Today she goes through the Golden Gate for maneuvers around the Farallone Islands.

Capt. William R. Smedberg, the Iowa's skipper, was "delighted." So was his green and excited crew, most of whom had never been on a battleship before.

"I haven't one officer who has ever served on a 16-inch gun turret," Smedberg said, "and only five of my enlisted men have had 16-inch gun experience.

The Iowa is the last of her class to return to active duty.

Lane Takes Position

New York, Sept. 18 (AP)—Myles J. Lane, the nation's leading football scorer when he played for Dartmouth in 1928, has taken over Irving H. Saypol's former job as U. S. attorney for the Southern District of New York. The 44-year-old bachelor was given an interim appointment by President Truman to succeed the prosecutor who resigned last week after being nominated for State Supreme Court justice. Lane was sworn in yesterday, and the President is expected to send his nomination for permanent tenure to the Senate early next year.

China's Peach Tree Thoughts

In China the peach tree is thought of variously as the tree of life and the tree of death. It is also associated with love and with longevity.

Moseley Will Speak

Lloyd W. Moseley, secretary of The Grand Union Company, New York, has been appointed to serve as a member of a committee to discuss topics of sales interest at the 18th annual gathering of the National Association of Food Chains which is being held in Washington, D. C., Sept. 23-27.

Do You Remember

BY SOPHIE MILLER

Ray Senter, a former Kingstonian, stopped at the Kirkland for a week. His job covers various railroads in this section. His mother worked for many years in the office of The Freeman. Those were the days that the Rondout Creek bridge was just a dream, as the Hudson River bridge here is today. At the time, Mr. Welch, a feature writer, known locally as "Mysterious Mr. Fox" did stories for The Freeman. I remember when Mr. Welch took my father and myself and the Senters through the woods on the Sleightsburgh side to show us the markers on the mountain which was to be cut down for the bridge to make the present 9W roadway to Port Ewen.

Those were the days when dancing was more an art than fun. Ray Senter was on the order of Fred Astair on the ballroom floor; dancing with him to good music was really something. We had many dances in all the church social halls and many folks danced well. Among them of course were stars like Ray, also Vince Van Bramer, Lou Weber and others. I think the fastest one on his feet was Joe Lurie. Dancers really kept moving then, no slow shuffel like today. Most of the dancers circled around the band, when it was in the center of the floor.

Another Kingstonian visiting in Kingston was Percy and Ruth Deyo. Ruth is a southerner and they both now live in her home city of Morehead City, North Carolina. Her brother has a roller skating rink there, and from time to time folks going or coming from Florida tell me they see it.

Lane Takes Position

New York, Sept. 18 (AP)—Myles J. Lane, the nation's leading football scorer when he played for Dartmouth in 1928, has taken over Irving H. Saypol's former job as U. S. attorney for the Southern District of New York. The 44-year-old bachelor was given an interim appointment by President Truman to succeed the prosecutor who resigned last week after being nominated for State Supreme Court justice. Lane was sworn in yesterday, and the President is expected to send his nomination for permanent tenure to the Senate early next year.

China's Peach Tree Thoughts

In China the peach tree is thought of variously as the tree of life and the tree of death. It is also associated with love and with longevity.

Do You Remember

BY SOPHIE MILLER

Ray Senter, a former Kingstonian, stopped at the Kirkland for a week. His job covers various railroads in this section. His mother worked for many years in the office of The Freeman. Those were the days that the Rondout Creek bridge was just a dream, as the Hudson River bridge here is today. At the time, Mr. Welch, a feature writer, known locally as "Mysterious Mr. Fox" did stories for The Freeman. I remember when Mr. Welch took my father and myself and the Senters through the woods on the Sleightsburgh side to show us the markers on the mountain which was to be cut down for the bridge to make the present 9W roadway to Port Ewen.

Those were the days when dancing was more an art than fun. Ray Senter was on the order of Fred Astair on the ballroom floor; dancing with him to good music was really something. We had many dances in all the church social halls and many folks danced well. Among them of course were stars like Ray, also Vince Van Bramer, Lou Weber and others. I think the fastest one on his feet was Joe Lurie. Dancers really kept moving then, no slow shuffel like today. Most of the dancers circled around the band, when it was in the center of the floor.

Another Kingstonian visiting in Kingston was Percy and Ruth Deyo. Ruth is a southerner and they both now live in her home city of Morehead City, North Carolina. Her brother has a roller skating rink there, and from time to time folks going or coming from Florida tell me they see it.

Mrs. Van Dyke Basten, 'phoned me that she found a badge of the 250th Anniversary of the founding of the Manor House of Thomas Chambers, Kingston, N. Y. We also spoke about Dr. Basten, and his sister, Minnie, when they lived in Ponckhockie. My father used to take me to visit Dr. Basten, a handsome man, who looked like Mark Twain. At the time Dr. Basten had lost a leg. He had very many patients who adored him. His sister, Minnie, died recently at the age of 90. I remember when Minnie and her twin sister used to shop in my father's drug store and always carried nice little straw shopping baskets. I liked them very much.

An item was brought to me about which I would like to learn more as the name is linked with Kingston, I think. "James Bogardus, an American inventor, born at Catskill, N. Y. in 1800. Among his inventions was the eight-day clock, a dry gas meter and an engraving machine for engine turning. His machine for making postage stamps received the prize offered by the British Government in 1839, when he was still a young man. He died in 1874.

Mrs. Murlin Wolven of 31 St. James street stopped by to leave me a write up on Caleb M. Merritt, who conducted a grocery store, where the Wonderly store is today. He died March 5, 1889 at age of 85. He was Mrs. Wolven's grandfather. Will tell more about the Merritt family in a future column. It seems that his residence was on part of the land now used by the Senate House Museum. The land was sold to them, but the house was moved off of the property and is still being used today.

Valuable Plants

Although plants seem far removed from the animal life in our oceans, all undersea creatures depend on them, for without the plants, which alone can convert the sun's rays into food life on the globe would not exist.

Iowa Will Take Her Second Run

San Francisco, Sept. 18 (AP)—The mighty USS Iowa, her mothballs swapped for salt spray, gives her green crew a taste of open water today.

It's the second day of a shakedown for the 58,000-ton dreadnaught—the biggest and fastest battleship in the world.

The Iowa, just out of a 2½ year hibernation at Hunter's Point Naval Shipyard here, had her first trial run yesterday.

It was all in San Francisco Bay. Today she goes through the Golden Gate for maneuvers around the Farallone Islands.

Capt. William R. Smedberg, the Iowa's skipper, was "delighted." So was his green and excited crew, most of whom had never been on a battleship before.

"I haven't one officer who has ever served on a 16-inch gun turret," Smedberg said, "and only five of my enlisted men have had 16-inch gun experience.

The Iowa is the last of her class to return to active duty.

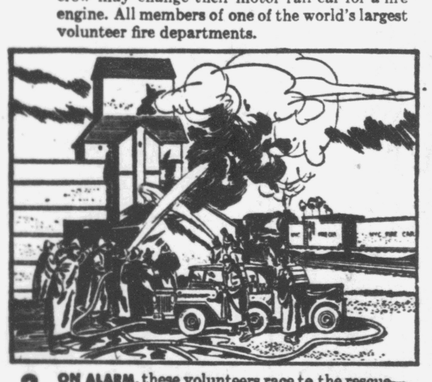
THE CENTRAL IDEA

New York Central's Own "Fire Fighters"

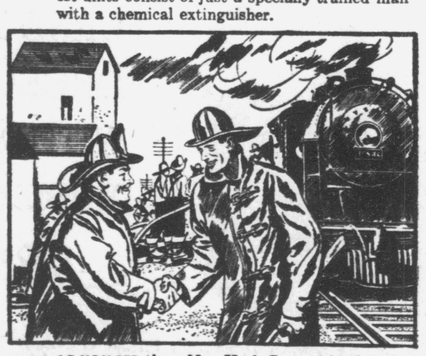
NEW YORK CENTRAL SYSTEM

1. QUICK-CHANGE artists are plentiful on New York Central. The shop mechanic may shift his overalls to a fireman's rubber coat. The section crew may change their motor rail car for a fire engine. All members of one of the world's largest volunteer fire departments.

2. FIRE TRAINS, manned by these Central volunteers, have everything from fire axes to gas masks—even carry their own water in tank cars. Smaller units have fire-fighting jeeps. The smallest units consist of just a specially trained man with a chemical extinguisher.



3. ON ALARM, these volunteers race to the rescue—not only of railroad property—but of any property in their reach. You'll find them beside the Forestry Service battling brush fires . . . or with local fire departments helping to put out some blazing plant along the line.



4. SO YOU SEE, these New York Central fire fighters are actually an extra volunteer department to protect YOU. It's just one more way in which your Railroad forms a living part of every community along its 11,000 miles. And that is always THE CENTRAL IDEA!

Carpenter, health and medical temperance; Mrs. Matilda Osborn, soldiers and sailors; Miss Belle Brinckerhoff, publicity (assisted by Ellenville women); Mrs. William Whiston, literature; Mrs. Ernest Bell, temperance and mission; Mrs. Young, spiritual life.

The afternoon session will open with the Battle Hymn of the WCTU, followed by a salute to the flags led by Miss Newkirk, and the service of remembrance led by Mrs. Frank Dunnagan. Two other department reports will follow on radio and parliamentary law given by Mrs. Stella A. Bernard and Mrs. Mary H. Faust, respectively. Mrs. Faust will be assisted by the New Paltz women.

Vocal

Highlighting the afternoon service will be the election of officers and a dedication service for them given by the Rev. Olney E. Cook, pastor of Christ's Lutheran Church, Woodstock. This portion of the program will be preceded by a vocal solo, prayer, sung by David Guion, with Miss Winifred Kimball and Mrs. Lester Decker as accompanists. The credential committee will also give its report.

The convention will close with a report on local efficiency standards coupled with the awarding of certificates of membership, in addition to a few remarks from the county president and the resolution committee's report.

The New York convention of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union will be held in Buffalo October 11-15.

Bride of Frank Modruson, Jr.

Annamay McCormick, Brooklyn, Is Wed To F. B. Modruson, Jr.

Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock Miss Annamay McCormick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph McCormick, 5505 Fifth avenue, Brooklyn, was wed to Frank B. Modruson, Jr., of Brooklyn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Modruson, 363 Wilbur avenue, this city. The ceremony was performed in St. Joseph's Church by the Rev. James Keating, assistant pastor of that parish.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of Chantilly lace, en train, with a V-neckline, pointed collar, fitted bodice and full skirt. Her English illusion fingertip veil was attached to a heart-shaped bonnet of matching lace trimmed with seed pearls, and she carried a nosegay of white roses.

Mrs. Peggy Albers of Brooklyn was her sister's only attendant. Her ballerina-length gown was of moss green taffeta. She wore a Chantilly lace jacket and carried an old fashioned bouquet of pink roses. Christian J. Schultz of Brooklyn was best man.

Following a small reception in the Crystal Room of the Governor Clinton Hotel, Mr. and Mrs. Modruson left for northern New York. They will make their home in Flatbush, Brooklyn.

The bride is a graduate of Bay Ridge High School Brooklyn, and is employed as a secretary. Mr. Modruson is an alumnus of the Manhattan High School of Aviation, and served with the U. S. Air Force during World War 2. He is associated with the New York Telephone Co., and is now attending New York Institute. Mr. Modruson is also a member of the New York State Fife and Drum Association.

Good Taste Today

by Emily Post

(Author of "Etiquette," "Children Are People," etc.)

Call Her, by All Means!

A reader explains in a letter today: "I know a man who met a woman one evening at a party and liked her very much. He would like to know her better but there seems no way except for him to take the initiative. Does an introduction at a rather large impersonal type of party constitute sufficient excuse for his telephoning her now? It is possible she may not remember who he was or his name. How would he introduce himself?"

He could telephone and say, "I'm Jim Blake who met you at the Smith's dance the other night, and I wonder if I may come to see you."

Plates Served Only for Children

Dear Mrs. Post: Is it permissible to serve the plates in the kitchen and then put them down in front of each? I never thought it was except for one's own family. And are the plates which have divisions the only ones proper for such service?

Answer: It would be unthinkable to serve plates for people who are grown (except "blue plate" dinner at a restaurant). It should be done only for children too young to help themselves.

When Girl Invites Man

Dear Mrs. Post: Is taking a man to her own club or church dance the only occasion a girl may invite a man to go out with her? In other words, is it never permissible for her to invite him to "a show" or to go dancing in a public place?

Answer: If she has tickets for a special charity "show" or dance, she may, of course, ask a man to go with her but not otherwise.

Do you know what to wear to a "semi-formal" party? Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail but her leaflet E-35, The Well-Dressed Woman," includes "semi-formal" dress. To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin to her, care of The Kingston Daily Freeman, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y. (Released by The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

Will Live in Lake Katrine

Dorothy Ann Wells, Hilbert J. Bahruth, Are Married Here in Church Ceremony

Miss Dorothy Ann Wells, daughter of Mrs. Solomon J. Wells, 89 Hone street, and the late Mr. Wells, was married Sunday, Sept. 9 at 1:30 p. m. in St. Mary's Church to Hilbert John Bahruth. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Bahruth of Lake Katrine. Officiating at the double ring ceremony was the Rev. Edward I. Farrelly, assistant pastor of that parish. Traditional organ selections were played by Theodore Riccobono.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother, William Wells. She was dressed in a white satin gown, en train, fashioned with a sweetheart neckline trimmed with seed pearls. Her veil was secured by a crown of seed pearls, and she carried a bouquet of white gladioli.

Mrs. John Szymanski of this city, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. She wore an ice-blue satin gown with a matching picture hat, and carried a bouquet of yellow gladioli.

Serving as bridesmaids were two other sisters of the bride: Mrs. Michael J. Gallagher and Mrs. Gerard Matthews, both of this city. They were dressed in gowns of mauve satin and rhinestone studded bonnets. They carried scarlet gladioli.

Theodore Pfeiffer of Glenerie was best man, while Leo Wells, brother of the bride, and Gerard Matthews, brother-in-law of the bride, ushered.

A reception followed at Airport Inn for 60 guests. On their wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Bahruth will tour the southern states and visit Florida. For traveling the bride chose a dark green suit with matching accessories, a light yellow topper and a yellow rose corsage. Upon their return they will make their home at Tall Cedar Cabins, Lake Katrine.

Mrs. Bahruth attended Kingston High School and is employed with the Forst Packing Co. Inc.

Her husband is a graduate of Baldwin High School, Baldwin, L. I., and served with the U. S. Coast Guard during World War 2. He is now associated with Tall Cedar Cabins.

Bride of Frank Modruson, Jr.

Annamay McCormick, Brooklyn, Is Wed To F. B. Modruson, Jr.

Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock Miss Annamay McCormick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph McCormick, 5505 Fifth avenue, Brooklyn, was wed to Frank B. Modruson, Jr., of Brooklyn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Modruson, 363 Wilbur avenue, this city. The ceremony was performed in St. Joseph's Church by the Rev. James Keating, assistant pastor of that parish.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of Chantilly lace, en train, with a V-neckline, pointed collar, fitted bodice and full skirt. Her English illusion fingertip veil was attached to a heart-shaped bonnet of matching lace trimmed with seed pearls, and she carried a nosegay of white roses.

Mrs. Peggy Albers of Brooklyn was her sister's only attendant. Her ballerina-length gown was of moss green taffeta. She wore a Chantilly lace jacket and carried an old fashioned bouquet of pink roses. Christian J. Schultz of Brooklyn was best man.

Following a small reception in the Crystal Room of the Governor Clinton Hotel, Mr. and Mrs. Modruson left for northern New York. They will make their home in Flatbush, Brooklyn.

The bride is a graduate of Bay Ridge High School Brooklyn, and is employed as a secretary. Mr. Modruson is an alumnus of the Manhattan High School of Aviation, and served with the U. S. Air Force during World War 2. He is associated with the New York Telephone Co., and is now attending New York Institute. Mr. Modruson is also a member of the New York State Fife and Drum Association.

Good Taste Today

by Emily Post

(Author of "Etiquette," "Children Are People," etc.)

Call Her, by All Means!

A reader explains in a letter today: "I know a man who met a woman one evening at a party and liked her very much. He would like to know her better but there seems no way except for him to take the initiative. Does an introduction at a rather large impersonal type of party constitute sufficient excuse for his telephoning her now? It is possible she may not remember who he was or his name. How would he introduce himself?"

He could telephone and say, "I'm Jim Blake who met you at the Smith's dance the other night, and I wonder if I may come to see you."

Plates Served Only for Children

Dear Mrs. Post: Is it permissible to serve the plates in the kitchen and then put them down in front of each? I never thought it was except for one's own family. And are the plates which have divisions the only ones proper for such service?

Answer: It would be unthinkable to serve plates for people who are grown (except "blue plate" dinner at a restaurant). It should be done only for children too young to help themselves.

When Girl Invites Man

Dear Mrs. Post: Is taking a man to her own club or church dance the only occasion a girl may invite a man to go out with her? In other words, is it never permissible for her to invite him to "a show" or to go dancing in a public place?

Answer: If she has tickets for a special charity "show" or dance, she may, of course, ask a man to go with her but not otherwise.

Do you know what to wear to a "semi-formal" party? Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail but her leaflet E-35, The Well-Dressed Woman," includes "semi-formal" dress. To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin to her, care of The Kingston Daily Freeman, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y. (Released by The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

Former Ellenville Resident to Wed

New York, Sept. 17—(Special)—The marriage of Miss Sara Steinhoff, formerly of Ellenville, now at 1005 45th street, Brooklyn, to Robert Hoffman, of 451 Kingston avenue, Brooklyn, will take place shortly.

The couple obtained their license to wed at the Municipal Building here today.

Miss Steinhoff, who was born in Ellenville, is the daughter of Meyer and Lena Steinhoff. He prospective husband, who is the son of Isidor and Sadie Hoffman, was born in Brooklyn. He was divorced from the former Betty Moore in 1945.

Will Live in Lake Katrine

Dorothy Ann Wells, Hilbert J. Bahruth, Are Married Here in Church Ceremony

Miss Dorothy Ann Wells, daughter of Mrs. Solomon J. Wells, 89 Hone street, and the late Mr. Wells, was married Sunday, Sept. 9 at 1:30 p. m. in St. Mary's Church to Hilbert John Bahruth. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Bahruth of Lake Katrine. Officiating at the double ring ceremony was the Rev. Edward I. Farrelly, assistant pastor of that parish. Traditional organ selections were played by Theodore Riccobono.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother, William Wells. She was dressed in a white satin gown, en train, fashioned with a sweetheart neckline trimmed with seed pearls. Her veil was secured by a crown of seed pearls, and she carried a bouquet of white gladioli.

Mrs. John Szymanski of this city, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. She wore an ice-blue satin gown with a matching picture hat, and carried a bouquet of yellow gladioli.

Serving as bridesmaids were two other sisters of the bride: Mrs. Michael J. Gallagher and Mrs. Gerard Matthews, both of this city. They were dressed in gowns of mauve satin and rhinestone studded bonnets. They carried scarlet gladioli.

Theodore Pfeiffer of Glenerie was best man, while Leo Wells, brother of the bride, and Gerard Matthews, brother-in-law of the bride, ushered.

A reception followed at Airport Inn for 60 guests. On their wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Bahruth will tour the southern states and visit Florida. For traveling the bride chose a dark green suit with matching accessories, a light yellow topper and a yellow rose corsage. Upon their return they will make their home at Tall Cedar Cabins, Lake Katrine.

Mrs. Bahruth attended Kingston High School and is employed with the Forst Packing Co. Inc. Her husband is a graduate of Baldwin High School, Baldwin, L. I., and served with the U. S. Coast Guard during World War 2. He is now associated with Tall Cedar Cabins.

Good Taste Today

by Emily Post

(Author of "Etiquette," "Children Are People," etc.)

Call Her, by All Means!

A reader explains in a letter today: "I know a man who met a woman one evening at a party and liked her very much. He would like to know her better but there seems no way except for him to take the initiative. Does an introduction at a rather large impersonal type of party constitute sufficient excuse for his telephoning her now? It is possible she may not remember who he was or his name. How would he introduce himself?"

He could telephone and say, "I'm Jim Blake who met you at the Smith's dance the other night, and I wonder if I may come to see you."

Plates Served Only for Children

Dear Mrs. Post: Is it permissible to serve the plates in the kitchen and then put them down in front of each? I never thought it was except for one's own family. And are the plates which have divisions the only ones proper for such service?

Answer: It would be unthinkable to serve plates for people who are grown (except "blue plate" dinner at a restaurant). It should be done only for children too young to help themselves.

When Girl Invites Man

Dear Mrs. Post: Is taking a man to her own club or church dance the only occasion a girl may invite a man to go out with her? In other words, is it never permissible for her to invite him to "a show" or to go dancing in a public place?

Answer: If she has tickets for a special charity "show" or dance, she may, of course, ask a man to go with her but not otherwise.

Do you know what to wear to a "semi-formal" party? Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail but her leaflet E-35, The Well-Dressed Woman," includes "semi-formal" dress. Will Live in Lake Katrine

Dorothy Ann Wells, Hilbert J. Bahruth, Are Married Here in Church Ceremony

Miss Dorothy Ann Wells, daughter of Mrs. Solomon J. Wells, 89 Hone street, and the late Mr. Wells, was married Sunday, Sept. 9 at 1:30 p. m. in St. Mary's Church to Hilbert John Bahruth. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Bahruth of Lake Katrine. Officiating at the double ring ceremony was the Rev. Edward I. Farrelly, assistant pastor of that parish. Traditional organ selections were played by Theodore Riccobono.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother, William Wells. She was dressed in a white satin gown, en train, fashioned with a sweetheart neckline trimmed with seed pearls. Her veil was secured by a crown of seed pearls, and she carried a bouquet of white gladioli.

Mrs. John Szymanski of this city, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. She wore an ice-blue satin gown with a matching picture hat, and carried a bouquet of yellow gladioli.

Serving as bridesmaids were two other sisters of the bride: Mrs. Michael J. Gallagher and Mrs. Gerard Matthews, both of this city. They were dressed in gowns of mauve satin and rhinestone studded bonnets. They carried scarlet gladioli.

Theodore Pfeiffer of Glenerie was best man, while Leo Wells, brother of the bride, and Gerard Matthews, brother-in-law of the bride, ushered.

A reception followed at Airport Inn for 60 guests. On their wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Bahruth will tour the southern states and visit Florida. For traveling the bride chose a dark green suit with matching accessories, a light yellow topper and a yellow rose corsage. Upon their return they will make their home at Tall Cedar Cabins, Lake Katrine.

Mrs. Bahruth attended Kingston High School and is employed with the Forst Packing Co. Inc. Her husband is a graduate of Baldwin High School, Baldwin, L. I., and served with the U. S. Coast Guard during World War 2. He is now associated with Tall Cedar Cabins.

Three Generations Attend Reunion

A family reunion, including three generations, was held Sunday at the home of Edwin Higby, 71 Wrentham street.

Attending were the host's grandmother, Mrs. Mary Neimeyer of this city, octogenarian; her granddaughter, Mrs. LaWesta Galipean of Port Jervis; her great granddaughters, Mary and Normandy Galipean, 11 and four years-of-age respectively, and the host's mother, Mrs. M. S. Higby of Port Jervis.

A buffet luncheon was served and Mrs. Neimeyer, as guest of honor, was presented with a bouquet of flowers.

Special sessions for conferring the sixth degree will be held next month on five successive days in five different eastern counties for the convenience of members who wish to take advantage of these opportunities in advance of State and National Grange Sessions. Headed by State Master Henry D. Sherwood, the complete roster of state officers will be present at the following places on the following dates: South Kortright, Delaware county, October 15; Liberty, Sullivan, Oct. 16; Kingston, Ulster, Oct. 17; Mahopac, Putnam, Oct. 18; and Farmingdale, L. I., Oct. 19. You can obtain full details from your subordinate master. Several counties are already making plans to send bus loads to these special sessions, and you may want to make similar plans.

State Grange 79th Annual Sessions at Syracuse October 30 through November 2 promise to set an all-time attendance record. With Grange membership in the state the greatest in the history of the Order, and prospects of holding the colorful sixth degree in the beautiful, new War Memorial auditorium in Syracuse, seems to assure a full quota of delegates and visitors to this centrally-located convention city. Having had a preview of the War Memorial, we can assure you that it will adequately take care of all who wish to take and observe the sixth degree.

Homestead and Grange Hall Improvement has been the farm practice project for this year. By the number of Granges that reported such a plan as one of their community service projects, we know there has been considerable interest around the state, and a number of homes and Grange halls have had a face-lifting. We are following with interest an Erie county Grange which will have the cooperation of a nurserymen's association. We are surprised that more nurseries in the state didn't prick up their ears at this project. Some promotion ideas would have produced sales. Patroon Grange

During the recent meeting of Patroon Grange, 1519, prizes were awarded for the zinnia growing contest which the Grange had sponsored.

Those named were Mr. and Mrs. Berlin Wright, first prize; Mrs. Celia Jansen, second; and Mr. Wernmann, third. Prizes were African violets given by the lecturer, Stanley F. Kelder.

Also at the meeting, officers were elected for the year including Jacob G. DeWitt, master; Burton Marshall, overseer; Grace Schoonmaker, lecturer; Clifford Schoonmaker, steward; P. W. Gazlay, assistant steward; Virginia Hageman, lady assistant steward; Carol Barringer, chaplain; Lillian Davis, treasurer; Rowitha Davis, secretary; Lillian Brown, gatekeeper; Joyce Barringer, Ceres; Dorothy Quick, Pomona; Carolyn Freer, Flora. Berlin Wright was named to the executive committee.

The officers will be installed at a meeting in the near future. The next regular meeting will be held September 24 at which time booster night and a flower show will be featured. A pot-luck supper also will be held.

On Dean's List

Madison, N. J., Sept. 18—Miss Joan S. Cain of 85 Wurts street, Kingston, is on the current dean's list for academic achievement at Drew University, Dean Raymond A. Withey of the College of Liberal Arts announced today. The list announced is for excellence in the spring semester grades. Miss Cain will begin her senior year at Drew this week.

Syracuse Professor Is Named Hospital Graduation Speaker

MARGUERITE J. FISHER

Members of the graduating class at Kingston Hospital School of Nursing will be addressed Thursday night by Marguerite J. Fisher, associate professor of political science, Maxwell Graduate School of Citizenship and Public Affairs, Syracuse University, Miss Almena Porter, director of the nursing school's faculty announced today. Commencement exercises will begin at 8:30 p. m.

Miss Fisher is a graduate of Smith College, and received her doctor of philosophy degree from Columbia University. She is the author of Municipal and Other Local Governments which was published by Prentice-Hall last year, and has written several magazine articles on the status of women, including one which appeared in a 1950 edition of the American Journal of Nursing.

In addition to writing and class work, she has found time for many outside activities. A former president of the Syracuse League for Women Voters, she is now first vice-president of the New York State Federation of business and Professional Women, and at Syracuse, with Dean Hilton's aid, helped to found the Status and Responsibilities of Women in Democracy. She is also widely traveled, and spent the last two summers in Europe.

Annual Procession To Be September 23

Glasco will assume an old world air next Sunday, Sept. 23, when the annual procession in honor of St. Cosmas and St. Damian wends through the village's streets. In the event of rain the procession, scheduled to begin at 2 p. m., will be held the next day. Participants have been asked to gather at the church at 1:30 p. m.

During the procession statutes of the saints will be carried through the streets before returning to the church for benediction. The procession will be accompanied by the Glasco Community Band.

Charles Pasqua has been announced chairman of the annual event. Mass for those participating will be offered the following Sunday.

Surprise Party Held For Mrs. Terpening

Mrs. Henry T. Terpening, Sr. of 84 St. James street was feted at a surprise birthday dinner party, arranged at her home by members of her family Friday, Sept. 14.

Attending were Mr. and Mrs. Ray E. Billows, Ned and Barbara Lee Billows, Staatsburg; Mr. and Mrs. Donald Badgley, Mr. and Mrs. Leon L. Jaminet, Poughkeepsie; Mr. and Mrs. Al M. HOME BUREAU

Receives Training

Miss Helen Rowe, assistant county home demonstration agent, spent the past week at the New York State College of Home Economics, Ithaca, receiving training on pattern alteration, information which will be used in training leaders on the making of a cotton dress. Classes for leaders in this project begin on September 20 at the municipal auditorium.

Drama School Scheduled

Professor Mary Eva Duthie, specialist in dramatics from New York State College of Agriculture, will conduct training schools on the afternoon and evening of September 25 on skits and social dramas. The first section will be held the afternoon of September 25 from 1:30 until 3:30. The evening section will be held from 8 p. m. until 10. Both groups will meet at the Old First Reformed Church, corner of Main and Wall streets. Any groups intrested in sending representatives to this training school as church groups and granges are welcome to do so. No advance enrollment is necessary.

Fabric Gloves

Forty-two glove leaders are enrolled to receive instruction this week from Mrs. Edmund Bower. Fabric gloves were on display at the Ulster County Fair. These handmade fabric gloves represent considerable savings and assure the makers of gloves especially adapted to fit their hands.

District Meeting

The second district meeting on cleaning and adjusting the sewing machine will be conducted by Mrs. Alvin Stiller, county leader, in the fire hall at Saugerties September 27. There is still opportunity for enrollment in this class. Further details will be furnished at the Home Bureau office.

Kingston Day Unit

Kingston Day Unit, Home Bureau, held its regular monthly meeting Thursday at 410 Broadway. In the absence of Mrs. E. Steuding, chairman, Mrs. O. Christensen presided. Four new members were welcomed into the group, and a social hour was held following the meeting. Hostess for the tea was Mrs. William Leehive assisted by the Mmes. Joseph Brooks, Howard Aliton, Josephine Bush, Raymond Gossoo, Alex Gerlak, John Van Kleeck and Frank Reis. Mrs. Clifford DuMond and Mrs. Fred Fanrich poured.

Kerhonkson Unit

Kerhonkson Unit No. 1, Home Bureau, held a covered dish supper September 12 at the home of Mrs. Francis McCauley. Mrs. Millard Davis, sponsor, gave a travelogue which she illustrated with colored slides taken by her son, Phillip, on his trip through Alaska, Canada, California and Mexico. Mrs. Joseph Friedman and Mrs. Anna Poole exhibited stuffed dolls, and announced they will begin their doll project lessons in October.

Tabasco Woman Is Feted at Shower

Mrs. George Gray of Tabasco was feted recently at a surprise stork shower held at the home of Mrs. Irving Coddington, Jr., Kerhonkson. Decorations, in pink and blue, were based on a traditional bassinet theme.

Attending were the Mmes. Frank Barringer, Calvin Embree, George Christensen, Claude Christiana, Harry Purcell, Homer Kuhlman, Jr., Eli Sutton, Irving Coddington, Sr., Peter Feltman, Oliver Gray, Donald Christiana and Miss Shirley Denman.

During the shower refreshments were served.

Father Sweeney Retreat Speaker

Services for the Day of Recollection sponsored by Kingston Council, 275, Knights of Columbus, at Mt. St. Alphonsus monastery, Esopus, Sunday, October 7, will be conducted by the Rev. John Sweeney, CSsR, PhD, it has been announced by Harold W. O'Connor of the fraternity's Catholic Action Committee.

According to O'Connor, the advance sale of tickets for the event indicates a record attendance for the day's program starting with a high Mass at 8 a. m. and closing with solemn Benediction at 3 p. m.

All Knights for whom it is possible are urged by Grand Knight Charles Trice to attend the retreat and hear Father Sweeney, a forceful and interesting speaker, who teaches moral philosophy at the monastery.

Those desiring tickets may obtain them from any of the following committee: H. W. O'Connor, John McManus, Joseph A. Saccoman, W. Kenneth Geary, James V. Geary, Joseph F. Sullivan, Ralph Carpino, Kenneth T. Clark, Frank Lynch, Arthur Madden, Anthony Turck, Ray Long, Andrew McDermott, Francis L. Carroll, Frank A. Reis, Harold Reis, John B. Whitaker, Victor A. Mahoney, Leo Parks, William Joyce, John Mooney, John Ceccarelli, and Grand Knight Trice.

CYO Plans First Annual Pet Show

The Catholic Youth Organization, with headquarters at 23 West Pierpont street, has added an annual pet show to its agenda, Leo A. Schupp, director announced today, with the first to be held Sunday afternoon, Oct. 7, at Hasbrouck Park. Ideas for a pet show began at the CYO hobby show, when several of the small children wished to enter their pets as hobbies.

There will be several prizes, Mr. Schupp explained, but pets do not need to be pedigreed to win. Prizes will include almost all pet classifications as rodents, birds, reptiles, mammals, fishes and frogs.

Andrew T. Gilday, pet show chairman, and his committee have suggested that parents pack a small lunch and spend the afternoon in the park with the children.

Entry blanks for the show can be obtained from local parochial schools, CYO moderators in the various Ulster county parishes, or from Mr. Schupp. Any animal that is alive and is a pet, may be entered.

County 4-H Club Plans New Project

Ulster county 4-H Club members who are taking foods work this year will be given the opportunity to enroll for a new project, "Fruit Delights," according to Miss Louise Archbold, assistant county 4-H Club agent. Miss Archbold also announced that a meeting to train 4-H Club leaders to teach this project will be given at the Old First Reformed Church Friday, Sept. 21, from 10 a. m. until 3:30 p. m., with Miss Mildred Dunn, food and nutrition specialist, conducting the all-day session.

The purpose of the new project, which Miss Archbold has said any club member should enjoy, is to encourage the use of homegrown fruits by serving them in a variety of ways. Included in the lessons will be easily prepared fruit appetizers, drinks and salads.

Club members with experience in food preparation may make cakes and pies containing fruit to fulfill project requirements.

Water Pistols Banned

Kuala Lumpur (AP)—It's dangerous even to carry a toy water pistol in Malaya while there's war on against Red terrorists. You could be sentenced to death. Under the state of emergency, capital punishment may be inflicted on persons carrying unlicensed firearms. Although it might be difficult to class a water pistol as a firearm, it's nevertheless an offense to possess one.

Still Loves Barbara, Says Neal

Tom Neal, "terribly sorry this all had to happen," describes events leading up to the fight over Barbara Payton which sent Franchot Tone to the hospital. His hand is still bruised from the battle. Neal told the Los Angeles Times "I am still in love with Barbara. She's a wonderful girl . . . I only hope she and Tone will be very happy." Miss Payton announced after visiting Tone that he had proposed and that they will marry when he recovers. (AP Wirephoto)

Proposed

Blonde Barbara Payton, for whom Franchot Tone absorbed a beating at the hands of his erstwhile rival, Tom Neal, tells newsmen in Hollywood that Tone proposed to her when she visited him in the hospital. But, she added, the nuptials won't be celebrated until his battered face mends. She declined to remove her dark glasses for photographers because "I don't want my eye to show," a reference to a shiner she received in the fight. (AP Wirephoto)

Seaman Elected Society's Leader

The board of directors of the Ulster County Branch, American Cancer Society, has elected Walter Seaman of Highland as its president. Seaman succeeds Capt. Andrew S. Hickey.

Other officers elected by the directors at a meeting on September 10 are: Mrs. Henry Knaust, Saugerties, first vice president; Dr. Edward Shea, Kingston, second vice president; Dr. William Bush, Kingston, third vice president; Lloyd LeFever, Richmond Park, fourth vice president; Mrs. William Haggerty, New Paltz, secretary, and Oscar Lawatsch, Kingston, treasurer.

Dr. Francis E. O'Connor was named an honorary member of the board of directors.

Scouts to Stress Reason for Every Citizen to Vote

In connection with their program Forward on Liberty's Team, the Boy Scouts of America will urge Americans to vote in the 1952 presidential election.

This announcement was made today by George V. Dennis, scout executive of Rip Van Winkle Council, who said the scouts of the nation would conduct their drive without reference to any candidate or party.

Dennis, recently returned from the ninth national trainng conference he attended with 2,200 professional leaders of the organization at Michigan State College, said the Boy Scouts plan to place on every doorknob in America—30 millions homes a cardboard hanger in the form of a Liberty Bell, urging every citizen to vote.

At the conference in East Lansing, Mich., plans were discussed for the ensuing year with stress on character building and interest in government.

"There is nothing wrong with America that character could not change," according to Dr. Arthur A. Schuck, chief scout executive, who was chairman of the conference. He stressed "that change can be effected in one generation with the proper training of youth."

In referring to sports scandals, teen-age dope addicts and disclosures of the Kefauver committee, Dennis said that conference speakers stressed that "scouting is ideally equipped to spearhead the drive for moral rearmament and paid tribute to the 750,000 volunteers leaders in aid in training youth intelligently to assume world responsibilities.

Congressman Walter H. Judd of Minnesota, one of the speakers, said "quite another different world is coming into being and we are not equipped to deal with it.

"We must have a wider knowledge and deeper understanding of what is happening in the world.

"Our greatest deficiency in America today is persons proficient in handling diplomatic economic relations. We must have a wider knowledge and deeper understanding of the nature of government itself."

Syracuse Professor Is Named Hospital Graduation Speaker

MARGUERITE J. FISHER

Members of the graduating class at Kingston Hospital School of Nursing will be addressed Thursday night by Marguerite J. Fisher, associate professor of political science, Maxwell Graduate School of Citizenship and Public Affairs, Syracuse University, Miss Almena Porter, director of the nursing school's faculty announced today. Commencement exercises will begin at 8:30 p. m.

Miss Fisher is a graduate of Smith College, and received her doctor of philosophy degree from Columbia University. She is the author of Municipal and Other Local Governments which was published by Prentice-Hall last year, and has written several magazine articles on the status of women, including one which appeared in a 1950 edition of the American Journal of Nursing.

In addition to writing and class work, she has found time for many outside activities. A former president of the Syracuse League for Women Voters, she is now first vice-president of the New York State Federation of business and Professional Women, and at Syracuse, with Dean Hilton's aid, helped to found the Status and Responsibilities of Women in Democracy. She is also widely traveled, and spent the last two summers in Europe.

Annual Procession To Be September 23

Glasco will assume an old world air next Sunday, Sept. 23, when the annual procession in honor of St. Cosmas and St. Damian wends through the village's streets. In the event of rain the procession scheduled to begin at 2 p. m., will be held the next day. Participants have been asked to gather at the church at 1:30 p. m.

During the procession statutes of the saints will be carried through the streets before returning to the church for benediction. The procession will be accompanied by the Glasco Community Band.

Charles Pasqua has been announced chairman of the annual event. Mass for those participating will be offered the following Sunday.

Surprise Party Held For Mrs. Terpening

HOME BUREAU

Receives Training

Miss Helen Rowe, assistant county home demonstration agent, spent the past week at the New York State College of Home Economics, Ithaca, receiving training on pattern alteration, information which will be used in training leaders on the making of a cotton dress. Classes for leaders in this project begin on September 20 at the municipal auditorium.

Drama School Scheduled

Professor Mary Eva Duthie, specialist in dramatics from New York State College of Agriculture, will conduct training schools on the afternoon and evening of September 25 on skits and social dramas. The first section will be held the afternoon of September 25 from 1:30 until 3:30. The evening section will be held from 8 p. m. until 10. Both groups will meet at the Old First Reformed Church, corner of Main and Wall streets. Any groups intrested in sending representatives to this training school as church groups and granges are welcome to do so. No advance enrollment is necessary.

Fabric Gloves

Forty-two glove leaders are enrolled to receive instruction this week from Mrs. Edmund Bower. Fabric gloves were on display at the Ulster County Fair. These handmade fabric gloves represent considerable savings and assure the makers of gloves especially adapted to fit their hands.

District Meeting

The second district meeting on cleaning and adjusting the sewing machine will be conducted by Mrs. Alvin Stiller, county leader, in the fire hall at Saugerties September 27. There is still opportunity for enrollment in this class. Further details will be furnished at the Home Bureau office.

Kingston Day Unit

Kingston Day Unit, Home Bureau, held its regular monthly meeting Thursday at 410 Broadway. In the absence of Mrs. E. Steuding, chairman, Mrs. O. Christensen presided. Four new members were welcomed into the group, and a social hour was held following the meeting. Hostess for the tea was Mrs. William Leehive assisted by the Mmes. Joseph Brooks, Howard Aliton, Josephine Bush, Raymond Gossoo, Alex Gerlak, John Van Kleeck and Frank Reis. Mrs. Clifford DuMond and Mrs. Fred Fanrich poured.

Kerhonkson Unit

Kerhonkson Unit No. 1, Home Bureau, held a covered dish supper September 12 at the home of Mrs. Francis McCauley. Mrs. Millard Davis, sponsor, gave a travelogue which she illustrated with colored slides taken by her son, Phillip, on his trip through Alaska, Canada, California and Mexico. Mrs. Joseph Friedman and Mrs. Anna Poole exhibited stuffed dolls, and announced they will begin their doll project lessons in October.

Tabasco Woman Is Feted at Shower

Mrs. George Gray of Tabasco was feted recently at a surprise stork shower held at the home of Mrs. Irving Coddington, Jr., Kerhonkson. Decorations, in pink and blue, were based on a traditional bassinet theme.

Attending were the Mmes. Frank Barringer, Calvin Embree, George Christensen, Claude Christiana, Harry Purcell, Homer Kuhlman, Jr., Eli Sutton, Irving Coddington, Sr., Peter Feltman, Oliver Gray, Donald Christiana and Miss Shirley Denman.

During the shower refreshments were served.

Father Sweeney Retreat Speaker

Services for the Day of Recollection sponsored by Kingston Council, 275, Knights of Columbus, at Mt. St. Alphonsus monastery, Esopus, Sunday, October 7, will be conducted by the Rev. John Sweeney, CSsR, PhD, it has been announced by Harold W. O'Connor of the fraternity's Catholic Action Committee.

According to O'Connor, the advance sale of tickets for the event indicates a record attendance for the day's program starting with a high Mass at 8 a. m. and closing with solemn Benediction at 3 p. m.

All Knights for whom it is possible are urged by Grand Knight Charles Trice to attend the retreat and hear Father Sweeney, a forceful and interesting speaker, who teaches moral philosophy at the monastery.

Those desiring tickets may obtain them from any of the following committee: H. W. O'Connor, John McManus, Joseph A. Saccoman, W. Kenneth Geary, James V. Geary, Joseph F. Sullivan, Ralph Carpino, Kenneth T. Clark, Frank Lynch, Arthur Madden, Anthony Turck, Ray Long, Andrew McDermott, Francis L. Carroll, Frank A. Reis, Harold Reis, John B. Whitaker, Victor A. Mahoney, Leo Parks, William Joyce, John Mooney, John Ceccarelli, and Grand Knight Trice.

CYO Plans First Annual Pet Show

The Catholic Youth Organization, with headquarters at 23 West Pierpont street, has added an annual pet show to its agenda, Leo A. Schupp, director announced today, with the first to be held Sunday afternoon, Oct. 7, at Hasbrouck Park. Ideas for a pet show began at the CYO hobby show, when several of the small children wished to enter their pets as hobbies.

There will be several prizes, Mr. Schupp explained, but pets do not need to be pedigreed to win. Prizes will include almost all pet classifications as rodents, birds, reptiles, mammals, fishes and frogs.

Andrew T. Gilday, pet show chairman, and his committee have suggested that parents pack a small lunch and spend the afternoon in the park with the children.

Entry blanks for the show can be obtained from local parochial schools, CYO moderators in the various Ulster county parishes, or from Mr. Schupp. Any animal that is alive and is a pet, may be entered.

County 4-H Club Plans New Project

Ulster county 4-H Club members who are taking foods work this year will be given the opportunity to enroll for a new project, "Fruit Delights," according to Miss Louise Archbold, assistant county 4-H Club agent. Miss Archbold also announced that a meeting to train 4-H Club leaders to teach this project will be given at the Old First Reformed Church Friday, Sept. 21, from 10 a. m. until 3:30 p. m., with Miss Mildred Dunn, food and nutrition specialist, conducting the all-day session.

The purpose of the new project, which Miss Archbold has said any club member should enjoy, is to encourage the use of homegrown fruits by serving them in a variety of ways. Included in the lessons will be easily prepared fruit appetizers, drinks and salads.

Club members with experience in food preparation may make cakes and pies containing fruit to fulfill project requirements.

Water Pistols Banned

Kuala Lumpur (AP)—It's dangerous even to carry a toy water pistol in Malaya while there's war on against Red terrorists. You could be sentenced to death. Under the state of emergency, capital punishment may be inflicted on persons carrying unlicensed firearms. Although it might be difficult to class a water pistol as a firearm, it's nevertheless an offense to possess one.

Still Loves Barbara, Says Neal

Tom Neal, "terribly sorry this all had to happen," describes events leading up to the fight over Barbara Payton which sent Franchot Tone to the hospital. His hand is still bruised from the battle. Neal told the Los Angeles Times "I am still in love with Barbara. She's a wonderful girl . . . I only hope she and Tone will be very happy." Miss Payton announced after visiting Tone that he had proposed and that they will marry when he recovers. (AP Wirephoto)

Proposed

Blonde Barbara Payton, for whom Franchot Tone absorbed a beating at the hands of his erstwhile rival, Tom Neal, tells newsmen in Hollywood that Tone proposed to her when she visited him in the hospital. But, she added, the nuptials won't be celebrated until his battered face mends. She declined to remove her dark glasses for photographers because "I don't want my eye to show," a reference to a shiner she received in the fight. (AP Wirephoto)

Seaman Elected Society's Leader

The board of directors of the Ulster County Branch, American Cancer Society, has elected Walter Seaman of Highland as its president. Seaman succeeds Capt. Andrew S. Hickey.

Other officers elected by the directors at a meeting on September 10 are: Mrs. Henry Knaust, Saugerties, first vice president; Dr. Edward Shea, Kingston, second vice president; Dr. William Bush, Kingston, third vice president; Lloyd LeFever, Richmond Park, fourth vice president; Mrs. William Haggerty, New Paltz, secretary, and Oscar Lawatsch, Kingston, treasurer.

Dr. Francis E. O'Connor was named an honorary member of the board of directors.

Scouts to Stress Reason for Every Citizen to Vote

In connection with their program Forward on Liberty's Team, the Boy Scouts of America will urge Americans to vote in the 1952 presidential election.

This announcement was made today by George V. Dennis, scout executive of Rip Van Winkle Council, who said the scouts of the nation would conduct their drive without reference to any candidate or party.

Dennis, recently returned from the ninth national trainng conference he attended with 2,200 professional leaders of the organization at Michigan State College, said the Boy Scouts plan to place on every doorknob in America—30 millions homes a cardboard hanger in the form of a Liberty Bell, urging every citizen to vote.

At the conference in East Lansing, Mich., plans were discussed for the ensuing year with stress on character building and interest in government.

"There is nothing wrong with America that character could not change," according to Dr. Arthur A. Schuck, chief scout executive, who was chairman of the conference. He stressed "that change can be effected in one generation with the proper training of youth."

In referring to sports scandals, teen-age dope addicts and disclosures of the Kefauver committee, Dennis said that conference speakers stressed that "scouting is ideally equipped to spearhead the drive for moral rearmament, and paid tribute to the 750,000 volunteers leaders in aid in training youth intelligently to assume world responsibilities.

Congressman Walter H. Judd of Minnesota, one of the speakers, said "quite another different world is coming into being and we are not equipped to deal with it.

"We must have a wider knowledge and deeper understanding of what is happening in the world.

"Our greatest deficiency in America today is persons proficient in handling diplomatic economic relations. We must have a wider knowledge and deeper understanding of the nature of government itself."

Grange News

Special sessions for conferring the sixth degree will be held next month on five successive days in five different eastern counties for the convenience of members who wish to take advantage of these opportunities in advance of State and National Grange Sessions. Headed by State Master Henry D. Sherwood, the complete roster of state officers will be present at the following places on the following dates: South Kortright, Delaware county, October 15; Liberty, Sullivan, Oct. 16; Kingston, Ulster, Oct. 17; Mahopac, Putnam, Oct. 18; and Farmingdale, L. I., Oct. 19. You can obtain full details from your subordinate master. Several counties are already making plans to send bus loads to these special sessions, and you may want to make similar plans.

State Grange 79th Annual Sessions at Syracuse October 30 through November 2 promise to set an all-time attendance record. With Grange membership in the state the greatest in the history of the Order, and prospects of holding the colorful sixth degree in the beautiful, new War Memorial auditorium in Syracuse, seems to assure a full quota of delegates and visitors to this centrally-located convention city. Having had a preview of the War Memorial, we can assure you that it will adequately take care of all who wish to take and observe the sixth degree.

Homestead and Grange Hall Improvement has been the farm practice project for this year. By the number of Granges that reported such a plan as one of their community service projects, we know there has been considerable interest around the state, and a number of homes and Grange halls have had a face-lifting. We are following with interest an Erie county Grange which will have the cooperation of a nurserymen's association. We are surprised that more nurseries in the state didn't prick up their ears at this project. Some promotion ideas would have produced sales. We are hopeful that we will have some "before and after" pictures available before long.

Patroon Grange

During the recent meeting of Patroon Grange, 1519, prizes were awarded for the zinnia growing contest which the Grange had sponsored.

Those named were Mr. and Mrs. Berlin Wright, first prize; Mrs. Celia Jansen, second; and Mr. Wernmann, third. Prizes were African violets given by the lecturer, Stanley F. Kelder.

Also at the meeting, officers were elected for the year including Jacob G. DeWitt, master; Burton Marshall, overseer; Grace Schoonmaker, lecturer; Clifford Schoonmaker, steward; P. W. Gazlay, assistant steward; Virginia Hageman, lady assistant steward; Carol Barringer, chaplain; Lillian Davis, treasurer; Rowitha Davis, secretary; Lillian Brown, gatekeeper; Joyce Barringer, Ceres; Dorothy Quick, Pomona; Carolyn Freer, Flora. Berlin Wright was named to the executive committee.

The officers will be installed at a meeting in the near future. The next regular meeting will be held September 24 at which time booster night and a flower show will be featured. A pot-luck supper also will be held.

Old Cleveland Custom of Losing To Yanks May Mean AL Pennant

Tribe Without Edge Since 1945 Season

By JOE REICHLER
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Cleveland's vanishing Indians are rid of New York for the season but they may have left the pennant behind in Yankee Stadium.

As they have done in all but one of their 11 games in the Yankees' home grounds, the Indians lost again yesterday. This time they dropped a galling 2-1 tussle that put them a full game behind the front-running New Yorkers.

It may be a case of out of the frying pan into the fire for the beleaguered Tribe, who open a two-game series with the Red Sox today in Boston. The Red Sox, winners of six of their last seven starts and fresh from a 12-5 romp over the Chicago White Sox, are only a game and a half behind Cleveland in this tense three-team American League race.

Losing to New York is an old Cleveland custom. In the last 20 years the Indians have won only one season series from the Yankees. That probably accounts for only one Cleveland championship during that time.

Oddly enough, the Indians' edge over the Yankees did not come in 1948, Cleveland's pennant winning year. It came in 1945—a 12 to nine edge—when the Indians wound up in fifth. But they had the satisfaction of seeing the Yankees place fourth, the lowest New York finish since 1925.

Squeeze Pays Off

It was Phil Rizzuto, the shortest of the Yanks, who beat the Indians yesterday with the shortest of hits. The winning blow—a deft squeeze bunt that didn't even reach the pitchers mound—brought in Joe DiMaggio with the payoff run.

It came in the last of the ninth after Cleveland Manager Al Lopez had ordered pitcher Bob Lemon to walk Bobby Brown on purpose with runners on first and third and one out.

The victory went to Eddie Lopat, who squelched the Indians with three hits to reach the 20-win mark for the first time in his career. The only Cleveland tally came in the sixth and it took an error to pave the way for the Indians' unearned run. An infield out followed by Bobby Avila's single brought the run across.

The Yankees, who made seven hits off loser Lemon, had snapped a scoreless deadlock in the fifth when Rizzuto singled in Brown, who had lined a one-bounce ground rule double into the right field stands.

The stage for the winning marker was set by DiMaggio, who scratched a single off Al Rosen's glove with one out. Gene Woodling followed with a bouncer past first baseman Luke Easter that sent DiMaggio streaking into third. Then came the strategy that backfired.

A 13-hit Red Sox attack, featured by the clubbing of Ted Williams and Clyde Vollmer, gave Ray Scarborough his 12th victory over the White Sox. Williams had a perfect day at bat with two singles, a double and his 30th home in four official times at bat. Vollmer banged in five runs with two singles and his 22nd homer.

Campy on Shelf

The Brooklyn Dodgers not only had their National League lead cut to four games over New York's Giants as they bowed to the Cubs, 5-3, in Chicago, but lost the services of Roy Campanella for at least two days.

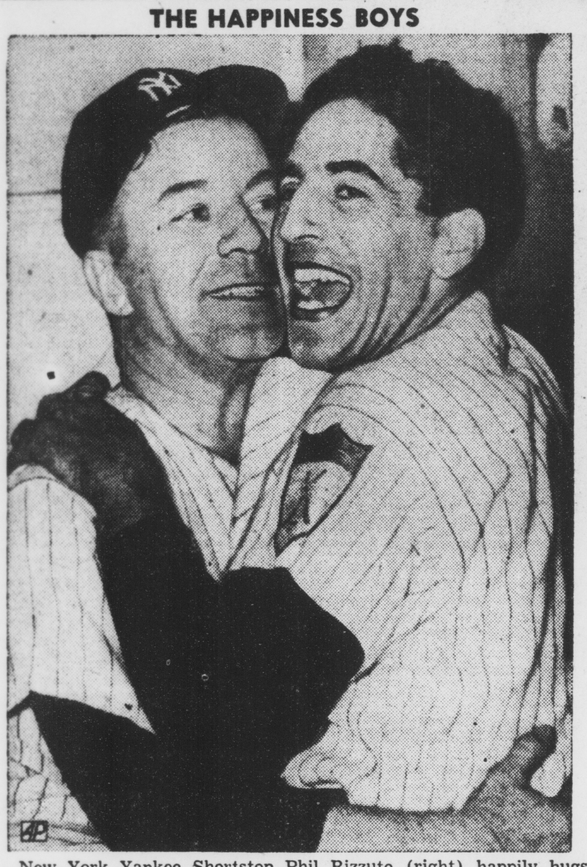
Brooklyn's star catcher was laid low by a pitched ball which struck him on the left ear and sent him to the hospital. The pitch, delivered by Turk Lown in the second inning, knocked Campanella unconscious. X-rays taken later showed no fracture, but Roy was held overnight for observation.

The Dodgers gave Don Newcombe a 3-0 lead over the first six innings but the righthander wilted in the seventh. Two-run homers by Hank Sauer and pinch-hitter Gene Hermanski turned the tide. Hermanski, an ex-Dodger, hit his game-winner off reliefer Clyde King who was charged with his seventh defeat.

Tommy Brown hit his ninth homer of the season in the 10th inning to give Robin Roberts his 20th victory and the Philadelphia Phils a 2-1 triumph over the St. Louis Cardinals.

All other teams enjoyed a day off.

THE HAPPINESS BOYS



New York Yankee Shortstop Phil Rizzuto (right) happily hugs Pitcher Ed Lopat in dressing room at New York's Yankee Stadium, Sept. 17, after the team had whipped the Cleveland Indians, 2-1, for its second straight victory. Lopat's three-hit pitching and Rizzuto, three hits, including a game-winning squeeze bunt in the ninth inning, were the biggest factors in the win that put the Yanks a full game in front of the Indians in the tight American League pennant race.

SPORTS

By CHARLES J. TIANO

The unhappy experience of the Pittsfield Electrics in the Can-Am League playoffs confirmed their worst fears that the Shaughnessy is a costly venture. As Fran Regan of the Rome Daily Sentinel points out, the playoffs were first adopted and then rescinded during a hot August meeting of Can-Am directors.

A slight rhubarb followed and Gloversville threatened to bolt the league if the playoffs were not held.

Well, let's see how it worked out in Pittsfield. For the first two games of the semi-finals, the management hiked the price of reserved seats to $1.50. Unreserved grandstand and bleacher seats sold at $1, the minimum adult admission.

While strictly within Pittsfield's rights, Regan says, the price boost was such as to hold attendance for the first game there to 579. On the same night in Oneonta, the playoffs drew 824 persons at the regular playoff prices of 50 cents for children and $1 for adults.

Meanwhile Gloversville drew paid attendance of 861 tnd 748 at the two playoff games there while Amsterdam had 872 admissions after a Saturday game in Oneonta attracted 877.

Pittsfield staged the second game of the series despite threatening weather and rain which stopped the contest for 16 minutes at one stage. The paid admission of 260 possibly bolsters Pittsfield's claims against the playoff, if one disregards entirely the weather and price elements.

Regardless of Pittsfield's attitude, recent events have confirmed the fact that the Can-Am was wise in reversing the August decision to forego the playoffs.

The National Assn. of Professional Baseball Leagues through President George M. Trautman has ruled that clubs of two leagues, the Ohio-Indiana and the Central League, both of which curtailed their regular schedules by about a week (an action also considered by the Can-Am) must pay the salaries through the regular closing date and for four additional days if they are eligible for the playoffs.

This means that Pittsfield and the other first division finishers would have been liable for salaries of their performers for four additional days even if the Can-Am had stuck to its earlier agreement to wind up the campaign with the closing games of Labor Day.

• A Drab Picture for the Future:

Regan paints a drab picture of the Can-Am's future. In Rome, he says, this year's losses are expected to exceed $16,000. Added to last year's fiasco this means the two-year operations of the Copper City Sports Enterprises, Inc., have reached the staggering total of approximately $57,000. Is this civic pride or civic madness?

Oneonta is a doubtful starter next season according to Steve Shields, who reveals that if it weren't for the business men and a handful of professional men in Oneonta, the Red Sox would have folded in the middle of the season.

Amsterdam also has the baseball blues. John Page reports the total attendance for the regular season amounted to only 31,319. This is approximately 19,000 under last year's poor season.

Page points out, however, there were 14 rained-out games and rainy, cold nights at the beginning of the season and a number of other nights in mid-season when the wet weather dampened the ardor of even the die-hard fans.

A discouraging note, supporting the theory that fans have lost interest in baseball, is revealed in Amsterdam where figures show that 3,218 pre-season sale tickets, all of which were paid for, were not used during the season. It is unreasonable to believe that these ducats were lost or destroyed, so it must be presumed that owners were just not interested in attending the games.

The same thing happened right here in Kingston. We know at least a dozen prominent business and professional men who purchased stock in the Colonials and never went near the ball park. How apathetic can you get!

Gloversville had a shaky year and losses there may be higher than any other place in the league. Pittsfield also lost important money.

At the moment it appears that a minor miracle is required to start the Can-Am in business again in 1952.

Top Golfers of Nation Set for Start Of $5,000 Metropolitan Championship

Emery Thomas Seen As Possible Winner

Bloomfield, N. J., Sept. 18 (AP)—Like bees flocking to honey, 161 top-notch golfers headed for Forest Hills Country Club course today for the opening of the Metropolitan Golf Championship.

The honey—for the pros anyhow—is represented by the $5,000 prize money for the winners.

Chasing the prizes will be 97 pros and 64 amateurs, among them some of the biggest names in golf.

Leading amateurs in the tournament are Walker Cup stars Frank Stranahan of Toledo, O., Jim McHale of Philadelphia and Willie Turnesa of White Plains, N. Y.

The out-of-state pro contingent includes such classy performers as Claude Harmon, former champion from Mamaroneck, N. Y.; Vic Ghezzi, once national PGA champ, from Inwood, N. Y.; Pete Cooper of White Plains and Mike Turnesa, brother of Willie and all the other golfing Turnesas.

New Jersey golfers given the best chance to give the lie to the old saw that Jerseyans just can't win against top national par-busters are pro Emery Thomas and amateur Chet Sanok.

Thomas, playing on his home course, is given a good chance to earn top prize money if he displays the form that has seen him win four state PGA championships.

Sanok, the long-ball hitting amateur from Upper Montclair showed his ability when he beat the pros in this year's state open.

Some of the other home-state standout pros involved are Willie Goggin of Montclair, Fred Baker of Maplewood, Andy La Pola of Paterson, Hal Sanderson of Summit, Maurie O'Connor of Belleville, Babe Lichardus of Madison, Johnny Kinder of Plainfield and Danny Williams of Boonton.

Bo Wininger of Atlantic City, an amateur who transferred recently from Oklahoma, has the form to keep up with the big boys, too.

The last time the open was held in New Jersey, on this same course, Craig Wood scored 264 for the 72 holes. The mark is still the tournament record and at the time was a world record. The experts figure that the winning score this year will be a lot closer to Forest Hill's par of 280 for four rounds.

New Orleans — Freddie Monforte, 135, Brooklyn, outpointed Ralph Dupas, 131, New Orleans (8).

It's Been a Long Season

Handling the public address system and secretary's scorebook for this year's City Baseball League has resulted in a long summer for Joe Messinger at the Athletic Field. And there's still more to come. Boulevard Gulf and Jones Dairy, finalists in the post-season Shaughnessy playoffs, have made Messinger's work extend longer than expected by engaging in three 1-1 tie games in the past couple of weeks. Boulevards, still needing one game to clinch the playoffs, will try it again on Sunday, Sept. 30, at the Smith avenue ball park. Although showing no partiality, Messinger has fond hopes that the September 30 date will allow him to lock up the scorer's booth for the year. (Freeman Photo)

Hill Prince Set For Big Season

New York, Sept. 18 (AP)—Hill Prince, the American champion race horse of 1950, is apparently his old self again, trainer Casey Hayes said today. If that is true, the other horses around here might just as well save their marbles by picking up and going home.

Obviously elated over the performance of Chris Chenery's handsome big bay colt in his race Saturday at Aqueduct, Hayes said Hill Prince is ready to take on all comers this fall after being sidelined more than eight months with a leg injury.

"Our present objectives are the New York and Manhattan handicaps and the Jockey Club Gold Cup," said Casey.

These three major races come on successive Saturdays at Belmont Park. The New York Handicap at a mile and one eighth comes Sept. 29; the Manhattan at a mile and one half, Oct. 8—both $25,000-added affairs. The $50,000-added Gold Cup Oct. 13 is over the rugged two-mile route.

Princeton Gridders Prep for Columbia

Blairstown, N. J., Sept. 18 (AP)—Princeton's varsity football team practiced up on its offense yesterday as it whipped into shape for the season's opener with Columbia Sept. 29.

The starting backfield was at it for an hour with little letup. George Stevens of Buffalo, N. Y., was at quarterback, Dick Pivirotto of Pittsburgh at wingback, Dick Kazmaier of Maumee, Ohio, at tailback and Russ McNeil of Dover, Del., at fullback.

Two linemen who brought approving comments from Coach Charley Caldwell were Canfield Brown, a guard from White Plains, N. Y., and Len Lyons, an end from Bronxville, N. Y.

Army Tickets on Sale

Tickets for all Army football home games at West Point are now available at O'Reilly's, 611 Broadway. Tickets also may be purchased for the Army vs. Southern California game in New York Nov. 3. Home games scheduled at the Point this year are Sept. 29—Villanova; Oct. 13—Dartmouth; Oct. 27—Columbia; Nov. 10—Citadel, and Nov. 17—Pennsylvania.

Members of the Milton Gun Club trap team were guests of the Lake Katrine Rod and Gun Club Sunday afternoon in a practice session for the annual Federation trophy shoot which will be held October 8 at New Paltz.

Lake Katrine presently holds the handicap trophy while the Glasco club has possession of the scratch trophy.

Chet Joy, captain of the Lake Katrine gunners, has requested full turnouts of members during the coming weeks in preparation for the October 8 shoot. Shooting is held every Sunday at 1 p. m. and all sportsmen are invited to participate.

Klem Will Be Buried In Miami Cemetery

Miami, Fla., Sept. 18 (AP)—Rosary services will be said at 8 p. m. (E.S.T.) tonight for William (Bill) Klem, veteran National League baseball umpire who died Sunday.

Funeral services will be at 10 a. m. (E.S.T.) tomorrow at St. Patrick's Church, Miami Beach. Burial will be in Miami's Graceland Cemetery.

Ford Frick, president of the National League where Klem umpired for 36 years before his retirement in 1941, will be among baseball notables at the funeral.

Klem had been in failing health for several months. He was 77.

The unhappy experience of the Pittsfield Electrics in the Can-Am League playoffs confirmed their worst fears that the Shaughnessy is a costly venture. As Fran Regan of the Rome Daily Sentinel points out, the playoffs were first adopted and then rescinded during a hot August meeting of Can-Am directors.

A slight rhubarb followed and Gloversville threatened to bolt the league if the playoffs were not held.

Well, let's see how it worked out in Pittsfield. For the first two games of the semi-finals, the management hiked the price of reserved seats to $1.50. Unreserved grandstand and bleacher seats sold at $1, the minimum adult admission.

While strictly within Pittsfield's rights, Regan says, the price boost was such as to hold attendance for the first game there to 579. On the same night in Oneonta, the playoffs drew 824 persons at the regular playoff prices of 50 cents for children and $1 for adults.

Meanwhile Gloversville drew paid attendance of 861 tnd 748 at the two playoff games there while Amsterdam had 872 admissions after a Saturday game in Oneonta attracted 877.

Pittsfield staged the second game of the series despite threatening weather and rain which stopped the contest for 16 minutes at one stage. The paid admission of 260 possibly bolsters Pittsfield's claims against the playoff, if one disregards entirely the weather and price elements.

Regardless of Pittsfield's attitude, recent events have confirmed the fact that the Can-Am was wise in reversing the August decision to forego the playoffs.

The National Assn. of Professional Baseball Leagues through President George M. Trautman has ruled that clubs of two leagues, the Ohio-Indiana and the Central League, both of which curtailed their regular schedules by about a week (an action also considered by the Can-Am) must pay the salaries through the regular closing date and for four additional days if they are eligible for the playoffs.

This means that Pittsfield and the other first division finishers would have been liable for salaries of their performers for four additional days even if the Can-Am had stuck to its earlier agreement to wind up the campaign with the closing games of Labor Day.

• A Drab Picture for the Future:

Regan paints a drab picture of the Can-Am's future. In Rome, he says, this year's losses are expected to exceed $16,000. Added to last year's fiasco this means the two-year operations of the Copper City Sports Enterprises, Inc., have reached the staggering total of approximately $57,000. Is this civic pride or civic madness?

Oneonta is a doubtful starter next season according to Steve Shields, who reveals that if it weren't for the business men and a handful of professional men in Oneonta, the Red Sox would have folded in the middle of the season.

Amsterdam also has the baseball blues. John Page reports the total attendance for the regular season amounted to only 31,319. This is approximately 19,000 under last year's poor season.

Page points out, however, there were 14 rained-out games and rainy, cold nights at the beginning of the season and a number of other nights in mid-season when the wet weather dampened the ardor of even the die-hard fans.

A discouraging note, supporting the theory that fans have lost interest in baseball, is revealed in Amsterdam where figures show that 3,218 pre-season sale tickets, all of which were paid for, were not used during the season. It is unreasonable to believe that these ducats were lost or destroyed, so it must be presumed that owners were just not interested in attending the games.

The same thing happened right here in Kingston. We know at least a dozen prominent business and professional men who purchased stock in the Colonials and never went near the ball park. How apathetic can you get!

Gloversville had a shaky year and losses there may be higher than any other place in the league. Pittsfield also lost important money.

At the moment it appears that a minor miracle is required to start the Can-Am in business again in 1952.

Top Golfers of Nation Set for Start Of $5,000 Metropolitan Championship

Emery Thomas Seen As Possible Winner

Bloomfield, N. J., Sept. 18 (AP)—Like bees flocking to honey, 161 top-notch golfers headed for Forest Hills Country Club course today for the opening of the Metropolitan Golf Championship.

The honey—for the pros anyhow—is represented by the $5,000 prize money for the winners.

Chasing the prizes will be 97 pros and 64 amateurs, among them some of the biggest names in golf.

Leading amateurs in the tournament are Walker Cup stars Frank Stranahan of Toledo, O., Jim McHale of Philadelphia and Willie Turnesa of White Plains, N. Y.

The out-of-state pro contingent includes such classy performers as Claude Harmon, former champion from Mamaroneck, N. Y.; Vic Ghezzi, once national PGA champ, from Inwood, N. Y.; Pete Cooper of White Plains and Mike Turnesa, brother of Willie and all the other golfing Turnesas.

New Jersey golfers given the best chance to give the lie to the old saw that Jerseyans just can't win against top national par-busters are pro Emery Thomas and amateur Chet Sanok.

Thomas, playing on his home course, is given a good chance to earn top prize money if he displays the form that has seen him win four state PGA championships.

Sanok, the long-ball hitting amateur from Upper Montclair showed his ability when he beat the pros in this year's state open.

Some of the other home-state standout pros involved are Willie Goggin of Montclair, Fred Baker of Maplewood, Andy La Pola of Paterson, Hal Sanderson of Summit, Maurie O'Connor of Belleville, Babe Lichardus of Madison, Johnny Kinder of Plainfield and Danny Williams of Boonton.

Bo Wininger of Atlantic City, an amateur who transferred recently from Oklahoma, has the form to keep up with the big boys, too.

The last time the open was held in New Jersey, on this same course, Craig Wood scored 264 for the 72 holes. The mark is still the tournament record and at the time was a world record. The experts figure that the winning score this year will be a lot closer to Forest Hill's par of 280 for four rounds.

New Orleans—Freddie Monforte, 135, Brooklyn, outpointed Ralph Dupas, 131, New Orleans (8).

It's Been a Long Season

Handling the public address system and secretary's scorebook for this year's City Baseball League has resulted in a long summer for Joe Messinger at the Athletic Field. And there's still more to come. Boulevard Gulf and Jones Dairy, finalists in the post-season Shaughnessy playoffs, have made Messinger's work extend longer than expected by engaging in three 1-1 tie games in the past couple of weeks. Boulevards, still needing one game to clinch the playoffs, will try it again on Sunday, Sept. 30, at the Smith avenue ball park. Although showing no partiality, Messinger has fond hopes that the September 30 date will allow him to lock up the scorer's booth for the year. (Freeman Photo)

Hill Prince Set For Big Season

New York, Sept. 18 (AP)—Hill Prince, the American champion race horse of 1950, is apparently his old self again, trainer Casey Hayes said today. If that is true, the other horses around here might just as well save their marbles by picking up and going home.

Obviously elated over the performance of Chris Chenery's handsome big bay colt in his race Saturday at Aqueduct, Hayes said Hill Prince is ready to take on all comers this fall after being sidelined more than eight months with a leg injury.

"Our present objectives are the New York and Manhattan handicaps and the Jockey Club Gold Cup," said Casey.

These three major races come on successive Saturdays at Belmont Park. The New York Handicap at a mile and one eighth comes Sept. 29; the Manhattan at a mile and one half, Oct. 8—both $25,000-added affairs. The $50,000-added Gold Cup Oct. 13 is over the rugged two-mile route.

Princeton Gridders Prep for Columbia

Blairstown, N. J., Sept. 18 (AP)—Princeton's varsity football team practiced up on its offense yesterday as it whipped into shape for the season's opener with Columbia Sept. 29.

The starting backfield was at it for an hour with little letup. George Stevens of Buffalo, N. Y., was at quarterback, Dick Pivirotto of Pittsburgh at wingback, Dick Kazmaier of Maumee, Ohio, at tailback and Russ McNeil of Dover, Del., at fullback.

Two linemen who brought approving comments from Coach Charley Caldwell were Canfield Brown, a guard from White Plains, N. Y., and Len Lyons, an end from Bronxville, N. Y.

Army Tickets on Sale

Tickets for all Army football home games at West Point are now available at O'Reilly's, 611 Broadway. Tickets also may be purchased for the Army vs. Southern California game in New York Nov. 3. Home games scheduled at the Point this year are Sept. 29—Villanova; Oct. 13—Dartmouth; Oct. 27—Columbia; Nov. 10—Citadel, and Nov. 17—Pennsylvania.

Klem Will Be Buried In Miami Cemetery

Miami, Fla., Sept. 18 (AP)—Rosary services will be said at 8 p. m. (E.S.T.) tonight for William (Bill) Klem, veteran National League baseball umpire who died Sunday.

Funeral services will be at 10 a. m. (E.S.T.) tomorrow at St. Patrick's Church, Miami Beach. Burial will be in Miami's Graceland Cemetery.

Ford Frick, president of the National League where Klem umpired for 36 years before his retirement in 1941, will be among baseball notables at the funeral.

Klem had been in failing health for several months. He was 77.

Tribe Without Edge Since 1945 Season

By JOE REICHLER
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Cleveland's vanishing Indians are rid of New York for the season but they may have left the pennant behind in Yankee Stadium.

As they have done in all but one of their 11 games in the Yankees' home grounds, the Indians lost again yesterday. This time they dropped a galling 2-1 tussle that put them a full game behind the front-running New Yorkers.

It may be a case of out of the frying pan into the fire for the beleaguered Tribe, who open a two-game series with the Red Sox today in Boston. The Red Sox, winners of six of their last seven starts and fresh from a 12-5 romp over the Chicago White Sox, are only a game and a half behind Cleveland in this tense three-team American League race.

Losing to New York is an old Cleveland custom. In the last 20 years the Indians have won only one season series from the Yankees. That probably accounts for only one Cleveland championship during that time.

Oddly enough, the Indians' edge over the Yankees did not come in 1948, Cleveland's pennant winning year. It came in 1945—a 12 to nine edge—when the Indians wound up in fifth. But they had the satisfaction of seeing the Yankees place fourth, the lowest New York finish since 1925.

Squeeze Pays Off

It was Phil Rizzuto, the shortest of the Yanks, who beat the Indians yesterday with the shortest of hits. The winning blow—a deft squeeze bunt that didn't even reach the pitchers mound—brought in Joe DiMaggio with the payoff run.

It came in the last of the ninth after Cleveland Manager Al Lopez had ordered pitcher Bob Lemon to walk Bobby Brown on purpose with runners on first and third and one out.

The victory went to Eddie Lopat, who squelched the Indians with three hits to reach the 20-win mark for the first time in his career. The only Cleveland tally came in the sixth and it took an error to pave the way for the Indians' unearned run. An infield out followed by Bobby Avila's single brought the run across.

The Yankees, who made seven hits off loser Lemon, had snapped a scoreless deadlock in the fifth when Rizzuto singled in Brown, who had lined a one-bounce ground rule double into the right field stands.

The stage for the winning marker was set by DiMaggio, who scratched a single off Al Rosen's glove with one out. Gene Woodling followed with a bouncer past first baseman Luke Easter that sent DiMaggio streaking into third. Then came the strategy that backfired.

A 13-hit Red Sox attack, featured by the clubbing of Ted Williams and Clyde Vollmer, gave Ray Scarborough his 12th victory over the White Sox. Williams had a perfect day at bat with two singles, a double and his 30th home in four official times at bat. Vollmer banged in five runs with two singles and his 22nd homer.

Campy on Shelf

The Brooklyn Dodgers not only had their National League lead cut to four games over New York's Giants as they bowed to the Cubs, 5-3, in Chicago, but lost the services of Roy Campanella for at least two days.

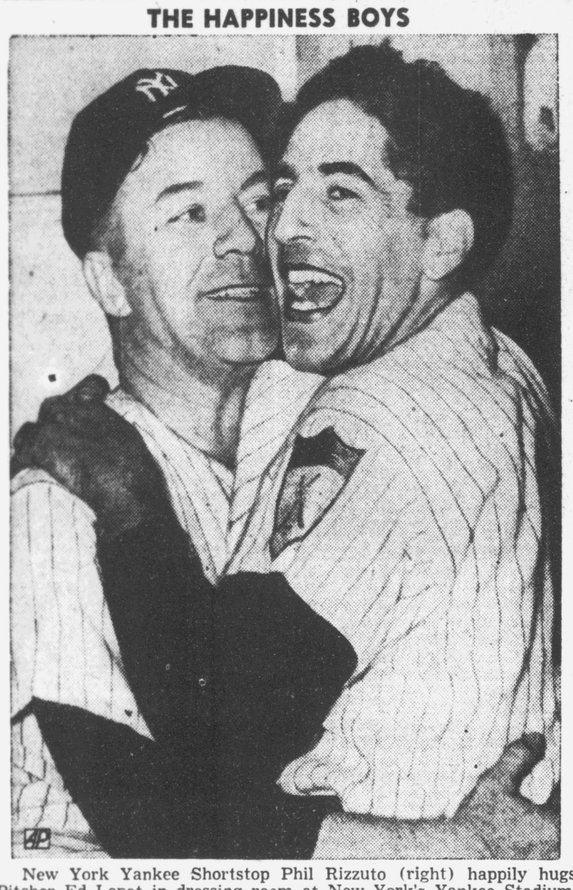
Brooklyn's star catcher was laid low by a pitched ball which struck him on the left ear and sent him to the hospital. The pitch, delivered by Turk Lown in the second inning, knocked Campanella unconscious. X-rays taken later showed no fracture, but Roy was held overnight for observation.

The Dodgers gave Don Newcombe a 3-0 lead over the first six innings but the righthander wilted in the seventh. Two-run homers by Hank Sauer and pinch-hitter Gene Hermanski turned the tide. Hermanski, an ex-Dodger, hit his game-winner off reliefer Clyde King who was charged with his seventh defeat.

Tommy Brown hit his ninth homer of the season in the 10th inning to give Robin Roberts his 20th victory and the Philadelphia Phils a 2-1 triumph over the St. Louis Cardinals.

All other teams enjoyed a day off.

THE HAPPINESS BOYS



New York Yankee Shortstop Phil Rizzuto (right) happily hugs Pitcher Ed Lopat in dressing room at New York's Yankee Stadium, Sept. 17, after the team had whipped the Cleveland Indians, 2-1, for its second straight victory. Lopat's three-hit pitching and Rizzuto, three hits, including a game-winning squeeze bunt in the ninth inning, were the biggest factors in the win that put the Yanks a full game in front of the Indians in the tight American League pennant race.

While strictly within Pittsfield's rights, Regan says, the price boost was such as to hold attendance for the first game there to 579. On the same night in Oneonta, the playoffs drew 824 persons at the regular playoff prices of 50 cents for children and $1 for adults.

Meanwhile Gloversville drew paid attendance of 861 tnd 748 at the two playoff games there while Amsterdam had 872 admissions after a Saturday game in Oneonta attracted 877.

Pittsfield staged the second game of the series despite threatening weather and rain which stopped the contest for 16 minutes at one stage. The paid admission of 260 possibly bolsters Pittsfield's claims against the playoff, if one disregards entirely the weather and price elements.

Regardless of Pittsfield's attitude, recent events have confirmed the fact that the Can-Am was wise in reversing the August decision to forego the playoffs.

The National Assn. of Professional Baseball Leagues through President George M. Trautman has ruled that clubs of two leagues, the Ohio-Indiana and the Central League, both of which curtailed their regular schedules by about a week (an action also considered by the Can-Am) must pay the salaries through the regular closing date and for four additional days if they are eligible for the playoffs.

This means that Pittsfield and the other first division finishers would have been liable for salaries of their performers for four additional days even if the Can-Am had stuck to its earlier agreement to wind up the campaign with the closing games of Labor Day.

● A Drab Picture for the Future:

Regan paints a drab picture of the Can-Am's future. In Rome, he says, this year's losses are expected to exceed $16,000. Added to last year's fiasco this means the two-year operations of the Copper City Sports Enterprises, Inc., have reached the staggering total of approximately $57,000. Is this civic pride or civic madness?

Oneonta is a doubtful starter next season according to Steve Shields, who reveals that if it weren't for the business men and a handful of professional men in Oneonta, the Red Sox would have folded in the middle of the season.

Amsterdam also has the baseball blues. John Page reports the total attendance for the regular season amounted to only 31,319. This is approximately 19,000 under last year's poor season.

Page points out, however, there were 14 rained-out games and rainy, cold nights at the beginning of the season and a number of other nights in mid-season when the wet weather dampened the ardor of even the die-hard fans.

A discouraging note, supporting the theory that fans have lost interest in baseball, is revealed in Amsterdam where figures show that 3,218 pre-season sale tickets, all of which were paid for, were not used during the season. It is unreasonable to believe that these ducats were lost or destroyed, so it must be presumed that owners were just not interested in attending the games.

The same thing happened right here in Kingston. We know at least a dozen prominent business and professional men who purchased stock in the Colonials and never went near the ball park. How apathetic can you get!

Gloversville had a shaky year and losses there may be higher than any other place in the league. Pittsfield also lost important money.

At the moment it appears that a minor miracle is required to start the Can-Am in business again in 1952.

Top Golfers of Nation Set for Start Of $5,000 Metropolitan Championship

Emery Thomas Seen As Possible Winner

Bloomfield, N. J., Sept. 18 (AP)—Like bees flocking to honey, 161 top-notch golfers headed for Forest Hills Country Club course today for the opening of the Metropolitan Golf Championship.

The honey—for the pros anyhow—is represented by the $5,000 prize money for the winners.

Chasing the prizes will be 97 pros and 64 amateurs, among them some of the biggest names in golf.

Leading amateurs in the tournament are Walker Cup stars Frank Stranahan of Toledo, O., Jim McHale of Philadelphia and Willie Turnesa of White Plains, N. Y.

The out-of-state pro contingent includes such classy performers as Claude Harmon, former champion from Mamaroneck, N. Y.; Vic Ghezzi, once national PGA champ, from Inwood, N. Y.; Pete Cooper of White Plains and Mike Turnesa, brother of Willie and all the other golfing Turnesas.

New Jersey golfers given the best chance to give the lie to the old saw that Jerseyans just can't win against top national par-busters are pro Emery Thomas and amateur Chet Sanok.

Thomas, playing on his home course, is given a good chance to earn top prize money if he displays the form that has seen him win four state PGA championships.

Sanok, the long-ball hitting amateur from Upper Montclair showed his ability when he beat the pros in this year's state open.

Some of the other home-state standout pros involved are Willie Goggin of Montclair, Fred Baker of Maplewood, Andy La Pola of Paterson, Hal Sanderson of Summit, Maurie O'Connor of Belleville, Babe Lichardus of Madison, Johnny Kinder of Plainfield and Danny Williams of Boonton.

Bo Wininger of Atlantic City, an amateur who transferred recently from Oklahoma, has the form to keep up with the big boys, too.

The last time the open was held in New Jersey, on this same course, Craig Wood scored 264 for the 72 holes. The mark is still the tournament record and at the time was a world record. The experts figure that the winning score this year will be a lot closer to Forest Hill's par of 280 for four rounds.

New Orleans—Freddie Monforte, 135, Brooklyn, outpointed Ralph Dupas, 131, New Orleans (8).

It's Been a Long Season

Handling the public address system and secretary's scorebook for this year's City Baseball League has resulted in a long summer for Joe Messinger at the Athletic Field. And there's still more to come. Boulevard Gulf and Jones Dairy, finalists in the post-season Shaughnessy playoffs, have made Messinger's work extend longer than expected by engaging in three 1-1 tie games in the past couple of weeks. Boulevards, still needing one game to clinch the playoffs, will try it again on Sunday, Sept. 30, at the Smith avenue ball park. Although showing no partiality, Messinger has fond hopes that the September 30 date will allow him to lock up the scorer's booth for the year. (Freeman Photo)

Hill Prince Set For Big Season

New York, Sept. 18 (AP)—Hill Prince, the American champion race horse of 1950, is apparently his old self again, trainer Casey Hayes said today. If that is true, the other horses around here might just as well save their marbles by picking up and going home.

Obviously elated over the performance of Chris Chenery's handsome big bay colt in his race Saturday at Aqueduct, Hayes said Hill Prince is ready to take on all comers this fall after being sidelined more than eight months with a leg injury.

"Our present objectives are the New York and Manhattan handicaps and the Jockey Club Gold Cup," said Casey.

These three major races come on successive Saturdays at Belmont Park. The New York Handicap at a mile and one eighth comes Sept. 29; the Manhattan at a mile and one half, Oct. 8—both $25,000-added affairs. The $50,000-added Gold Cup Oct. 13 is over the rugged two-mile route.

Princeton Gridders Prep for Columbia

Blairstown, N. J., Sept. 18 (AP)—Princeton's varsity football team practiced up on its offense yesterday as it whipped into shape for the season's opener with Columbia Sept. 29.

The starting backfield was at it for an hour with little letup. George Stevens of Buffalo, N. Y., was at quarterback, Dick Pivirotto of Pittsburgh at wingback, Dick Kazmaier of Maumee, Ohio, at tailback and Russ McNeil of Dover, Del., at fullback.

Two linemen who brought approving comments from Coach Charley Caldwell were Canfield Brown, a guard from White Plains, N. Y., and Len Lyons, an end from Bronxville, N. Y.

Army Tickets on Sale

Tickets for all Army football home games at West Point are now available at O'Reilly's, 611 Broadway. Tickets also may be purchased for the Army vs. Southern California game in New York Nov. 3. Home games scheduled at the Point this year are Sept. 29—Villanova; Oct. 13—Dartmouth; Oct. 27—Columbia; Nov. 10—Citadel, and Nov. 17—Pennsylvania.

Milton Trappers Guests of Katrine Gun Club Sunday

Members of the Milton Gun Club trap team were guests of the Lake Katrine Rod and Gun Club Sunday afternoon in a practice session for the annual Federation trophy shoot which will be held October 8 at New Paltz.

Lake Katrine presently holds the handicap trophy while the Glasco club has possession of the scratch trophy.

Chet Joy, captain of the Lake Katrine gunners, has requested full turnouts of members during the coming weeks in preparation for the October 8 shoot. Shooting is held every Sunday at 1 p. m. and all sportsmen are invited to participate.

Klem Will Be Buried In Miami Cemetery

Miami, Fla., Sept. 18 (AP)—Rosary services will be said at 8 p. m. (E.S.T.) tonight for William (Bill) Klem, veteran National League baseball umpire who died Sunday.

Funeral services will be at 10 a. m. (E.S.T.) tomorrow at St. Patrick's Church, Miami Beach. Burial will be in Miami's Graceland Cemetery.

Ford Frick, president of the National League where Klem umpired for 36 years before his retirement in 1941, will be among baseball notables at the funeral.

Klem had been in failing health for several months. He was 77.

No Home TV for Fight

New York, Sept. 18 (AP)—The featherweight title fight between Champion Sandy Saddler and Willie Pep at the Polo Grounds Sept. 26 will not be televised for home viewers. The International Boxing Club announced the 15-round bout will be piped into theatres outside the New York area. Films will be distributed later by RKO.

Joe Maurer Blasts 278-656 High In City Minor Bowling Circuit

Ken Radel Next With 231-593

A couple of City Minor League bowling luminaries featured Monday night's tenpin action throughout the city bowling circuits.

Heading the parade was Joe Maurer who pounded out a crushing 656 triple on a sizzling string of 211-278-167.

Maurer, incidentally won last year's single crown in the same wheel with a 279 blast.

Seven pins out of the 600 class was Ken Radel, one of the famous Gold Dust twins of local bowling circles, who wound up with a 593 series and a 231 single at the Bowlodrome lanes.

Maurer and Radel led a heavy-scoring session of the league which produced 32 500's or better from Maurer's 656 to 501.

Elsewhere in the tenpin activities last night, Ed Heins set the pace in the opening matches of the Tavern Association at the Bowlatorium with 568; George Goldfarb fired 566 in the Good Neighbor League at the Bowlatorium, Mike Milano posted 529 in the Monday afternoon Electrol shift at Ruzzo's and Nellie Glennon had 454 in the BYA League at the Bowlodrome.

Other top efforts posted in the City Minor League last night were Tom Yonta with 200-202-579; Leo Bechtold 203-579; Ken Powell, the KBA treasurer, 214-577; Ed Dasher 566; Otto Schaller, Jr., 235-566; Leo Mellert 204-552; Don Hornbeck 227-548; Mike Celuch 202-544 and Joe Mahar 541.

Also of note were Tom Parker with 201-537; Hank Grube 220-532; Ralph Dumenigo 200-531; Dom Clausi 207-530; Pete Nagy, 204-525; Ed Smedes 213-525; Nick Savino 221-524; and H. Van Nosdall 200-520.

Trailing Heins' string of 169-179-220 for 568 in the Tavern wheel were Joe Messinger with 550; F. Robinson 217-545; W. Sickler 208-532; L. Snyder 226-530; J. Kennedy 527; J. Secreto 522; E. Cunningham 521 and Eltinge "Pop" Auchmoody 520.

Goldfarb put together scores of 176-181-209 for his pace-setting series in the Good Neighbor League last night. Other top efforts included Jay Melton with 202-534; Haskell Naigles 533; Moe Schwartz 216-517; George Svirsky 205-514; Herman Arlensky 511; J. Singer 511; B. Chipman 510 and Mitzie Arlensky 504.

In a low-scoring session of the Independent League last night Roux stacked games of 218-159-176 for his 553. Trailing were Eugene Vogel with 201-535; Irwin Thomas 531; Jack Hartman 519; Knute Beichert 516; E. Trombley 506 and Dick Pearson 493.

Milano's 529 on a string of 182-225-122 topped the Electrol League with Jim Moss posting 505; C. Raible 493 and C. Tobias 472.

Firing a string of 150-162-142 Nellie Glennon's 454 featured the pinfall in the BYA. Nellie Alverson shot 448; Helene Mollenhauer 435 and Dot Walthery 432.

In Sunday night's Bowlodrome Mixed League, Dick Howard posted a nifty 611 triple on scores of 237-149-225. John Ferraro rolled 233-560; Bob Gorsline 531; J. Strubel 517; J. Bechtold 511; Chris Bachman 504; J. Covey 498 and M. Lawrence 490.

State vs. Nation

Pennsylvania's mills alone surpassed the total production of Germany in ferrous metals during World War 2, and had a greater output than any other nation or empire.

Mercantile Loop Opens on Sept. 27

Opening dates for the Mercantile Bowling League were scheduled for Thursday and Friday nights, September 27 and 28, during a pre-season meeting at the YMCA Monday night.

Teams entered in the Thursday night wheel include Boice's No. 1, No. 2, Rylances, Matthews, Canfield Supply, Fuller Sports, Elstons and the YMCA.

Due to a shortage of teams for the Friday night circuit, it was voted last night to hold up full organization of that league. Only six teams have been entered thus far.

This is an 80 per cent handicap league and any group desiring to bowl is asked to contact Lou Schafer at the Y, 1100.

Fred Sarbacher is president of the Mercantile League.

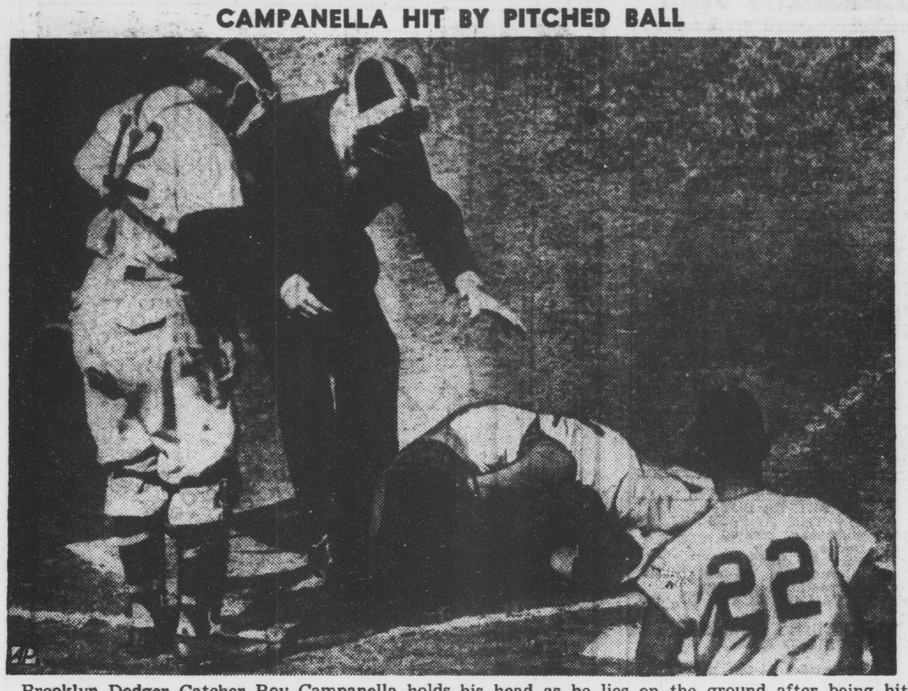
Face-Lift for Garden

New York, Sept. 18 (AP)—Madison Square Garden is undergoing its annual face-lifting for the world's championship rodeo, scheduled Sept. 26 through Oct. 21. First, 8,000 board feet of lumber must be laid on the main arena floor. This must be covered with 60 tons of earth, covering the floor to a depth six to eight inches. Some 300 cowboys will compete for honors and the big midtown arena must accommodate 150 horses and 300 head of broncos, Brahma bulls and steers.

CAMPANELLA HIT BY PITCHED BALL



Brooklyn Dodger Catcher Roy Campanella holds his head as he lies on the ground after being hit by a pitched ball in the second inning of Sept. 17 game with Chicago Cubs in Chicago. Cubs Catcher Mickey Owen (left), Umpire Jocko Conlan and Dodger outfielder Andy Pafko (44) rush in to assist the fallen player who was not seriously injured. The Cubs won, 5-3, cutting the Dodgers' lead over the idle New York Giants to four games. (AP Wirephoto).

Injury to Campy Staggering Blow To Flock Hopes

Chicago, Sept. 18 (AP)—Just before the league-leading Brooklyn Dodgers took the field yesterday for their season finale against the Chicago Cubs, husky Roy Campanella, frisky as a colt, chortled:

'Don't worry about those New York Giants catching us—we're really seven games ahead of them. Those seven more they lost than we have are gone forever." Actually, the Brooks now lead by four games.

Today, Campanella—rated as perhaps the best catcher in baseball—was resting in a Chicago hospital after an accidental beaning by the Cubs' Turk Lown. The Dodgers felt as though they also had received a collective blackjacking. Roy's condition was pronounced fair, but when he will return to the Brooklyn lineup was questionable.

Without Campanella, the Dodgers, who play the Cardinals at St. Louis tonight, conceivably could back away from the National League pennant which the Giants alone believe they, themselves, might somehow miraculously snatch.

The Brooks have 13 games left, the Giants nine.

The husky Negro's absence was felt immediately yesterday as the Dodgers blew a 3-0 lead and lost to the Cubs, 5-3. Big Don Newcombe, who had whipped the Cubs four times this season without defeat, apparently missed the behind-the-plate generalship of Campanella, who was felled in the second inning.

Preliminary X-rays failed to disclose any fracture, but Campanella, now batting .325 and with 31 home runs, had bleeding from his ear as well as lacerations on the the ear surface. He also had a swollen left jaw.

Maggiacomo Captures Feature at Rhinebeck

The Poughkeepsie speed king "Jokko" Maggiacomo continued his amazing winning streak on major tracks throughout the East by winning the 50-lap stock car features Saturday night at the Rhinebeck Speedway.

Seventeen fast cars qualified for the feature event, and it was evident that a stiff battle for top honors was in the making right from the start.

Next Saturday night, Sept. 22, the Rhinebeck Speedway will bring down the curtain for 1951 with the longest feature race ever run in the area, a long grueling 150-lap grind.

All top stars of the country will be on hand and many trophies will be awarded to outstanding and favorite stock car drivers.

Strader Seeks Salary

New York, Sept. 18 (AP)—Norman (Red) Strader, former head football coach of the New York Football Yanks, goes into the New York Supreme Court today to try to collect $14,051.80 which he contends is owed him in salary and expenses. The coach is suing Ted Collins, owner of the National Football League club, contending he had a verbal contract for the 1951 season. Strader announced on Aug. 6 that he had been fired as head coach. Collins said at the time that Strader wasn't fired, he just wasn't working. Strader was replaced by Jimmy Phelan.

Bench Worries Coach

New Bruswick, N. J., Sept. 18 (AP) — Rutgers football team swamped UPSALA in a scrimmage game yesterday, seven touchdowns to two. In their first practice session since returning from their Sea Girt training camp last week, the Scarlet players impressed Coach Harvey Harman with their offensive capabilities. However, Harman said he was still worried about his team's lack of reserves. Fullback Jim Monahan sparked Rutgers' attack yesterday as he took off on runs of 30 and 40 yards. Ray Vohden of Springfield looked like a good prospect for the starting safety man slot.

Palica in Army

Brooklyn, Sept. 18 (AP)—Erv Palica, 23-year-old Brooklyn righthander, is in the army now. The Lomita, Calif., pitcher left yesterday for Camp Kilmer (N. J.) induction. He is married and has a five-week-old daughter. He had won two and lost six for the Dodgers this year.

WOODSTOCK NEWS

By RICHARD E. THIBAUT, JR.

Library Group Holds Meeting

Woodstock, Sept. 18—The Ulster County Library Association held a meeting Saturday afternoon, Sept. 15, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Morris Klein, on the Woodstock Saugerties road.

Librarians from all over the county attended. They were assembled under the pines near the house, made possible by ideal weather.

Frank V. Slack of New Paltz presided. He introduced Jack B. Spear, public library supervisor, who gave a report on the progress of the county library system in the various parts of the state. Later, in the large studio of the house Spear demonstrated a new machine which makes it possible for disabled people to read books. The pages are enlarged from microfilm and thrown on the ceiling or a wall.

Two teenagers, Sandra Fischer of Woodstock and Caroline Cotton of New Paltz, spoke briefly about how their respective libraries meet their needs. Sandra found the Woodstock Library of great help and the librarians very obliging. Caroline made some constructive suggestions.

The speaker of the day was Alf Evers, writer of children's books and president of the Woodstock Historical Society. He delivered an informal talk on Woodstock history followed by a question period.

Local librarians and trustees present were Mrs. Alice P. Thompson, Houston Richards, Kaj Klitgaard, Morris Klein and Mrs. Townsend.

Shotwells Have 50th Anniversary

Woodstock, Sept. 18—Miss Helen Harvey Shotwell and her sister, Mrs. Margaret Shotwell Summers, entertained last Saturday afternoon in honor of the 50th wedding anniversary of their parents, Dr. and Mrs. James T. Shotwell.

A special program of choral music was presented by the "19 Singers," a new group under the direction of Mrs. Clara Chichester, featuring 16th century English music. The program included Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring by J. S. Bach; Ave Maria, which was given its first performance, by Marquita Villard, who is a well-known member of the group; Silver Swan, composed by Orlando Gibbons (1583-1625); Lift Thine Eyes by Mendelssohn; Lullaby, words and music by Helen Harvey Shotwell, arranged by Clara Chichester; Now is the Month of Maying, by Thomas Morley, (A. D. 1595).

Introducing the musical program, Engelbert Roentgen announced that the group of songs was being presented by the "19 Singers" as their gift to Dr. and Mrs. Shotwell for the occasion. He remarked on the splendid work which had been done this summer in organizing the chorus, by Mrs. Chichester and spoke of her long knowledge of choral work and fine musical background. The new group of non-professional singers, which was enthusiastically received by the guests who attended the party, has spent the summer exploring interesting musical scores within the range of normal voices. By popular request the group will continue next year.

Following the musical program Houston Richards, spoke with inimitable wit for many assembled friends of the Shotwells, of old standing, congratulating the couple on this noteworthy occasion, to which Dr. Shotwell replied.

The following members of the chorus assisted Mrs. Chichester with the program: first sopranos —Mrs. Katherine Burgevin, Miss Phyllis Hoffman, Mrs. H. G. Sayles, Mrs. Louis Segel and Helen Harvey Shotwell; second sopranos—Mrs. Eva Beard, Mrs. Henry Greenberg, Miss Elsa Kimball, Mrs. William Moncure, Ruth E. Spier, Marquita Villard; altos —Miss Rose Garlock, Mrs. Samuel Halsband, Mrs. Julia Leaycraft, Mrs. Margaret S. Summers, Mrs. B. K. Wells and Lois Wilcox.

Foundation Play Takes in $2,800

Woodstock, Sept. 18 — The Woodstock Foundation's fourth annual benefit show, Bettina's Promise or The Broken Divining Rod, which was presented for two nights, Sept. 14 and 15, at the Woodstock Playhouse was a huge success. More than two hundred people were turned away at the second night's performance. Gross receipts for the two evenings, plus contributions, totaled more than $2,800, a new record income for the Foundation.

Since all contributed their efforts to the production, expenses will be small, according to William Pachner, president of the Foundation. The organization will have its annual meeting shortly to make awards to artists in the fields of recognized talent and need. "The outstanding achievement of this year's Foundation play is that the event has become truly a community effort," Pachner commented.

"We received the utmost cooperation from all segments of our population, from the Woodstock Town Board, the Woodstock Business Association, the radio and newspapers, artists and townspeople. While we will have this year more money to disburse than ever before, it is hardly sufficient to meet the demands on the Foundation. We receive many more applications for aid than we can grant. The board must decide which are the applicants most deserving of consideration."

The board of the Foundation contains a cross-section of the population. Among its members are Eugene Speicher, Allen Waterous, the Rev. Harvey I. Todd, Mrs. Carl Eric Lindin, Mrs. Charles Rosen. All give their time and effort to the Foundation without remuneration.

Contributions may be sent to the Woodstock Foundation at any time during the year.

To Exhibit Oils

Woodstock, Sept. 18—An exhibition of oil landscapes will be held at the Village Kitchen by Dorothy Graff of Atlantic City opening today. Miss Graff, who will show a group of eight pictures, is a sister of Mrs. Harry Alpern of the Little Shop.

Ashes Scattered

Woodstock, Sept. 18—The ashes of the late Marion Bullard, artist and writer who died last December, were scattered in accordance with her request over the Woodstock valley last Saturday afternoon. The ceremony was performed last Saturday afternoon by Mrs. Bullard's brother, James Rorty, and Warren Hutty through the courtesy of Charles Cooper who took the men aloft in his Stinson airplane.

Square Club

Woodstock, Sept. 18—The Woodstock Masonic Square Club will meet at the club rooms, Thursday, Sept. 29, at 8 p. m. Ed Huben of the Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corporation will speak on the history of Ulster county.

Tail-Less Donkeys

Addis Baba (AP)—No Ethiopian will buy a donkey with his tail cut off. This harks back to old stories about cunning conductors of donkey caravans who would sell some of the donkeys in their charge while on trips, then tell the owner the beasts had died or fallen over a cliff. But, so the folklore goes, one equally sharp owner hit on an answer. He demanded that his drivers produce the tails of the dead donkeys as proof of death. The custom still holds.

'Nut Seed'

Botanically speaking, the cashew is not a nut at all. It is the seed attached outside the lower end of the cashew apple, which is the edible fruit borne in clusters on the cashew tree.

Joe Maurer Blasts 278-656 High In City Minor Bowling Circuit

Ken Radel Next With 231-593

A couple of City Minor League bowling luminaries featured Monday night's tenpin action throughout the city bowling circuits.

Heading the parade was Joe Maurer who pounded out a crushing 656 triple on a sizzling string of 211-278-167.

Maurer, incidentally won last year's single crown in the same wheel with a 279 blast.

Seven pins out of the 600 class was Ken Radel, one of the famous Gold Dust twins of local bowling circles, who wound up with a 593 series and a 231 single at the Bowlodrome lanes.

Maurer and Radel led a heavy-scoring session of the league which produced 32 500's or better from Maurer's 656 to 501.

Elsewhere in the tenpin activities last night, Ed Heins set the pace in the opening matches of the Tavern Association at the Bowlatorium with 568; George Goldfarb fired 566 in the Good Neighbor League at the Bowlatorium, Mike Milano posted 529 in the Monday afternoon Electrol shift at Ruzzo's and Nellie Glennon had 454 in the BYA League at the Bowlodrome.

Other top efforts posted in the City Minor League last night were Tom Yonta with 200-202-579; Leo Bechtold 203-579; Ken Powell, the KBA treasurer, 214-577; Ed Dasher 566; Otto Schaller, Jr. 235-566; Leo Mellert 204-552; Don Hornbeck 227-548; Mike Celuch 202-544 and Joe Mahar 541.

Also of note were Tom Parker with 201-537; Hank Grube 220-532; Ralph Dumenigo 200-531; Dom Clausi 207-530; Pete Nagy, 204-525; Ed Smedes 213-525; Nick Savino 221-524; and H. Van Nosdall 200-520.

Trailing Heins' string of 169-179-220 for 568 in the Tavern wheel were Joe Messinger with 550; F. Robinson 217-545; W. Sickler 208-532; L. Snyder 226-530; J. Kennedy 527; J. Secreto 522; E. Cunningham 521 and Eltinge "Pop" Auchmoody 520.

Goldfarb put together scores of 176-181-209 for his pace-setting series in the Good Neighbor League last night. Other top efforts included Jay Melton with 202-534; Haskell Naigles 533; Moe Schwartz 216-517; George Svirsky 205-514; Herman Arlensky 511; J. Singer 511; B. Chipman 510 and Mitzie Arlensky 504.

In a low-scoring session of the Independent League last night Roux stacked games of 218-159-176 for his 553. Trailing were Eugene Vogel with 201-535; Irwin Thomas 531; Jack Hartman 519; Knute Beichert 516; E. Trombley 506 and Dick Pearson 493.

Milano's 529 on a string of 182-225-122 topped the Electrol League with Jim Moss posting 505; C. Raible 493 and C. Tobias 472.

Firing a string of 150-162-142 Nellie Glennon's 454 featured the pinfall in the BYA. Nellie Alverson shot 448; Helene Mollenhauer 435 and Dot Walthery 432.

In Sunday night's Bowlodrome Mixed League, Dick Howard posted a nifty 611 triple on scores of 237-149-225. John Ferraro rolled 233-560; Bob Gorsline 531; J. Strubel 517; J. Bechtold 511; Chris Bachman 504; J. Covey 498 and M. Lawrence 490.

State vs. Nation

Pennsylvania's mills alone surpassed the total production of Germany in ferrous metals during World War 2, and had a greater output than any other nation or empire.

Mercantile Loop Opens on Sept. 27

Opening dates for the Mercantile Bowling League were scheduled for Thursday and Friday nights, September 27 and 28, during a pre-season meeting at the YMCA Monday night.

Teams entered in the Thursday night wheel include Boice's No. 1, No. 2, Rylances, Matthews, Canfield Supply, Fuller Sports, Elstons and the YMCA.

Due to a shortage of teams for the Friday night circuit, it was voted last night to hold up full organization of that league. Only six teams have been entered thus far.

This is an 80 per cent handicap league and any group desiring to bowl is asked to contact Lou Schafer at the Y, 1100.

Fred Sarbacher is president of the Mercantile League.

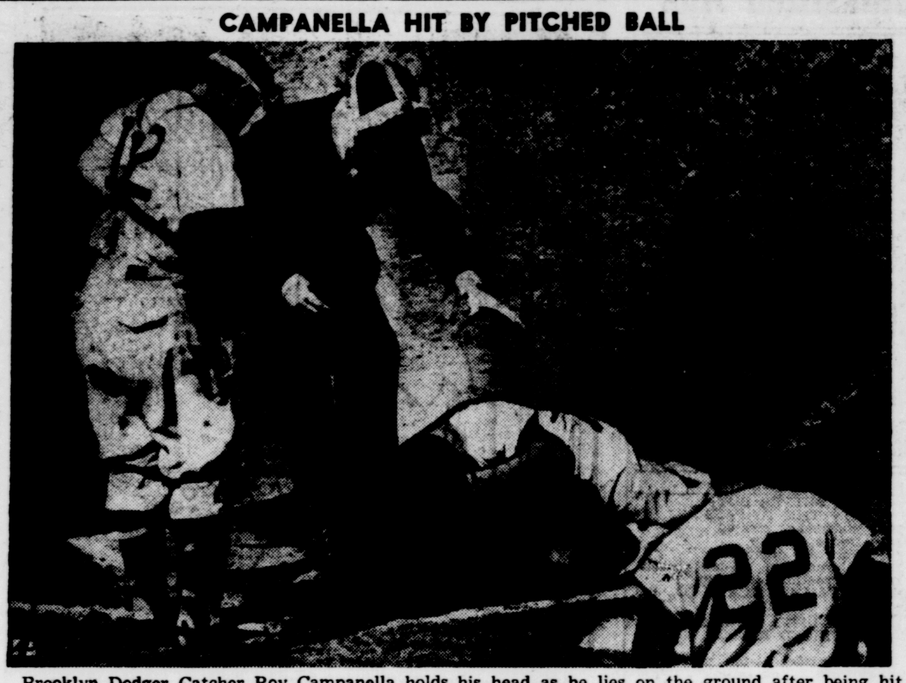
Face-Lift for Garden

New York, Sept. 18 (AP)—Madison Square Garden is undergoing its annual face-lifting for the world's championship rodeo, scheduled Sept. 26 through Oct. 21. First, 8,000 board feet of lumber must be laid on the main arena floor. This must be covered with 60 tons of earth, covering the floor to a depth six to eight inches. Some 300 cowboys will compete for honors and the big midtown arena must accommodate 150 horses and 300 head of broncos, Brahma bulls and steers.

CAMPANELLA HIT BY PITCHED BALL



Brooklyn Dodger Catcher Roy Campanella holds his head as he lies on the ground after being hit by a pitched ball in the second inning of Sept. 17 game with Chicago Cubs in Chicago. Cubs Catcher Mickey Owen (left), Umpire Jocko Conlan and Dodger outfielder Andy Pafko (44) rush in to assist the fallen player who was not seriously injured. The Cubs won, 5-3, cutting the Dodgers' lead over the idle New York Giants to four games. (AP Wirephoto).

Injury to Campy Staggering Blow To Flock Hopes

Chicago, Sept. 18 (AP)—Just before the league-leading Brooklyn Dodgers took the field yesterday for their season finale against the Chicago Cubs, husky Roy Campanella, frisky as a colt, chortled:

'Don't worry about those New York Giants catching us—we're really seven games ahead of them. Those seven more they lost than we have are gone forever." Actually, the Brooks now lead by four games.

Today, Campanella—rated as perhaps the best catcher in baseball—was resting in a Chicago hospital after an accidental beaning by the Cubs' Turk Lown. The Dodgers felt as though they also had received a collective blackjacking. Roy's condition was pronounced fair, but when he will return to the Brooklyn lineup was questionable.

Without Campanella, the Dodgers, who play the Cardinals at St. Louis tonight, conceivably could back away from the National League pennant which the Giants alone believe they, themselves, might somehow miraculously snatch.

The Brooks have 13 games left, the Giants nine.

The husky Negro's absence was felt immediately yesterday as the Dodgers blew a 3-0 lead and lost to the Cubs, 5-3. Big Don Newcombe, who had whipped the Cubs four times this season without defeat, apparently missed the behind-the-plate generalship of Campanella, who was felled in the second inning.

Preliminary X-rays failed to disclose any fracture, but Campanella, now batting .325 and with 31 home runs, had bleeding from his ear as well as lacerations on the the ear surface. He also had a swollen left jaw.

Maggiacomo Captures Feature at Rhinebeck

The Poughkeepsie speed king "Jokko" Maggiacomo continued his amazing winning streak on major tracks throughout the East by winning the 50-lap stock car features Saturday night at the Rhinebeck Speedway.

Seventeen fast cars qualified for the feature event, and it was evident that a stiff battle for top honors was in the making right from the start.

Next Saturday night, Sept. 22, the Rhinebeck Speedway will bring down the curtain for 1951 with the longest feature race ever run in the area, a long grueling 150-lap grind.

All top stars of the country will be on hand and many trophies will be awarded to outstanding and favorite stock car drivers.

Strader Seeks Salary

New York, Sept. 18 (AP)—Norman (Red) Strader, former head football coach of the New York Football Yanks, goes into the New York Supreme Court today to try to collect $14,051.80 which he contends is owed him in salary and expenses. The coach is suing Ted Collins, owner of the National Football League club, contending he had a verbal contract for the 1951 season. Strader announced on Aug. 6 that he had been fired as head coach. Collins said at the time that Strader wasn't fired, he just wasn't working. Strader was replaced by Jimmy Phelan.

Bench Worries Coach

New Bruswick, N. J., Sept. 18 (AP) — Rutgers football team swamped UPSALA in a scrimmage game yesterday, seven touchdowns to two. In their first practice session since returning from their Sea Girt training camp last week, the Scarlet players impressed Coach Harvey Harman with their offensive capabilities. However, Harman said he was still worried about his team's lack of reserves. Fullback Jim Monahan sparked Rutgers' attack yesterday as he took off on runs of 30 and 40 yards. Ray Vohden of Springfield looked like a good prospect for the starting safety man slot.

Palica in Army

Brooklyn, Sept. 18 (AP)—Erv Palica, 23-year-old Brooklyn righthander, is in the army now. The Lomita, Calif., pitcher left yesterday for Camp Kilmer (N. J.) induction. He is married and has a five-week-old daughter. He had won two and lost six for the Dodgers this year.

WOODSTOCK NEWS

By RICHARD E. THIBAUT, JR.

Library Group Holds Meeting

Woodstock, Sept. 18—The Ulster County Library Association held a meeting Saturday afternoon, Sept. 15, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Morris Klein, on the Woodstock Saugerties road.

Librarians from all over the county attended. They were assembled under the pines near the house, made possible by ideal weather.

Frank V. Slack of New Paltz presided. He introduced Jack B. Spear, public library supervisor, who gave a report on the progress of the county library system in the various parts of the state. Later, in the large studio of the house Spear demonstrated a new machine which makes it possible for disabled people to read books. The pages are enlarged from microfilm and thrown on the ceiling or a wall.

Two teenagers, Sandra Fischer of Woodstock and Caroline Cotton of New Paltz, spoke briefly about how their respective libraries meet their needs. Sandra found the Woodstock Library of great help and the librarians very obliging. Caroline made some constructive suggestions.

The speaker of the day was Alf Evers, writer of children's books and president of the Woodstock Historical Society. He delivered an informal talk on Woodstock history followed by a question period.

Local librarians and trustees present were Mrs. Alice P. Thompson, Houston Richards, Kaj Klitgaard, Morris Klein and Mrs. Townsend.

Shotwells Have 50th Anniversary

Woodstock, Sept. 18—Miss Helen Harvey Shotwell and her sister, Mrs. Margaret Shotwell Summers, entertained last Saturday afternoon in honor of the 50th wedding anniversary of their parents, Dr. and Mrs. James T. Shotwell.

A special program of choral music was presented by the "19 Singers," a new group under the direction of Mrs. Clara Chichester, featuring 16th century English music. The program included Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring by J. S. Bach; Ave Maria, which was given its first performance, by Marquita Villard, who is a well-known member of the group; Silver Swan, composed by Orlando Gibbons (1583-1625); Lift Thine Eyes by Mendelssohn; Lullaby, words and music by Helen Harvey Shotwell, arranged by Clara Chichester; Now is the Month of Maying, by Thomas Morley, (A. D. 1595).

Introducing the musical program, Engelbert Roentgen announced that the group of songs was being presented by the "19 Singers" as their gift to Dr. and Mrs. Shotwell for the occasion. He remarked on the splendid work which had been done this summer in organizing the chorus, by Mrs. Chichester and spoke of her long knowledge of choral work and fine musical background. The new group of non-professional singers, which was enthusiastically received by the guests who attended the party, has spent the summer exploring interesting musical scores within the range of normal voices. By popular request the group will continue next year.

Following the musical program Houston Richards, spoke with inimitable wit for many assembled friends of the Shotwells, of old standing, congratulating the couple on this noteworthy occasion, to which Dr. Shotwell replied.

The following members of the chorus assisted Mrs. Chichester with the program: first sopranos —Mrs. Katherine Burgevin, Miss Phyllis Hoffman, Mrs. H. G. Sayles, Mrs. Louis Segel and Helen Harvey Shotwell; second sopranos—Mrs. Eva Beard, Mrs. Henry Greenberg, Miss Elsa Kimball, Mrs. William Moncure, Ruth E. Spier, Marquita Villard; altos —Miss Rose Garlock, Mrs. Samuel Halsband, Mrs. Julia Leaycraft, Mrs. Margaret S. Summers, Mrs. B. K. Wells and Lois Wilcox.

Church Sale

Woodstock, Sept. 18—The Lutheran Church will hold a food and rummage sale, Saturday, Sept. 22, on Peper's lawn, beginning at 10 a. m.

Foundation Play Takes in $2,800

Woodstock, Sept. 18 — The Woodstock Foundation's fourth annual benefit show, Bettina's Promise or The Broken Divining Rod, which was presented for two nights, Sept. 14 and 15, at the Woodstock Playhouse was a huge success. More than two hundred people were turned away at the second night's performance. Gross receipts for the two evenings, plus contributions, totaled more than $2,800, a new record income for the Foundation.

Since all contributed their efforts to the production, expenses will be small, according to William Pachner, president of the Foundation. The organization will have its annual meeting shortly to make awards to artists in the fields of recognized talent and need. "The outstanding achievement of this year's Foundation play is that the event has become truly a community effort," Pachner commented.

"We received the utmost cooperation from all segments of our population, from the Woodstock Town Board, the Woodstock Business Association, the radio and newspapers, artists and townspeople. While we will have this year more money to disburse than ever before, it is hardly sufficient to meet the demands on the Foundation. We receive many more applications for aid than we can grant. The board must decide which are the applicants most deserving of consideration."

The board of the Foundation contains a cross-section of the population. Among its members are Eugene Speicher, Allen Waterous, the Rev. Harvey I. Todd, Mrs. Carl Eric Lindin, Mrs. Charles Rosen. All give their time and effort to the Foundation without remuneration.

Contributions may be sent to the Woodstock Foundation at any time during the year.

To Exhibit Oils

Woodstock, Sept. 18—An exhibition of oil landscapes will be held at the Village Kitchen by Dorothy Graff of Atlantic City opening today. Miss Graff, who will show a group of eight pictures, is a sister of Mrs. Harry Alpern of the Little Shop.

Ashes Scattered

Woodstock, Sept. 18—The ashes of the late Marion Bullard, artist and writer who died last December, were scattered in accordance with her request over the Woodstock valley last Saturday afternoon. The ceremony was performed last Saturday afternoon by Mrs. Bullard's brother, James Rorty, and Warren Hutty through the courtesy of Charles Cooper who took the men aloft in his Stinson airplane.

Square Club

Woodstock, Sept. 18—The Woodstock Masonic Square Club will meet at the club rooms, Thursday, Sept. 29, at 8 p. m. Ed Huben of the Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corporation will speak on the history of Ulster county.

Tail-Less Donkeys

Addis Baba (AP)—No Ethiopian will buy a donkey with his tail cut off. This harks back to old stories about cunning conductors of donkey caravans who would sell some of the donkeys in their charge while on trips, then tell the owner the beasts had died or fallen over a cliff. But, so the folklore goes, one equally sharp owner hit on an answer. He demanded that his drivers produce the tails of the dead donkeys as proof of death. The custom still holds.

'Nut Seed'

Botanically speaking, the cashew is not a nut at all. It is the seed attached outside the lower end of the cashew apple, which is the edible fruit borne in clusters on the cashew tree.

WILLOW, LAKE HILL, BEARSVILLE,

Ken Radel Next With 231-593

A couple of City Minor League bowling luminaries featured Monday night's tenpin action throughout the city bowling circuits.

Heading the parade was Joe Maurer who pounded out a crushing 656 triple on a sizzling string of 211-278-167.

Maurer, incidentally won last year's single crown in the same wheel with a 279 blast.

Seven pins out of the 600 class was Ken Radel, one of the famous Gold Dust twins of local bowling circles, who wound up with a 593 series and a 231 single at the Bowlodrome lanes.

Maurer and Radel led a heavy-scoring session of the league which produced 32 500's or better from Maurer's 656 to 501.

Elsewhere in the tenpin activities last night, Ed Heins set the pace in the opening matches of the Tavern Association at the Bowlatorium with 568; George Goldfarb fired 566 in the Good Neighbor League at the Bowlatorium, Mike Milano posted 529 in the Monday afternoon Electrol shift at Ruzzo's and Nellie Glennon had 454 in the BYA League at the Bowlodrome.

Other top efforts posted in the City Minor League last night were Tom Yonta with 200-202-579; Leo Bechtold 203-579; Ken Powell, the KBA treasurer, 214-577; Ed Dasher 566; Otto Schaller, Jr. 235-566; Leo Mellert 204-552; Don Hornbeck 227-548; Mike Celuch 202-544 and Joe Mahar 541.

Also of note were Tom Parker with 201-537; Hank Grube 220-532; Ralph Dumenigo 200-531; Dom Clausi 207-530; Pete Nagy, 204-525; Ed Smedes 213-525; Nick Savino 221-524; and H. Van Nosdall 200-520.

Trailing Heins' string of 169-179-220 for 568 in the Tavern wheel were Joe Messinger with 550; F. Robinson 217-545; W. Sickler 208-532; L. Snyder 226-530; J. Kennedy 527; J. Secreto 522; E. Cunningham 521 and Eltinge "Pop" Auchmoody 520.

Goldfarb put together scores of 176-181-209 for his pace-setting series in the Good Neighbor League last night. Other top efforts included Jay Melton with 202-534; Haskell Naigles 533; Moe Schwartz 216-517; George Svirsky 205-514; Herman Arlensky 511; J. Singer 511; B. Chipman 510 and Mitzie Arlensky 504.

In a low-scoring session of the Independent League last night Roux stacked games of 218-159-176 for his 553. Trailing were Eugene Vogel with 201-535; Irwin Thomas 531; Jack Hartman 519; Knute Beichert 516; E. Trombley 506 and Dick Pearson 493.

Milano's 529 on a string of 182-225-122 topped the Electrol League with Jim Moss posting 505; C. Raible 493 and C. Tobias 472.

Firing a string of 150-162-142 Nellie Glennon's 454 featured the pinfall in the BYA. Nellie Alverson shot 448; Helene Mollenhauer 435 and Dot Walthery 432.

In Sunday night's Bowlodrome Mixed League, Dick Howard posted a nifty 611 triple on scores of 237-149-225. John Ferraro rolled 233-560; Bob Gorsline 531; J. Strubel 517; J. Bechtold 511; Chris Bachman 504; J. Covey 498 and M. Lawrence 490.

State vs. Nation

Pennsylvania's mills alone surpassed the total production of Germany in ferrous metals during World War 2, and had a greater output than any other nation or empire.

Mercantile Loop Opens on Sept. 27

Opening dates for the Mercantile Bowling League were scheduled for Thursday and Friday nights, September 27 and 28, during a pre-season meeting at the YMCA Monday night.

Teams entered in the Thursday night wheel include Boice's No. 1, No. 2, Rylances, Matthews, Canfield Supply, Fuller Sports, Elstons and the YMCA.

Due to a shortage of teams for the Friday night circuit, it was voted last night to hold up full organization of that league. Only six teams have been entered thus far.

This is an 80 per cent handicap league and any group desiring to bowl is asked to contact Lou Schafer at the Y, 1100.

Fred Sarbacher is president of the Mercantile League.

Face-Lift for Garden

New York, Sept. 18 (AP)—Madison Square Garden is undergoing its annual face-lifting for the world's championship rodeo, scheduled Sept. 26 through Oct. 21. First, 8,000 board feet of lumber must be laid on the main arena floor. This must be covered with 60 tons of earth, covering the floor to a depth six to eight inches. Some 300 cowboys will compete for honors and the big midtown arena must accommodate 150 horses and 300 head of broncos, Brahma bulls and steers.

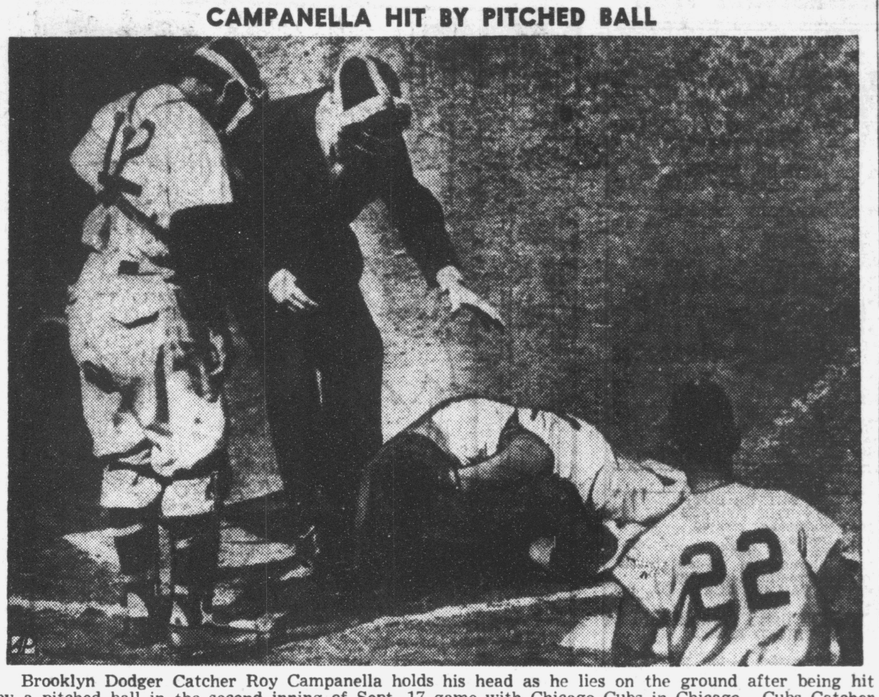
CAMPANELLA HIT BY PITCHED BALL



Brooklyn Dodger Catcher Roy Campanella holds his head as he lies on the ground after being hit by a pitched ball in the second inning of Sept. 17 game with Chicago Cubs in Chicago. Cubs Catcher Mickey Owen (left), Umpire Jocko Conlan and Dodger outfielder Andy Pafko (44) rush in to assist the fallen player who was not seriously injured. The Cubs won, 5-3, cutting the Dodgers' lead over the idle New York Giants to four games. (AP Wirephoto).

Injury to Campy Staggering Blow To Flock Hopes

Chicago, Sept. 18 (AP)—Just before the league-leading Brooklyn Dodgers took the field yesterday for their season finale against the Chicago Cubs, husky Roy Campanella, frisky as a colt, chortled:

'Don't worry about those New York Giants catching us—we're really seven games ahead of them. Those seven more they lost than we have are gone forever." Actually, the Brooks now lead by four games.

Today, Campanella—rated as perhaps the best catcher in baseball—was resting in a Chicago hospital after an accidental beaning by the Cubs' Turk Lown. The Dodgers felt as though they also had received a collective blackjacking. Roy's condition was pronounced fair, but when he will return to the Brooklyn lineup was questionable.

Without Campanella, the Dodgers, who play the Cardinals at St. Louis tonight, conceivably could back away from the National League pennant which the Giants alone believe they, themselves, might somehow miraculously snatch.

The Brooks have 13 games left, the Giants nine.

The husky Negro's absence was felt immediately yesterday as the Dodgers blew a 3-0 lead and lost to the Cubs, 5-3. Big Don Newcombe, who had whipped the Cubs four times this season without defeat, apparently missed the behind-the-plate generalship of Campanella, who was felled in the second inning.

Preliminary X-rays failed to disclose any fracture, but Campanella, now batting .325 and with 31 home runs, had bleeding from his ear as well as lacerations on the the ear surface. He also had a swollen left jaw.

Maggiacomo Captures Feature at Rhinebeck

The Poughkeepsie speed king "Jokko" Maggiacomo continued his amazing winning streak on major tracks throughout the East by winning the 50-lap stock car features Saturday night at the Rhinebeck Speedway.

Seventeen fast cars qualified for the feature event, and it was evident that a stiff battle for top honors was in the making right from the start.

Next Saturday night, Sept. 22, the Rhinebeck Speedway will bring down the curtain for 1951 with the longest feature race ever run in the area, a long grueling 150-lap grind.

All top stars of the country will be on hand and many trophies will be awarded to outstanding and favorite stock car drivers.

Strader Seeks Salary

New York, Sept. 18 (AP)—Norman (Red) Strader, former head football coach of the New York Football Yanks, goes into the New York Supreme Court today to try to collect $14,051.80 which he contends is owed him in salary and expenses. The coach is suing Ted Collins, owner of the National Football League club, contending he had a verbal contract for the 1951 season. Strader announced on Aug. 6 that he had been fired as head coach. Collins said at the time that Strader wasn't fired, he just wasn't working. Strader was replaced by Jimmy Phelan.

Bench Worries Coach

New Bruswick, N. J., Sept. 18 (AP) — Rutgers football team swamped UPSALA in a scrimmage game yesterday, seven touchdowns to two. In their first practice session since returning from their Sea Girt training camp last week, the Scarlet players impressed Coach Harvey Harman with their offensive capabilities. However, Harman said he was still worried about his team's lack of reserves. Fullback Jim Monahan sparked Rutgers' attack yesterday as he took off on runs of 30 and 40 yards. Ray Vohden of Springfield looked like a good prospect for the starting safety man slot.

Palica in Army

Brooklyn, Sept. 18 (AP)—Erv Palica, 23-year-old Brooklyn righthander, is in the army now. The Lomita, Calif., pitcher left yesterday for Camp Kilmer (N. J.) induction. He is married and has a five-week-old daughter. He had won two and lost six for the Dodgers this year.

WOODSTOCK NEWS

By RICHARD E. THIBAUT, JR.

Library Group Holds Meeting

Woodstock, Sept. 18—The Ulster County Library Association held a meeting Saturday afternoon, Sept. 15, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Morris Klein, on the Woodstock Saugerties road.

Librarians from all over the county attended. They were assembled under the pines near the house, made possible by ideal weather.

Frank V. Slack of New Paltz presided. He introduced Jack B. Spear, public library supervisor, who gave a report on the progress of the county library system in the various parts of the state. Later, in the large studio of the house Spear demonstrated a new machine which makes it possible for disabled people to read books. The pages are enlarged from microfilm and thrown on the ceiling or a wall.

Two teenagers, Sandra Fischer of Woodstock and Caroline Cotton of New Paltz, spoke briefly about how their respective libraries meet their needs. Sandra found the Woodstock Library of great help and the librarians very obliging. Caroline made some constructive suggestions.

The speaker of the day was Alf Evers, writer of children's books and president of the Woodstock Historical Society. He delivered an informal talk on Woodstock history followed by a question period.

Local librarians and trustees present were Mrs. Alice P. Thompson, Houston Richards, Kaj Klitgaard, Morris Klein and Mrs. Townsend.

Shotwells Have 50th Anniversary

Woodstock, Sept. 18—Miss Helen Harvey Shotwell and her sister, Mrs. Margaret Shotwell Summers, entertained last Saturday afternoon in honor of the 50th wedding anniversary of their parents, Dr. and Mrs. James T. Shotwell.

A special program of choral music was presented by the "19 Singers," a new group under the direction of Mrs. Clara Chichester, featuring 16th century English music. The program included Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring by J. S. Bach; Ave Maria, which was given its first performance, by Marquita Villard, who is a well-known member of the group; Silver Swan, composed by Orlando Gibbons (1583-1625); Lift Thine Eyes by Mendelssohn; Lullaby, words and music by Helen Harvey Shotwell, arranged by Clara Chichester; Now is the Month of Maying, by Thomas Morley, (A. D. 1595).

Introducing the musical program, Engelbert Roentgen announced that the group of songs was being presented by the "19 Singers" as their gift to Dr. and Mrs. Shotwell for the occasion. He remarked on the splendid work which had been done this summer in organizing the chorus, by Mrs. Chichester and spoke of her long knowledge of choral work and fine musical background. The new group of non-professional singers, which was enthusiastically received by the guests who attended the party, has spent the summer exploring interesting musical scores within the range of normal voices. By popular request the group will continue next year.

Following the musical program Houston Richards, spoke with inimitable wit for many assembled friends of the Shotwells, of old standing, congratulating the couple on this noteworthy occasion, to which Dr. Shotwell replied.

The following members of the chorus assisted Mrs. Chichester with the program: first sopranos —Mrs. Katherine Burgevin, Miss Phyllis Hoffman, Mrs. H. G. Sayles, Mrs. Louis Segel and Helen Harvey Shotwell; second sopranos—Mrs. Eva Beard, Mrs. Henry Greenberg, Miss Elsa Kimball, Mrs. William Moncure, Ruth E. Spier, Marquita Villard; altos —Miss Rose Garlock, Mrs. Samuel Halsband, Mrs. Julia Leaycraft, Mrs. Margaret S. Summers, Mrs. B. K. Wells and Lois Wilcox.

Church Sale

Woodstock, Sept. 18—The Lutheran Church will hold a food and rummage sale, Saturday, Sept. 22, on Peper's lawn, beginning at 10 a. m.

Foundation Play Takes in $2,800

Woodstock, Sept. 18 — The Woodstock Foundation's fourth annual benefit show, Bettina's Promise or The Broken Divining Rod, which was presented for two nights, Sept. 14 and 15, at the Woodstock Playhouse was a huge success. More than two hundred people were turned away at the second night's performance. Gross receipts for the two evenings, plus contributions, totaled more than $2,800, a new record income for the Foundation.

Since all contributed their efforts to the production, expenses will be small, according to William Pachner, president of the Foundation. The organization will have its annual meeting shortly to make awards to artists in the fields of recognized talent and need. "The outstanding achievement of this year's Foundation play is that the event has become truly a community effort," Pachner commented.

"We received the utmost cooperation from all segments of our population, from the Woodstock Town Board, the Woodstock Business Association, the radio and newspapers, artists and townspeople. While we will have this year more money to disburse than ever before, it is hardly sufficient to meet the demands on the Foundation. We receive many more applications for aid than we can grant. The board must decide which are the applicants most deserving of consideration."

The board of the Foundation contains a cross-section of the population. Among its members are Eugene Speicher, Allen Waterous, the Rev. Harvey I. Todd, Mrs. Carl Eric Lindin, Mrs. Charles Rosen. All give their time and effort to the Foundation without remuneration.

Contributions may be sent to the Woodstock Foundation at any time during the year.

To Exhibit Oils

Woodstock, Sept. 18—An exhibition of oil landscapes will be held at the Village Kitchen by Dorothy Graff of Atlantic City opening today. Miss Graff, who will show a group of eight pictures, is a sister of Mrs. Harry Alpern of the Little Shop.

Ashes Scattered

Woodstock, Sept. 18—The ashes of the late Marion Bullard, artist and writer who died last December, were scattered in accordance with her request over the Woodstock valley last Saturday afternoon. The ceremony was performed last Saturday afternoon by Mrs. Bullard's brother, James Rorty, and Warren Hutty through the courtesy of Charles Cooper who took the men aloft in his Stinson airplane.

Square Club

Woodstock, Sept. 18—The Woodstock Masonic Square Club will meet at the club rooms, Thursday, Sept. 29, at 8 p. m. Ed Huben of the Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corporation will speak on the history of Ulster county.

Tail-Less Donkeys

Addis Baba (AP)—No Ethiopian will buy a donkey with his tail cut off. This harks back to old stories about cunning conductors of donkey caravans who would sell some of the donkeys in their charge while on trips, then tell the owner the beasts had died or fallen over a cliff. But, so the folklore goes, one equally sharp owner hit on an answer. He demanded that his drivers produce the tails of the dead donkeys as proof of death. The custom still holds.

'Nut Seed'

Botanically speaking, the cashew is not a nut at all. It is the seed attached outside the lower end of the cashew apple, which is the edible fruit borne in clusters on the cashew tree.

Gross, Ex-Bookie Takes Stand Today In Cop Graft Trial

New York, Sept. 18 (AP)—Dapper Harry Gross, once boss of a multi-million dollar gambling empire, took the stand today to testify for the state in the mass graft trial of 18 Brooklyn policemen.

The former master bookie, called shortly before 11 a. m. (EST), calmly took his place in the witness chair. Then, at the request of the prosecution, he identified each of the defendants.

Gross took the stand shortly after an ex-cop who once substituted for Gross in running the gambling syndicate, agreed in court to testify against the accused policemen.

Tall, handsome James Reardon, now a resident of Westport, Conn., has said that he ran the huge bookmaking ring for a time while Gross was vacationing.

For Prosecution

Reardon appeared with his lawyer to make a stipulation that he would be available to take the witness stand for the prosecution.

Gross, the state's key witness in the trial, allegedly showered bribe-taking cops with $1,000,000-a-year in cash and gifts to protect his $20,000,000 bookmaking business.

Reardon, named as a co-conspirator but not as a defendant in the case, has admitted to authorities that he ran gross' syndicate for a time in 1950 while Gross was in California.

Kings county Judge Samuel S. Leibowitz advised him that, in volunteering to testify, he was making himself accountable under New York laws of perjury and contempt, despite his Connecticut residence.

Asked if he understood this, Reardon nodded and said quietly, "yes, I do."

Disappears, Returns

Reardon, held in protective custody for a time when the case first broke a year ago, dropped out of sight when the current trial first started. But he showed up later at his home, saying he simply had been thinking over his role in the case.

On the witness stand for the second day today, James McElroy, police department chief of staff, continued to answer questions outlining the organization and operations of the department.

Dapper, perfume-loving Gross probably will be on the stand at least three days for the prosecution.

Put on Probation

Edmund Kramer, 40, of 121 Fair street, was arrested as he left City Court on Monday by Identification Officer Arthur H. Brown of the sheriff's office on a warrant charging third degree assault. The warrant, issued by Justice of the Peace Percy Bush on complaint of Rose Bellio, alleged the assault took place on the Rosendale road. Arraigned before Justice Bush, Kramer pleaded guilty and was given a suspended sentence of 30 days and was placed on probation for 90 days. Kramer had earlier on Monday appeared in City Court on a disorderly conduct charge for which he was arrested Sunday afternoon by Kingston police. Disposition of that charge was adjoured for one week by Judge Raymond Mino.

Musicians' Union Builds Offices

Musicians' Protective Union Local 215, American Federation of Musicians, is constructing a building on Albany avenue at Westrum street to house its office and an auditorium for meetings and rehearsals.

The building, scheduled for completion about November 1, is believed to be the first building ever built by a labor union for its own use in this city, according to John A. Cole, Musicians' Union president.

General contractor is Earl Sickler. The union's building committee consists of Salvatore Castiglione, Michael Marchuk and Charles Whitaker.

The building will be of one-story frame construction with brick veneer. The auditorium, to be used for meetings and for band and orchestra rehearsals, will be about 30 by 40 feet in dimensions. There will also be a 14 by 24 foot office and utility room.

The Musicians' Union local has about 250 members. Its present office is located in rented quarters at 288 Wall street. (Freeman Photo)

Steamer Edges Old Gasoline Buggy

New York, Sept. 18 (AP)—The battle of the buggies has come to an end. And let it be known that a 1913 Stanley Steamer is speedier than a 1911 Stoddard-Dayton.

However, for the sake of accuracy in a supersonic era, it might better be said that the Stoddard-Dayton crawls along a trifle slower than the steam-propelled relic.

In the 1,086-mile struggle which began in Chicago last Monday, the steamer averaged 20.46 miles an hour. The defeated gas buggy's average was 20.22 miles an hour.

The four-wheeled tea kettle wheezed across a finish line yesterday about a minute ahead of the gasoline antique. Its actual margin of victory for the entire trip, however, was 37 minutes.

The one-minute figure represents the difference in time it took the two cars to reach a point near the Yonkers-New York city line from Poughkeepsie, N. Y., 75 miles away in the stretch drive which began yesterday morning.

Time for Both Autos

It took the winning car 53 hours and four minutes to make the trip from the Windy City, and 53 hours and 41 minutes for the runner-up.

The driver of the pre-World War 1 steam buggy, 76-year-old Jack Brause, one-time vice-president of the Stanley Steamer Company, smiled proudly at his triumph.

"I feel 100 per cent. I was sure all along I would win," he said in his moment of victory.

Rube de Launty, 70, who coaxed the gasoline antique eastward, only grunted.

Sponsored by the Chicago Museum of Science and Industry, where both drivers work, and Popular Mechanics Magazine, the battle of the antiques was worth $500 to winner Brause.

After the race ended, the two auto grand-daddys tore into midtown New York—as jaywalkers crawled out of the way—for a brief visit beneath Rockefeller Center's towering skyscrapers.

Melton Makes Dare

On hand to greet the septuagenarians was singer James Melton, a collector of antique autos.

He offered to bet Brause $1,000 that he could "outrun him to any place in the United States in my 1907 Locomobile."

Brause said the steamer is owned by the Chicago Museum and he could not make a decision on the offer.

The two cars will be returned to the Chicago home for ancient autos by truck or rail.

Heads Warriors

Maj. Gen. William B. Kean (above) will command the force of 5,000 combined Army, Navy and Air Force men who will participate in atomic warfare training in connection with forthcoming tests of nuclear weapons at Frenchmen's Flats, Nevada.

Errington Gives Plea of Guilty

William Harvey Errington, 29, of West Hurley, charged with arson, third degree; malicious injury to property, a violation of Section 143, growing out of damage to the Knaust Brothers mushroom plant during a labor dispute back in 1950, appeared in County Court today and entered a plea of guilty to the second count of the indictment, malicious injury to property. Several others involved in the same disturbance have already had their cases disposed of.

Andrew J. Cook, Jr., appeared for Errington.

Imposition of sentence was postponed until Thursday at 10 a. m.

Also appearing in court was Francis Arthur Daniels of Sundown who was charged with assault, second degree, arising out of an incident with a young girl May 26, 1951. He entered a plea of guilty to the assault charge and sentence will be imposed on Thursday at 10 o'clock. Abram F. Molyneaux, Jr., appeared for Daniels.

Put on Probation

Edmund Kramer, 40, of 121 Fair street, was arrested as he left City Court on Monday by Identification Officer Arthur H. Brown of the sheriff's office on a warrant charging third degree assault. The warrant, issued by Justice of the Peace Percy Bush on complaint of Rose Bellio, alleged the assault took place on the Rosendale road. Arraigned before Justice Bush, Kramer pleaded guilty and was given a suspended sentence of 30 days and was placed on probation for 90 days. Kramer had earlier on Monday appeared in City Court on a disorderly conduct charge for which he was arrested Sunday afternoon by Kingston police. Disposition of that charge was adjoured for one week by Judge Raymond Mino.

Steamer Edges Old Gasoline Buggy

New York, Sept. 18 (AP)—The battle of the buggies has come to an end. And let it be known that a 1913 Stanley Steamer is speedier than a 1911 Stoddard-Dayton.

However, for the sake of accuracy in a supersonic era, it might better be said that the Stoddard-Dayton crawls along a trifle slower than the steam-propelled relic.

In the 1,086-mile struggle which began in Chicago last Monday, the steamer averaged 20.46 miles an hour. The defeated gas buggy's average was 20.22 miles an hour.

The four-wheeled tea kettle wheezed across a finish line yesterday about a minute ahead of the gasoline antique. Its actual margin of victory for the entire trip, however, was 37 minutes.

The one-minute figure represents the difference in time it took the two cars to reach a point near the Yonkers-New York city line from Poughkeepsie, N. Y., 75 miles away in the stretch drive which began yesterday morning.

Time for Both Autos

It took the winning car 53 hours and four minutes to make the trip from the Windy City, and 53 hours and 41 minutes for the runner-up.

The driver of the pre-World War 1 steam buggy, 76-year-old Jack Brause, one-time vice-president of the Stanley Steamer Company, smiled proudly at his triumph.

"I feel 100 per cent. I was sure all along I would win," he said in his moment of victory.

Rube de Launty, 70, who coaxed the gasoline antique eastward, only grunted.

Sponsored by the Chicago Museum of Science and Industry, where both drivers work, and Popular Mechanics Magazine, the battle of the antiques was worth $500 to winner Brause.

After the race ended, the two auto grand-daddys tore into midtown New York—as jaywalkers crawled out of the way—for a brief visit beneath Rockefeller Center's towering skyscrapers.

Melton Makes Dare

On hand to greet the septuagenarians was singer James Melton, a collector of antique autos.

He offered to bet Brause $1,000 that he could "outrun him to any place in the United States in my 1907 Locomobile."

Brause said the steamer is owned by the Chicago Museum and he could not make a decision on the offer.

The two cars will be returned to the Chicago home for ancient autos by truck or rail.

Errington Gives Plea of Guilty

William Harvey Errington, 29, of West Hurley, charged with arson, third degree; malicious injury to property, a violation of Section 143, growing out of damage to the Knaust Brothers mushroom plant during a labor dispute back in 1950, appeared in County Court today and entered a plea of guilty to the second count of the indictment, malicious injury to property. Several others involved in the same disturbance have already had their cases disposed of.

Andrew J. Cook, Jr., appeared for Errington.

Imposition of sentence was postponed until Thursday at 10 a. m.

Also appearing in court was Francis Arthur Daniels of Sundown who was charged with assault, second degree, arising out of an incident with a young girl May 26, 1951. He entered a plea of guilty to the assault charge and sentence will be imposed on Thursday at 10 o'clock. Abram F. Molyneaux, Jr., appeared for Daniels.

Gross, Ex-Bookie Takes Stand Today In Cop Graft Trial

New York, Sept. 18 (AP)—Dapper Harry Gross, once boss of a multi-million dollar gambling empire, took the stand today to testify for the state in the mass graft trial of 18 Brooklyn policemen.

The former master bookie, called shortly before 11 a. m. (EST), calmly took his place in the witness chair. Then, at the request of the prosecution, he identified each of the defendants.

Gross took the stand shortly after an ex-cop who once substituted for Gross in running the gambling syndicate, agreed in court to testify against the accused policemen.

Tall, handsome James Reardon, now a resident of Westport, Conn., has said that he ran the huge bookmaking ring for a time while Gross was vacationing.

For Prosecution

Reardon appeared with his lawyer to make a stipulation that he would be available to take the witness stand for the prosecution.

Gross, the state's key witness in the trial, allegedly showered bribe-taking cops with $1,000,000-a-year in cash and gifts to protect his $20,000,000 bookmaking business.

Reardon, named as a co-conspirator but not as a defendant in the case, has admitted to authorities that he ran gross' syndicate for a time in 1950 while Gross was in California.

Kings county Judge Samuel S. Leibowitz advised him that, in volunteering to testify, he was making himself accountable under New York laws of perjury and contempt, despite his Connecticut residence.

Asked if he understood this, Reardon nodded and said quietly, "yes, I do."

Disappears, Returns

Reardon, held in protective custody for a time when the case first broke a year ago, dropped out of sight when the current trial first started. But he showed up later at his home, saying he simply had been thinking over his role in the case.

On the witness stand for the second day today, James McElroy, police department chief of staff, continued to answer questions outlining the organization and operations of the department.

Dapper, perfume-loving Gross probably will be on the stand at least three days for the prosecution.

Musicians' Union Builds Offices

Musicians' Protective Union Local 215, American Federation of Musicians, is constructing a building on Albany avenue at Westrum street to house its office and an auditorium for meetings and rehearsals.

The building, scheduled for completion about November 1, is believed to be the first building ever built by a labor union for its own use in this city, according to John A. Cole, Musicians' Union president.

General contractor is Earl Sickler. The union's building committee consists of Salvatore Castiglione, Michael Marchuk and Charles Whitaker.

The building will be of one-story frame construction with brick veneer. The auditorium, to be used for meetings and for band and orchestra rehearsals, will be about 30 by 40 feet in dimensions. There will also be a 14 by 24 foot office and utility room.

The Musicians' Union local has about 250 members. Its present office is located in rented quarters at 288 Wall street. (Freeman Photo)

Will Name Group To Direct City's 300th Anniversary

The citizens committee planning Kingston's 300th Anniversary has been incorporated and an organizational meeting for electing 21 directors will be held Monday night, September 24.

The directors chosen Monday night will elect permanent officers for the new corporation, to be known as Kingston's 300th Anniversary, Inc.

Notices of the meeting were sent last week by Albert Kurdt, temporary secretary, to all organizational representatives and all persons otherwise appointed to the citizens committee. Each person receiving the notice is considered an active member of the committee and can become a charter member of the corporation.

The meeting will begin at 8 p. m. in the Crystal Room of the Governor Clinton Hotel.

Before the election of directors, all who are present will be called upon to help make a decision as to qualifications for voting as members of the corporation. At one meeting, Kurdt reported, a modest membership subscription fee seemed to meet with approval.

As soon as permanent officers and directors are chosen, they will proceed with the completion of the committee personnel. All organizations will gradually be called upon to participate as definite activities are approved.

To date, preliminary plans for the celebration have been developed by an expanding citizens' committee and temporary officers. A report of progress will be given at the September 24 meeting.

Odd place names in New Mexico include White Tail, Water Flow, Turn, Tobogan, Tingle, Pep and Dusty.

Saulpaugh Questioned By State Commission

Catskill, N. Y., Sept. 18 (AP)—State Crime Commission investigators looking into gambling and other vice in Columbia county have questioned Sheriff Milton Saulpaugh.

After the interrogation yesterday, the sheriff told a reporter he had "nothing to say."

H. Bartow Farr, Jr., an assistant commission counsel who is conducting the probe, also declined comment.

Farr also reportedly questioned a Hudson city official, a businessman from Hudson and two Columbia county jail employes.

Woodward Will Speak at Session

Dr. Luther E. Woodward of the New York State Department of Mental Hygiene will be the speaker Wednesday evening at the fall meeting of the Ulster County Mental Health Committee.

Dr. Woodward is coordinator of community health services for the mental commission. He is author of the radio series, "The Inquiring Parent," and is co-author with Dr. Thomas A. C. Rennie of the book, "Mental Health in a Modern Society."

Dr. Edward F. Shea, chairman of the Mental Health Committee, secured the speaker after it was voted in the committee's June meeting to obtain advise on community mental health services and projects. Mental Health Committee members and guests have been invited to the meeting which will be held at Kingston Laboratory at 8 p. m. Wednesday. The mental health group is a sub-committee of the Ulster County Tuberculosis and Health Association.

Conrad H. Remus Is New Fireman

Conrad H. Remus, 26, of 22 Farrelly street, was appointed a member of the local fire department at a special meeting of the Board of Fire Commissioners last night.

The appointment is effective October 1, and will fill a vacancy left by the recent resignation of Robert J. Langling of 95 Emerson street, who has accepted a state job.

A native of the city, Remus was educated in local schools and has been employed for some time by the New York Central as a brakeman. An ex-marine he had served in the South Pacific theatre during World War 2. He has been a member of the A. H. Wicks Engine and Truck Company for about eight years. He is married and the father of two children.

Remus was third on the eligibility list submitted recently to the fire commissioners by the Municipal Civil Service Commission. Fred Henry Blankschen, 25 Lindsley avenue was first on the list and Herbert H. McElrath, 12 Brown avenue, was second.

U. S. Crime

Only 29 per cent of the burglaries, 22 per cent of the larcenies, and 27 per cent of auto thefts in U. S. cities during 1949 were "cleared" by arrests, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

Council Asked Action

"Chief Powrie's answer to Herting's question was, 'I didn't answer yes and I didn't answer no,'," the presentment said, adding that evidence was that Herting subsequently operated as a bookmaker in Port Jervis until the police committee of the Port Jervis Common Council asked action against him.

Then, the presentment said, Powrie asked the district attorney to arrest Herting.

In the case against 48-year-old Judge Ballman, he was accused of visiting his ex-wife at her Middletown apartment, and threatening her with a .22 caliber pistol.

Took Pistol Away

An affidavit, signed by her, said he threatened: "I have come here to do a job and I am going to do it." Their youngest of three daughters, Sandra, 15, allegedly grappled with Ballman, and wrested the pistol from his hand.

The mother fled upstairs and locked herself in a bedroom, while the daughter ran for police aid, authorities said. Ballman placed under arrest, was freed later in $1,000 bail.

He and his former wife were divorced last year. A Middletown judge for about eight years, he could draw a maximum penalty of 10 years in prison, if convicted on the charge.

Two Drivers Indicted

The grand jury also indicted two drivers, William A. Paltridge, 21, of Newburgh, N. Y., and Richard C. Fitzsimmons, 31, of Toronto, Canada, on charges of criminal negligence in operating a motor vehicle.

Paltridge, still held in jail, allegedly operated a car which caused the death of two utility employes working on a Newburgh project last June 30. Fitzsimmons, now free in $5,000 bail, allegedly operated a trailer truck in causing the death of three persons in an accident in the Newburgh area Aug. 5. The charge carries a maximum penalty of five years in prison.

Man Hurt in Fall

George MacEvery, of 85 John street, suffered a laceration of the head in a fall on Clinton avenue between Main and Pearl streets at about midnight. A police report at 12:05 a. m., said a man had fallen and Officers William Hanley and Kenneth Gaffney found it was MacEvery. They took him to Kingston Hospital.

Spencer Denies

stories amused me, so I didn't bother to contradict them. The truth is I decided to give my 500-acre estate to Father Divine the day I drove up to my superintendent's house in my old tired station wagon and saw eight beautiful automobiles parked there."

'Oh, No, Mr. Spencer'

Spencer told Ventura further: "When I asked if he was having a party my superintendent said, 'Oh, no, Mr. Spencer. The Cadillac is my pleasure car. The Buick is my work car. That Chrysler belongs to my wife, the Lincoln to my daughter, the Packard to my assistant, and the three Oldsmobiles to my sons, who are home on vacation from Harvard.'"

"Next day," said Spencer, "I gave the place to Father Divine and I've been living almost as luxuriously as my former superintendent ever since."

Didn't Deny Stories

The rest of the interview explains:

Mr. Spencer didn't deny stories that Father Divine cured him of gout. His version of the cure is that the telephone rang in his Krum Elbow manor at 3 one morning and after he had sprinted down two flights of stairs to answer it. Father Divine greeted him with, "I have just cured your gout. If you don't believe it, flex your toes."

"The old boy did, too," grinned Howland. "The sprint down stairs loosened the lesion between the two affected toes and I haven't had gout since."

Howland, in New York for the first time in several years from his Harbour Island retreat in the Bahamas, has been seen dancing with fashionable Mrs. H. Bradley Martin, watching polo at Meadowbrook with Winston Guest and his beauteous blond wife and laughing uproariously at his old friend Ethel Merman in "Call Me Madam" since his arrival.

When one of his St. Nicholas Club buddies asked the 61-year-young Mr. Spencer why he was selling his last 15 acres on the Hudson and making Harbour Island his permanent home, he deadpanned, "The Bahamas will be the only place missed by atom bombs. They'll need a lot of bright young fellows like me to start the new world.

Wardens Will Organize

An organizational meeting for air raid wardens in the Second Ward will be held at 8 p. m. Thursday at the A. H. Wicks Engine and Truck Company house on Wiltwyck avenue. Wardens already registered as well as any additional volunteers have been asked to attend the meeting by Walter Caunitz and Benjamin Storms, leaders in the two districts of the ward. It is expected that Sherwood E. Davis, city defense director, and Thomas Saccoman, chief of air warden services, will be present.

Will Name Group To Direct City's 300th Anniversary

The citizens committee planning Kingston's 300th Anniversary has been incorporated and an organizational meeting for electing 21 directors will be held Monday night, September 24.

The directors chosen Monday night will elect permanent officers for the new corporation, to be known as Kingston's 300th Anniversary, Inc.

Notices of the meeting were sent last week by Albert Kurdt, temporary secretary, to all organizational representatives and all persons otherwise appointed to the citizens committee. Each person receiving the notice is considered an active member of the committee and can become a charter member of the corporation.

The meeting will begin at 8 p. m. in the Crystal Room of the Governor Clinton Hotel.

Before the election of directors, all who are present will be called upon to help make a decision as to qualifications for voting as members of the corporation. At one meeting, Kurdt reported, a modest membership subscription fee seemed to meet with approval.

As soon as permanent officers and directors are chosen, they will proceed with the completion of the committee personnel. All organizations will gradually be called upon to participate as definite activities are approved.

To date, preliminary plans for the celebration have been developed by an expanding citizens' committee and temporary officers. A report of progress will be given at the September 24 meeting.

Odd place names in New Mexico include White Tail, Water Flow, Turn, Tobogan, Tingle, Pep and Dusty.

Saulpaugh Questioned By State Commission

Catskill, N. Y., Sept. 18 (AP)—State Crime Commission investigators looking into gambling and other vice in Columbia county have questioned Sheriff Milton Saulpaugh.

After the interrogation yesterday, the sheriff told a reporter he had "nothing to say."

H. Bartow Farr, Jr., an assistant commission counsel who is conducting the probe, also declined comment.

Farr also reportedly questioned a Hudson city official, a businessman from Hudson and two Columbia county jail employes.

Woodward Will Speak at Session

Dr. Luther E. Woodward of the New York State Department of Mental Hygiene will be the speaker Wednesday evening at the fall meeting of the Ulster County Mental Health Committee.

Dr. Woodward is coordinator of community health services for the mental commission. He is author of the radio series, "The Inquiring Parent," and is co-author with Dr. Thomas A. C. Rennie of the book, "Mental Health in a Modern Society."

Dr. Edward F. Shea, chairman of the Mental Health Committee, secured the speaker after it was voted in the committee's June meeting to obtain advise on community mental health services and projects. Mental Health Committee members and guests have been invited to the meeting which will be held at Kingston Laboratory at 8 p. m. Wednesday. The mental health group is a sub-committee of the Ulster County Tuberculosis and Health Association.

Conrad H. Remus Is New Fireman

Conrad H. Remus, 26, of 22 Farrelly street, was appointed a member of the local fire department at a special meeting of the Board of Fire Commissioners last night.

The appointment is effective October 1, and will fill a vacancy left by the recent resignation of Robert J. Langling of 95 Emerson street, who has accepted a state job.

A native of the city, Remus was educated in local schools and has been employed for some time by the New York Central as a brakeman. An ex-marine he had served in the South Pacific theatre during World War 2. He has been a member of the A. H. Wicks Engine and Truck Company for about eight years. He is married and the father of two children.

Remus was third on the eligibility list submitted recently to the fire commissioners by the Municipal Civil Service Commission. Fred Henry Blankschen, 25 Lindsley avenue was first on the list and Herbert H. McElrath, 12 Brown avenue, was second.

The board members at last night's session were Frank Burr, president; Charles Derrenbacher and Henry F. Kelsch.

U. S. Crime

Only 29 per cent of the burglaries, 22 per cent of the larcenies, and 27 per cent of auto thefts in U. S. cities during 1949 were "cleared" by arrests, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

Saulpaugh Questioned By State Commission

Catskill, N. Y., Sept. 18 (AP)—State Crime Commission investigators looking into gambling and other vice in Columbia county have questioned Sheriff Milton Saulpaugh.

After the interrogation yesterday, the sheriff told a reporter he had "nothing to say."

H. Bartow Farr, Jr., an assistant commission counsel who is conducting the probe, also declined comment.

Farr also reportedly questioned a Hudson city official, a businessman from Hudson and two Columbia county jail employes.

Woodward Will Speak at Session

Dr. Luther E. Woodward of the New York State Department of Mental Hygiene will be the speaker Wednesday evening at the fall meeting of the Ulster County Mental Health Committee.

Dr. Woodward is coordinator of community health services for the mental commission. He is author of the radio series, "The Inquiring Parent," and is co-author with Dr. Thomas A. C. Rennie of the book, "Mental Health in a Modern Society."

Dr. Edward F. Shea, chairman of the Mental Health Committee, secured the speaker after it was voted in the committee's June meeting to obtain advise on community mental health services and projects. Mental Health Committee members and guests have been invited to the meeting which will be held at Kingston Laboratory at 8 p. m. Wednesday. The mental health group is a sub-committee of the Ulster County Tuberculosis and Health Association.

Conrad H. Remus Is New Fireman

Conrad H. Remus, 26, of 22 Farrelly street, was appointed a member of the local fire department at a special meeting of the Board of Fire Commissioners last night.

The appointment is effective October 1, and will fill a vacancy left by the recent resignation of Robert J. Langling of 95 Emerson street, who has accepted a state job.

A native of the city, Remus was educated in local schools and has been employed for some time by the New York Central as a brakeman. An ex-marine he had served in the South Pacific theatre during World War 2. He has been a member of the A. H. Wicks Engine and Truck Company for about eight years. He is married and the father of two children.

Remus was third on the eligibility list submitted recently to the fire commissioners by the Municipal Civil Service Commission. Fred Henry Blankschen, 25 Lindsley avenue was first on the list and Herbert H. McElrath, 12 Brown avenue, was second.

The board members at last night's session were Frank Burr, president; Charles Derrenbacher and Henry F. Kelsch.

U. S. Crime

Only 29 per cent of the burglaries, 22 per cent of the larcenies, and 27 per cent of auto thefts in U. S. cities during 1949 were "cleared" by arrests, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

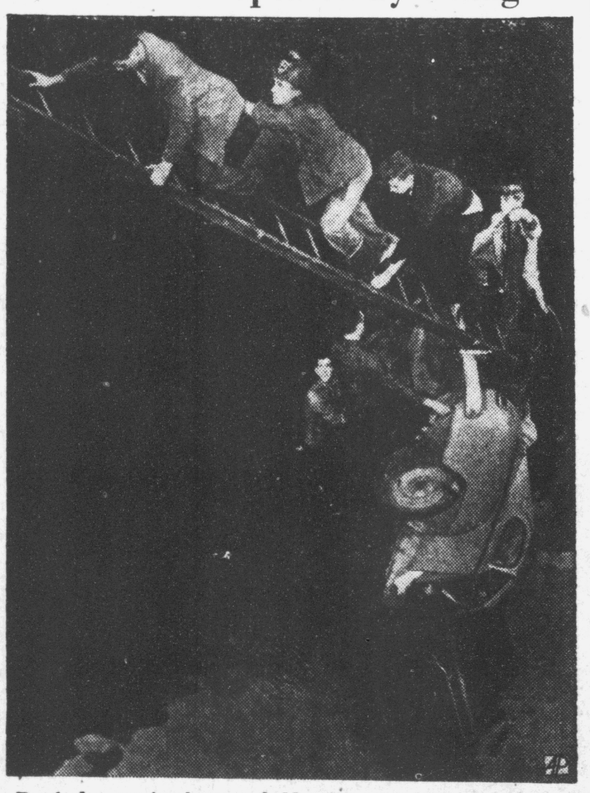
Stolen Car Speared by Piling



Perched precariously on a ladder from the Dover street bridge in Boston, a fireman accompanies to safety three of four youths who rocketed over the span in a stolen car, shown impaled from windshield to trunk on a piling. The fourth boy was thrown clear and swam ashore. Patrolmen Arthur Eunson and Paul W. Devine, who were chasing the car and leaped into the water to rescue the boys, are shown under the ladder hanging onto the car. (AP Wirephoto) operate as a bookmaker in Port Jervis."

Council Asked Action

"Chief Powrie's answer to Herting's question was, 'I didn't answer yes and I didn't answer no,'," the presentment said, adding that evidence was that Herting subsequently operated as a bookmaker in Port Jervis until the police committee of the Port Jervis Common Council asked action against him.

Then, the presentment said, Powrie asked the district attorney to arrest Herting.

In the case against 48-year-old Judge Ballman, he was accused of visiting his ex-wife at her Middletown apartment, and threatening her with a .22 caliber pistol.

Took Pistol Away

An affidavit, signed by her, said he threatened: "I have come here to do a job and I am going to do it." Their youngest of three daughters, Sandra, 15, allegedly grappled with Ballman, and wrested the pistol from his hand.

The mother fled upstairs and locked herself in a bedroom, while the daughter ran for police aid, authorities said. Ballman placed under arrest, was freed later in $1,000 bail.

He and his former wife were divorced last year. A Middletown judge for about eight years, he could draw a maximum penalty of 10 years in prison, if convicted on the charge.

Two Drivers Indicted

The grand jury also indicted two drivers, William A. Paltridge, 21, of Newburgh, N. Y., and Richard C. Fitzsimmons, 31, of Toronto, Canada, on charges of criminal negligence in operating a motor vehicle.

Paltridge, still held in jail, allegedly operated a car which caused the death of two utility employes working on a Newburgh project last June 30. Fitzsimmons, now free in $5,000 bail, allegedly operated a trailer truck in causing the death of three persons in an accident in the Newburgh area Aug. 5. The charge carries a maximum penalty of five years in prison.

Man Hurt in Fall

George MacEvery, of 85 John street, suffered a laceration of the head in a fall on Clinton avenue between Main and Pearl streets at about midnight. A police report at 12:05 a. m., said a man had fallen and Officers William Hanley and Kenneth Gaffney found it was MacEvery. They took him to Kingston Hospital.

Spencer Denies

stories amused me, so I didn't bother to contradict them. The truth is I decided to give my 500-acre estate to Father Divine the day I drove up to my superintendent's house in my old tired station wagon and saw eight beautiful automobiles parked there."

'Oh, No, Mr. Spencer'

Spencer told Ventura further: "When I asked if he was having a party my superintendent said, 'Oh, no, Mr. Spencer. The Cadillac is my pleasure car. The Buick is my work car. That Chrysler belongs to my wife, the Lincoln to my daughter, the Packard to my assistant, and the three Oldsmobiles to my sons, who are home on vacation from Harvard.' "

"Next day," said Spencer, "I gave the place to Father Divine and I've been living almost as luxuriously as my former superintendent ever since."

Didn't Deny Stories

The rest of the interview explains:

Mr. Spencer didn't deny stories that Father Divine cured him of gout. His version of the cure is that the telephone rang in his Krum Elbow manor at 3 one morning and after he had sprinted down two flights of stairs to answer it. Father Divine greeted him with, "I have just cured your gout. If you don't believe it, flex your toes."

"The old boy did, too," grinned Howland. "The sprint down stairs loosened the lesion between the two affected toes and I haven't had gout since."

Howland, in New York for the first time in several years from his Harbour Island retreat in the Bahamas, has been seen dancing with fashionable Mrs. H. Bradley Martin, watching polo at Meadowbrook with Winston Guest and his beauteous blond wife and laughing uproariously at his old friend Ethel Merman in "Call Me Madam" since his arrival.

When one of his St. Nicholas Club buddies asked the 61-year-young Mr. Spencer why he was selling his last 15 acres on the Hudson and making Harbour Island his permanent home, he deadpanned, "The Bahamas will be the only place missed by atom bombs. They'll need a lot of bright young fellows like me to start the new world.

Wardens Will Organize

An organizational meeting for air raid wardens in the Second Ward will be held at 8 p. m. Thursday at the A. H. Wicks Engine and Truck Company house on Wiltwyck avenue. Wardens already registered as well as any additional volunteers have been asked to attend the meeting by Walter Caunitz and Benjamin Storms, leaders in the two districts of the ward. It is expected that Sherwood E. Davis, city defense director, and Thomas Saccoman, chief of air warden services, will be present.
